School Wins Praise

Flying Crow Is Held In Esteem by Pupils

The Flying Crow is currently enjoying a lofty perch at Arlington Heights' Wilson junior high school.

Seventh and eighth grade journalism students have held the school newspaper in especially high esteem since receiving a letter from Brother Clarence, newspaper advisor at St. Michael high school, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

In a recent letter to the Flying Crow staff, Brother Clarence expressed his approval of the newspaper's content and style and offered to provide a guided tour of "the nation's oldest church" at Santa Fe.

ST. MICHAEL, a boarding and day school, is adjacent to the San Miquel mission, founded in 1610.

Mrs. Ridgely Jackson, Flying Crow advisor, explained an "exchange" copy of the Wilson paper was sent to St. Michael by Carolyn Swanson, exchange editor.

"The Flying Crow apparently made a very good impression in the southwest," Mrs. Ridgely said. "Brother Clarence was really quite uninhibited in his praise."

THE WILSON newspaper, averaging from four to six pages, is published monthly by and for the students. It discusses school programs and activities, community events and issues.

"I am impressed with the varied nature of your articles and the wealth of talent displayed by your staff," Brother Clarence commented in his letter. "Your 'Activities' column is crammed with projects of interest.

"Your numerous extra-curricular activities seem to be rich in content and crowned with success. Page one is really well set up. The art is effective, the themes clear."

He specifically cited a Christmas editorial, saying, "It reflects well on the efforts of contemporary youth to find a deeper meaning behind . . . the scenes of earth's history."

THE FLYING CROW is published as an activity by members of the Press club, Art club and Audio-Visual club. Press club members write the copy, Art club members handle all art work and Audio - Visual club members mimeograph, staple and distribute the paper.

Students spend 40 minutes each Tuesday in preparing a month's issue. Editorial, circulation and art departments are all housed in the Wilson multi-purpose room.

Mrs. Jackson, a former writer for the Chicago Tribune, instructs her 40 students in news writing, makeup and layout and other fundamentals. She correlates the journalism work with regular classroom studies, chiefly English and social studies.

FLYING CROW staffers include Christine Gerts and Jeff Huebner, editors - in - chief; Marlene Peterson and Lee Keeman, assistants to the editors; Janet Crowe and Lise Peck, makeup editors; Cheryl Moore and Leslie Taylor, art editors; Edward Hoffman, circulation manager; Kenneth Wiederhold, production manager.

Two Women Charged in Shoplifting

Two Rolling Meadows housewives were released on $500 bond each last Friday after being charged with shoplifting.

A complaint against them was signed by Charles Whetstone, manager of the National Tea food store at 1601 W. Campbell st., in Arlington Heights. Whetstone said he discovered the two attempting to leave the store Friday with bags of groceries not paid for.

UPON DISCOVERY, one of the women ran from the store. The other woman admitted to the charges and identified her friend, who was served with a warrant in her home. Their loot included cigarettes, steak, rice, bacon, eggs and magazines.

The women are scheduled to appear Friday, March 10, before Judge Walter P. Dahl in justice of the peace court, 1818 E. Northwest hwy.

Dog License Crackdown Is Promised

Eugene Korn, animal welfare officer of the Arlington Heights police department, announced this week his department will begin cracking down on residents whose dogs have not been licensed.

"The official deadline for licenses was January 1," Korn explained, "but we extended a courtesy period to February 15. Still there are many dogs in the village without licenses."

STRICT enforcement of the dog licensing ordinance will begin Thursday, March 16, Korn said. Owners of dogs without licenses after that time will be issued summonses to appear in court.

Dog licenses are now on sale in the village clerk's office for $3. Proof of current rabies vaccination must be presented before licenses will be issued.

Tom Thornton, director of the Arlington Heights park district, this week reported that only four residents have filed petitions of candidacy for four park board vacancies.

"Six others have taken out petitions, but haven't returned them as yet," Thornton said. Deadline for filing is Monday, March 6.

TO BE FILLED in the April 4 election are two two-year vacancies and two six-year vacancies. Those filing to date are all incumbent commissioners seeking re-election.

Announced candidates are Wilbert Becker, 116 S. Fernandez; Douglas Thomson, 919 S. Vail; Charles Cronin, 415 S. Evergreen, and George Schaefer, 25 S. Salem.

Signatures of 25 voters are required on nominating petitions.

No Contest For Library Board Seats

There'll be no contest this year for two vacancies on the board of directors of the Arlington Heights public library.

The only residents to file nominating petitions were Mrs. Nathalie Wallace, 120 S. Kennicott, and Robert Dibble, 817 N. Chestnut, an incumbent. Deadline for filing was Monday

MRS. BLANCHE Ashton, 319 Carlyle, a long-time member of the library board, did not file for re-election. The terms of Mrs. Ashton and Dibble expire in April.

Voters will elect the library directors April 18 on the same ballot carrying the names of village board candidates.

Last Two Days To Register

Wheeling township residents planning to vote in this spring's elections have today (Thursday) and Friday to register, it was pointed out this week by Dorothy Hauff, township clerk.

Those living in incorporated villages may register in their respective village clerk's offices, and residents of unincorporated areas may register in the township hall, 1818 E. Northwest hwy.

THIRD PARTY IN VILLAGE CONTEST

Bukowski To Head Ticket

Five Arlington Heights residents filed nominating petitions under the Good Management party banner Monday, thus guaranteeing a three-way race for offices to be filled in the April 18 village election.

Heading the slate as its candidate for village president is Robert H. Bukowski, 810 N. Dunton, currently a member of the village board of trustees.

Balancing the ticket are trustee candidates Mrs. Gladys Carlisle, 1006 S. Vail; K. Meyer, 705 N. Vail; and Henry P. Wist, 837 S. Vail. Village clerk candidate is Irving A. Johnson, 814 N. Princeton.

Opposing the latest candidates to announce will be those on the Citizens party and Caucus party slates. Filing deadline was Monday.

RELYING on their experience in village government, Good Management candidates represent more than 20 years of participating on village governing bodies. Each of the five candidates is now or has recently served on a governing capacity.

Bukowski, 38, is completing a four-year term as trustee. He was elected to that office as a member of the first successful Caucus ticket in 1957.

Mrs. Carlisle, wife of the late Edward G. Carlisle, village president from 1957 to his death in January, has been close to village problems while acting as secretary to her husband.

Meyer, 38, is a member of the zoning board of appeals. Wist, 45, served as chairman of the village zoning commission from July, 1959, to January, 1960. Johnson, 45, has been a member of the village plan commission for the past two years.

IN ANNOUNCING their candidacies, Good Management members indicated intentions to base their campaign on experience, past record of achievement and good reputation.

Listed as planks for a potential platform were sound money policies, work for tax stability through desirable industrial growth, community improvements.

Also included were maintenance of fair and consistent local laws, retention of the council-manager form of government and the upholding of residential building standards.

"As members of the Good Management party, we feel there is a demand for experience to cope with the complicated problems facing Arlington Heights," Bukowski told the Herald.

DURING Bukowski's term as trustee, accomplishments included adoption of the master plan, passage of a new subdivision ordinance, completion of comprehensive rezoning and completion of a new building code.

Good Management candidates will face stiff opposition from the Citizens party's Joseph Schneller, George Coker Barney Erickson, James Sutton and Mrs. Doris Jarvis, and the Caucus party's John Woods, Richard Glantz, William Moore, Norval Stephens and Mrs. Alberta Foerster.

Arlington Heights residents will vote Tuesday, April 18, to elect a village president, three trustees and village clerk.

Village Endorsement Stirs Hot Arguments

Fireworks which exploded in north Arlington Heights over the weekend have apparently fizzled out.

But the heat was on for a while, members of the Hasbrook Civic association told the Herald this week.

A good deal of real-lived controversy flared when it was learned the association's board of directors voted February 13 to endorse the five-member Citizens party ticket currently in the race for village office.

Chief objector to the endorsement was Robert M. Sheahan, 1610 N. Chestnut, who said he opposed the action "strictly because of principle."

"I was one of the founders of this association," Sheahan said Tuesday, "and feel it was organized on a non-political basis. The founders wanted to be sure Arlington Heights didn't become another Chicago."

UPON LEARNING of the endorsement last Thursday, Sheahan said he drafted a letter urging association members to attend the group's meeting Sunday at Wilson school.

The meeting featured a real verbal hassle, about half of the 120 in attendance supporting the board's endorsement and half opposing it. The session resulted in a standoff.

Association president Howard Sjogren, 1802 N. Walnut, who took part in the endorsement, said, "The whole thing resulted in a complete misunderstanding.

"The board felt it wanted to indicate support of George Coker, trustee candidate on the Citizens slate and an association representative, and went ahead with the endorsement. It was never meant to be an endorsement of the entire association."

Sjogren, too, circulated a letter to members, this one preceding Sheahan's and asking attendance at Sunday's meeting "to ask questions" of Citizens candidates. Due to the controversy, the candidates cancelled their appearance, however.

JOSEPH Schneller, Citizens candidate for village president, took the series of events philosophically.

"We never solicited the association's support, but were honestly flattered when the board of directors endorsed us. Now there's a fence mending job to be done."

Trustee Quits Legal Committee

Trustee Robert Bukowski resigned Monday from a committee appointed to study the legal needs of the village, saying he feels his continued membership "might pose a problem in the coming election."

"I'm told I'll have to face the problem of my association with the village attorney in my campaign for village president," Bukowski told the board of trustees.

"IN ORDER TO avoid embarrassment for the village and my runningmates, I think it best that I not be a member of the legal committee during the campaign."

Bukowski and village attorney Stephen Jurco are both personal friends and business associates. One or more of the parties opposing Bukowski's Good Management ticket have as a campaign plank the hiring of a full-time village attorney.

Jurco, partner in the law firm of Jurco, Damisch and Sinson, Chicago, serves the village in a part-time capacity. He was appointed to the post by the late village president Edward G. Carlisle.

TRUSTEE SAMUEL Wit, chairman of the legal committee, suggested another trustee be appointed to replace Bukowski. Village president Harold Carlson named Melvin Kurtz, who was not present to accept or refuse the appointment.

Wit said he hoped the three-man committee, charged with studying the duties, functions and costs of village counsel, would complete its study by the end of April.

Suburbanite Is Charged In Forgery

Bruce E. Swanson of Cary, Ill., was charged with forgery and released on $500 bond last week after he admitted falsely using a gasoline credit card lost by an Arlington Heights trustee.

Swanson said he found the credit card in December at a local service station after it was dropped by Robert H. Bukowski, 810 N. Dunton, a member of the village board.

BUKOWSKI told police he thought he had misplaced the card in his home, but realized it was being used illegally when he received a bill for $43.93. Swanson was traced through his vehicle license plate number.

He will appear in justice of the peace court before Judge Walter P. Dahl on March 10.

Deadline Near

Final registration for the Arlington Heights Little League will be held this Saturday, March 4, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Recreation park fieldhouse, Douglas and Miner sts.

Complete details will be found in the sports section.

Editor's Column

STUART R. FADDOCK

World events are developing so fast that this week's column may be out-dated by the time it reaches the reader.

Jack Kennedy is kept busy bemoaning U. S. economic conditions, Russian competition, warring tribes in the Congo and Southeast Asia, to say nothing about Castro's activities.

This column is going to be confined to just Africa —which is a big enough job for one editor.

We received much of our information about conditions in Africa from Dr. Don McClure, one of the speakers at the Clearwater Mission Assembly. He is a missionary in Western Ethiopia under the program of the United Presbyterian church. After spending 20 years in almost inaccessible parts of that country, he knows the thinking of many of the tribes of Africa.

All speakers at the Assembly stressed the importance of religion in the sane development of the small African countries.

Great Britain spent 30 years training the people in the Sudan for self rule, which was realized in 1958.

It started with filling the lesser government positions with natives. When complete independence arrived it only meant that where a British official occupied a desk one day, a Sudanese occupied the same desk the next morning.

Belgium held the Congo solely for profit. When they left that country to govern itself, they wrecked the official offices, tore telephones off the wall, broke up furniture and even destroyed all medicines and drugs.

Communism has not entered South Africa because of the "police state." The time is coming when there will be a blood bath—the longer it is held off the more terrific it will be.

Unless the U. N. moves in and takes over the Congo and eventually South Africa, not one white person will be left. Missionaries and good people will go with the rest.

Western civilization of itself has little effect. Its people are confused because traders and money went in first.

If the philosophy of Christ had been first, the effect would have been much different.

Compare that situation with Selassie feels that the price of progress can be too great. He's not the 142nd descendant of King Solomon for nothing, that in Egypt where U. S. prestige is high. People of Egypt love America and look to the U. S. for leadership—both moral and spiritual.

Haile Selassie, ruler of Ethiopia, is a Christian and has hope of uniting his people. He has dreams but will move slowly—will not allow his people to jump centuries.

He insists upon matching dollar for dollar that his country receives from Uncle Sam.

Candidates To Address 4 Churches

Four Arlington Heights churches will join forces Saturday, March 11 in sponsoring a progressive dinner which will culminate in a forum for all 12 candidates for village president and trustees.

Taking part in the venture are members of the First Methodist church of Arlington Heights, 1903 E. Euclid; First Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunton; Our Saviour Lutheran church, 1234 N. State rd., and St. John United Church of Christ, 314 N. Evergreen.

ACCORDING TO William Griffith and Charles Jenks, members of the churches will travel from church to church for the dinner, ending up at one to hear comments of the candidates.

Those seeking village office include candidates of the Caucus, Citizens and Good Management parties.

Gas Station Is Burglarized

Ralph Meverden of Bensenville, owner of a Sunoco service station at 2102 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights, reported a break-in occurred sometime Monday night.

Entrance to the station was gained through a rear window and an undetermined amount of cash and a coin changer were taken, Meverden told police. (AF

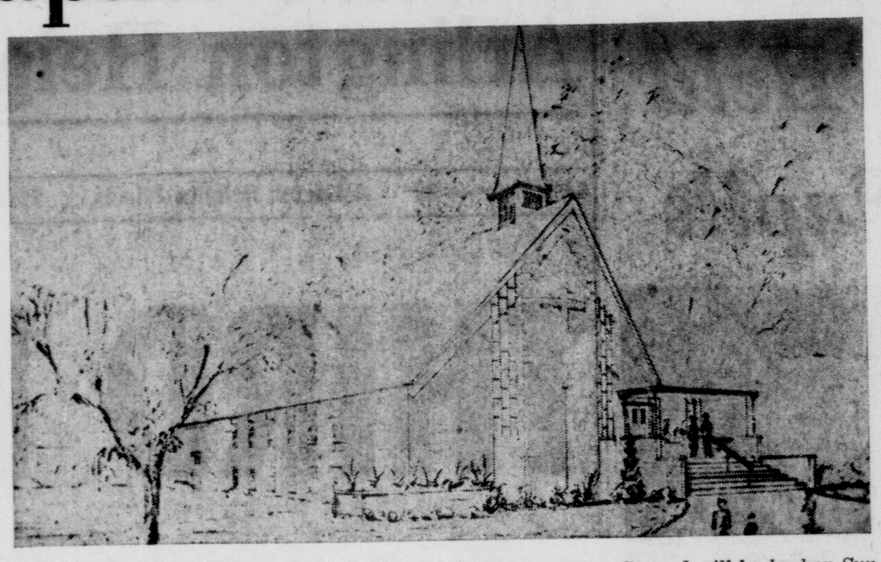
Ground Breaking Sunday

New Baptist Church Planned for Suburb

Ground will be broken Sunday afternoon on a three-acre site at 1200 W. Campbell st. for the $75,000 First Baptist church of Arlington Heights, it was announced this week by P. D. Mustric, pastor.

The 4 p.m. ground breaking ceremony marks the culmination of five and a half years of effort by the 144-member congregation to establish a Baptist church in Arlington Heights.

The new church will contain 5200 square feet and will include a sanctuary, pastor's study, Sunday school facilities, fully equipped kitchen and sound proof children's room in the balcony.



ARCHITECT'S SKETCH of new Baptist church of Arlington Heights indicates attractive, traditional exterior with steeple near front. Ground will be broken Sunday for the $75,000 structure at 1200 W. Campbell st. (AF

CONSTRUCTION is expected to begin about March 15, pastor Mustric told the Herald. He said the work is affiliated with the Conservative Baptist associations of America and Illinois.

The church exterior will be of buff brick with a crabstone front and cathedral glass. Plans call for the future addition of a Christian education unit and a larger sanctuary to the east of the building.

In July, 1955, a group of 14 people gathered for the purpose of planning establishment of a Baptist church in Arlington Heights. Inaugural services were held at Arlington high school on July 10.

IN AUGUST, 1959, the congregation purchased about three acres of land on west Campbell st., and in November began making plans for the church building.

Members of the building committee are Raymond Trulson, chairman; Ray Oravetz, secretary, Chris Brandon, Charles Holmes and J. H. Niell Jr. Church trustees are Woodrow Adams, chairman, Oravetz, secretary, Holmes and Donald DePollo.

The Baptist congregation now meets at a local school. Pastor Mustric, a graduate of Trinity seminary, Chicago, is a former optometrist who practiced in Highland Park and Park Ridge.

Church activities include Sunday school, morning worship, prayer and Bible study, youth group meetings, Awana clubs for boys and girls and Sunday evening praise service. (AF

Famous Marionettes Coming This Weekend

Arlington Heights PTA will sponsor the marionette show, "Pinocchio," March 18 and 19 at the Miner Junior high by the Reed Marionette Co. "Pinocchio" will be shown four times Saturday, March 18, 10:30 a.m. and 1, 3 and 5 p.m.; Sunday, March 19, at 2:40 and 4:30 p.m.

The Reed production is known throughout the midwest for lively and wholesome family entertainment.

THE performance features 21 hand-carved characters, all scaled to one-third life size, and 15 colorful scenes. The action is controlled by the manipulation of nearly 400 strings. Geppetto, the woodcarver, actually carves a puppet from a block of wood. There is Longbeard, the giant, who works puppets on his own small stage; the bad boy who turns to a donkey, and a great sea monster who swallows Pinocchio.

One full year and thousands of dollars have gone into the staging of the Reed Show. The production from the stage, scenery, lighting and script, to the puppet characters themselves is the work of the Reed family of Delavan, Wis.

After the performance the puppeteers will demonstrate how the puppets work. (A

There can be no competition between religions in his country. The king has apportioned his country into 20 areas, each for a particular religious faith.

The missionaries do not mention their particular faith as Dr. McClure said, "we just teach Christ." That doctrine leaves competitive religion to the supposedly enlightened people of the world.

When asked about the situation in Algeria, he repeated, "I have not personally visited that country but I believe the time is coming when all white men will be compelled to leave."

The story of Africa is being vividly told today in recently published books of the Book of the Month club.

Air Park Annexation At Meeting

A group of property owners living in the unincorporated area south of Arlington Heights will meet Saturday to discuss the pros and cons of being annexed to the Arlington Heights park district.

Being advised of the home owners' meeting, park commissioners voted Tuesday to defer a decision on including the unincorporated area in a coming referendum until Tuesday, March 7.

The property owners will meet at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Pioneer park fieldhouse. Park commissioners have been invited to attend the meeting.

COMMISSIONERS passed an ordinance February 14 petitioning the county court to call a referendum for the annexation of 240 acres located in the southeastern corner of the village.

They also hope to include the Scarsdale Estates subdivision and the areas to the south of the village in the referendum. A tentative schedule sets the referendum for Saturday, April 15.

Aluminum Use

The average home constructed last year contained 170 pounds of aluminum, according to an estimate by the Aluminum Association.

Something in Common

Mature Women with 'Spunk' Discover Fun with Group

If you are an older woman with time on your hands there's a group that wants to get to know you.

Hard to identify by any name or characteristics, this gang of gals now numbers six. And they would like more—especially if new people are bridge or bolivia players.

Here's the story.

About nine months ago, two or three women were introduced to one another in Winston Park, Palatine. They were all older women, many of them grandmothers, who lived with their children in the subdivision. Through their daughters or just by taking walks one lady met another, and the group grew to six. All present members live within walking distance of each other.

They found they liked to play canasta, and the pattern was set for a regular Thursday meeting. Canasta soon changed to bolivia. Three decks makes it more challenging!

AFTER dessert, the ladies settle down to their cards. Each member contributes 15 cents to be awarded to the day's winner. In addition each lady puts a quarter in the kitty every Thursday. The thought was that this money would finance a luncheon - theater party in Chicago.

The trip to Chicago got sidelined in favor of a less arduous journey last Thursday, when the six and three daughters went to the Milk Pail near Elgin.

The trip had a two-fold purpose. The first was to spend the $42 pot that was beginning to burn a hole in the bolivia players' pocket.

THE SECOND was to fete Mrs. Florence Wells, a member who is moving to Syracuse, N. Y., March 1 with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Wells, Jr.

The journey was planned for breakfast. and what did the ladies have?

"Well, it was 11 o'clock, and really nearer to lunch time, so we had the works—a full luncheon," they said. Mrs. Helen Nelson, hostess for the day, informed them that the regular dessert was out since none of them were too interested in food after "breakfast" anyway.

Mrs. Wells' leaving was also the reason for a special luncheon and handkerchief shower given Tuesday before the Milk Pail excursion. Hostess then was Mrs. Grace E. Ferguson, prime mover to get the group enlarged.

"When we lived in Philadelphia, I belonged to a leisure hour group for older people. We also met once a week to sew, play games, or work on different projects," she said.

"We would like very much to form that kind of group here. If we got enough members with different interests, we could split up so there was a sewing group one day and a card group another."

DO THESE gals have fun? Let them tell it.

Mrs. Wells — "I never thought I'd be so lucky to find so many friends like this here. I'm going to miss our little meetings. They have given me something to look forward to every week. If I could stay I'd like to meet another day to sew."

Mrs. Nelson —"We've got all sorts of trips planned. One day we're going to visit the Haeger Pottery store near Dundee. And we still hope to get a Chicago trip in. Of course now we have to start saving our quarters for an even bigger trip—to Syracuse to see Mrs. Wells."

ONE THING the group insists on is that it is not called the Grandmother club.

"That makes us sound sort of old and crippled," Mrs. Ferguson said. "There's a lot of spunk left in us, and we think people would be more interested if we called ourselves an older ladies group or senior woman's club."

"Besides, we're not even all grandmothers," she added.

Mrs. Nelson is the only one who doesn't qualify for the grandmother title. But Mrs. Mary Dolan sort of takes care of things for everyone. She has 24 grandchildren. Her home is with the John Kohl's, responsible for six of the 24.

Newest member of the club is Mrs. Kay O'Malley who will take Mrs. Wells' place.

"But if we could have the names of women interested in meeting with us once a week, we would be glad to call on them or invite them for coffee," Mrs. Ferguson said.

SO GRANDMOTHERS or older women or people with free time—If you have an interest in cards, sewing, knitting, basket weaving, or just conversation, you know where to find a group with similar interests. Mrs. Ferguson may be called at Flanders 8-1511.

THE LADIES ARE set for another afternoon of cards. This group of six has been meeting weekly for the past nine months. They are anxious for additional members if women would like an afternoon of sewing or cards. The women, all residents of Wintson Park, Palatine, are (l. to r.) the Mesdames Elizabeth Collis, Helen L. Nelson, Florence L. Wells, Mary Dolan, Grace E. Ferguson, and Agnes Smith.

Legislature 'Goofed' On Language of Bill

REP. BERNARD PESKIN

You've all heard the old saying that when a doctor makes a mistake, he buries it. Well—I, along with 82 other lawyers who were members of the House and Senate in the 71st General Assembly two years ago, wish there were some way we could bury a whopper of a mistake we made.

I speak of the $150 million bond issue which was passed by referendum at last November's election. The Illinois Attorney General, last week, in a legal opinion requested by the Governor, held that the funds could be spent only to repair, rehabilitate or enlarge existing state mental institutions. Thus, the language of the bill we passed two years ago prohibits the construction of new state institutions, which was the intent—yes, the dream—of all of us.

IT SEEMS HARD to imagine, I know, that at least one out of the 83 lawyers in the General Assembly would have read carefully a bill as important as this, and not have caught the mistake. It hardly seems possible that the lawyers in the Legislative Reference Bureau, who drafted the language in the bill, could have passed it out without making note of the effect of the language. It seems even more improbable that the then Governor's legal advisor (this was part of Governor Stratton's administration program) could have approved the language as such—unless Stratton and Dr. Bettag actually intended the bill to read that way.

The members of the Legislature, in failing to call attention to the language, were guilty of two common faults.

First, none of us read carefully every bill which is introduced. This is a physical impossibility, with over 2600 bills, most of them going into the hopper during the months of April and May. Secondly, we fall into a bad habit of skimming through the bills—even the important ones, feeling that the sponsor has studied it carefully, and we vote it up or down, based on the substance of the bill, paying no attention, in most instances, to the technical draftsmanship in it.

THIS IS A flimsy excuse, at best, I know. But it is the reason for the bill's passage through the House and Senate.

I don't think it's the reason, however, for the original drafting of the bill in this manner.

I can only conceive of its approval by Dr. Bettag and Governor Stratton because that is the way they wanted it.

This points up the difference in philosophy of the administration between Dr. Bettag and Dr. Gerty, the new Director of Welfare. Bettag believed in large institutions. Dr. Gerty believes in small institutions scattered throughout the state, near the areas where they are needed.

HE FEELS that in smaller hospitals, while the initial expense is larger and the per capita cost of administration is greater, the patients will receive better care and treatment and will be returned to the outside world faster, thereby resulting ultimately, in far lower costs.

I think, when all the facts are finally known, that an outraged public in this State is going to demand somebody's scalp. 83 lawyers are hoping it won't be ours.

For Subdivision

Vote to Table Improvements

At the urging of members Edwin Culbertson and Russell Colvin, the Arlington Heights board of local improvements voted last week to table for two months its decision on a major improvement program for the Park Manor subdivision.

Colvin entered the motion to table during an adjourned public hearing Thursday. The motion was approved unanimously.

BUT THE suggestion for postponement was made earlier by Culbertson, who advocated more study of the project and offered to huddle privately with homeowners in an attempt to iron out some of the project's wrinkles.

Members of the Park Manor Homeowners association took the board's action with mixed emotions from their audience seats. Most, however, agreed the postponement was in their best interest.

Said association president Donald Burdick: "We want the program, and we want it now. But we don't want to rush into something of this magnitude without being ready."

Residents of the 80-acre subdivision petitioned the board last year for installation of sanitary and storm sewers, water mains and street paving. The 50-home area is currently served by septic tanks and wells.

IMPLEMENTATION of the program has been held up because homeowners claim the estimated cost of $1,016,503.94 is much higher than they can afford. The result has been alternate proposals and counter proposals.

Most recent compromise is that submitted by the board Thursday. It contemplates the vacation of Rockwell and Orchard sts. in the subdivision, cutting $55,000 from the total cost. The previous omission of sidewalks cut $100,016.30.

Major reason for the topic's postponement to April 27 was confusion over costs per frontage foot. Homeowners have balked at engineers' estimates of $70 to $80 per front foot, claiming $25 to $30 will handle it nicely.

Board chairman Harold Klingner accepted Culbertson's offer to meet with the homeowners and noted that a village trustee would also be asked to join informal discussions. (A

Bethel Church To Mark Anniversary with Service

A service of thanksgiving and praise will mark the third anniversary of Bethel Lutheran church, Rohlwing rd. and Briarwood lane, Palatine. An informal service of family hymn-sing will be held at the church March 12 at 4 p.m. A small hymnal suitable for family use in the home will be given to all who attend.

Feature of the afternoon will be the Westchester Bellringers under the guidance of Mrs. George Heisler, director of parish education for Grace Lutheran church of Westchester.

SHE SUGGESTED the bell choir in 1957 as a means of holding youths of the church within a musical organization when changing voices ruled them out of vocal groups. Competition is brisk in the high school group to win coveted positions of regular bellringer, alternate or member of the training squad. Music is transposed to poster-size pages, and each youth wields two bells, each representing a note on the scale. The bells, imported from Holland, range from 18 ounces to just under two pounds. The felt or leather covered clappers produce a sound far softer than ordinary bells.

Boys who will play at the Bethel service will be Bob Smith, Bob Peterson, Tom Kubiszewski, Tom Erb, Chuck Giovanetti, Hugh Nellens, Jim Vandenburg and Paul Harshbarger.

WHEN BETHEL LUTHERAN church celebrates its third anniversary March 12, the Westchester Bellringers will be featured on the afternoon program. High school boys compete to advance from the training squad to a regular bell-ringer in the unique musical group of the west suburban church. Covered clappers soften the tones of the bells imported from Holland. (AKP

Hourly Schedules

Expanded Commuter Train Service Set

An experiment in new hourly train service to and from Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Palatine during "off-peak" hours will begin next Monday, March 6, on the Chicago and North Western railway to attract shoppers and other occasional riders to the road's new Commuter Streamliners.

All suburban stations north to Barrington and Crystal Lake will get the new expanded mid-day and evening service designed to attract "Off - peak" riders to the road's new Streamliners, both northbound and southbound.

FOR THE first time, Cumberland station between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines will have fine midday train service.

C&NW's new hourly "off - peak" runs are, of course, in addition to present rush-hour trains from the suburbs on the Wisconsin division to Crystal Lake.

"The new hourly schedules and expanded service are designed to make it easy for housewives, shoppers and other irregualr riders to remember the departure and arrival times of trains without a timetable," said F. V. Koval, director of C&NW commuter service.

"We hope the hourly trains will bring new business to stores at Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Palatine from other suburbs," he said, "and attract new train riders both northbound and southbound."

CHICAGO-BOUND trains from Mount Prospect will leave at 37 minutes after each hour starting at 9:37, 10:37, 11:37, etc. the last train to Chicago will leave at 9:37 p.m.

From Arlington Heights, the number to remember is 33. All "off - peak" mid-day and evening runs to Chicago will leave AH at 33 minutes after each hour starting with the 9:33 a.m. train.

From Palatine, the new trains will leave at 9:28, 10:28, 11:28, etc., through the day until the last train at 9:28 p.m.

There will be one exception to the hourly pattern inbound. There will be no inbound train to Chicago from Mount Prospect at 7:37, AH at 7:33 and Palatine at 7:28 p.m.

OUTBOUND trains from Chicago will also be on regular hourly departures from C&NW's downtown terminal starting at 6:30 a.m., 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, etc., without interruption at 30 minutes after the hour until the departure from Chicago at 3:30 p.m. when the rush-hour starts. After the rush-hour runs, the hourly pattern begins again at 7:30 p.m., 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30, with the last train leaving Chicago at 12:30 a.m., after midnight.

The hourly outbound runs arrive Mount Prospect at 11 minutes after each hour, AH at 16 after, and Palatine at 21 after. This means running times to those communities of 41, 46 and 51 minutes, respectively, from Chicago.

Koval said that six to eight minutes of running time will be clipped from some midday and late evening runs under the uniform hourly schedules.

RUSH-HOUR trains inbound in the morning and outbound from Chicago during the afternoon and early evening will remain virtually unchanged. During those periods trains leave at more frequent intervals.

But Arlington Heights will get another fine late rush - hour train to Chicago on weekdays starting Monday. No. 642, which has made its last stop at Palatine in the suburbs will stop at AH at 8:43 a.m. starting Monday, arriving Chicago 9:15 a.m.

"Hourly trains eliminate the bother of checking a timetable," Koval said, "and the possibility that timetables kept at home may not always be up-to-date."

THE NEW schedules are experimental, but if successful in terms of patronage and use they will become a regular feature of C&NW's new Commuter Streamliner service to northwest suburbs, he said.

Stepped - up service during "off-peak" hours is a move to attract more mid-day and evening volume as North Western's complete conversion to streamlined, bi-level trains moves into high gear. The road's new trains have foam-rubber seating, bright fluorescent lighting, and are air conditioned in summer and electrically heated in winter.

All old conventional coaches will be scrapped by the middle of this year when the last of 200 new coaches are delivered from the carbuilder—Pullman-Standard.

THE NEW hourly "off - peak" service by C&NW marks the first time that Wisconsin division suburbs have been linked together with regular hourly trains, Koval said. "Use by suburbanites will determine whether this additional train service will become a permanent feature of our modernized service to the suburbs," he said.

Timetables showing the new service starting Monday are now available at the road's local stations and downtown station. (AMP

Youth Is Accused of Tampering

Vernon Berger, the 17-year-old Wheeling township youth who seems to be suffering from exposure to the Arlington Heights police station, entered a plea of guilty last Friday to charges of tampering with an auto.

Judge Walter P. Dahl sentenced Bergner, of 203 S. Elmhurst rd., to 14 days in the county jail, but considered the time served.

THE TAMPERING charge resulted from the youth's arrest February 11 for taking a Mt. Prospect man's auto without permission. He spent 14 days in custody awaiting trial.

Bergner was fined $200 on February 6 after admitting the theft of a radio microphone from an Arlington Heights police car. (AF

Letter Campaign Is Urged for Redistricting

"Now is the time for the individual voters of the 13th Congressional district to write personal letters to the chairmen of the committees in the state legislature dealing with the re-districting of the Congressional districts of the State of Illinois," stated Laurence A. Kusek, executive director of the committee to re-district the 13th Congressional district.

"The voters of the 13th Congressional district should inform these chairmen that fair Congressional Representation is wanted," continued Kusek. He suggests that in writing to the chairmen it should be pointed out to them that the present 13th Congressional district has a population of over 900,000 whereas the average population of Congressional districts in the state of Illinois will be about 420,000. This means that the present 13th Congressional district should have at least two Congressional representatives when re-districting is completed.

The chairmen to whom these letters should be written are: Hon. Richard A. Napolitano, Representative, State Capitol, Springfield, Ill., who is chairman of the committee on re-districting in the House and Hon. John A. Graham, Senator, State Capitol, Springfield, Ill., who is chairman of the committe on re-districting in the Senate. (B8

Watershed Project OK'd by District

Des Plaines and all points south and north-northwest in the Des Plaines River watershed will benefit from a construction project approved Thursday by the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago.

The job calls for a control structure with sluice gate to be constructed in the district's big Upper Des Plaines sanitary interceptor sewerline at a point on River rd. south of Rand rd. in Des Plaines.

IN EFFECT, the project will double the sewage flow capacity of interceptors serving northwest suburbs. The sewage now has only one way to flow, down sanitary sewers leading to the district's treatment plant in Stickney.

When the new control structure is in operation, engineers will be able to speed up the flow by shunting the sewage to interceptors leading to the district's big treatment plant in Skokie, it was explained.

The district's current schedule calls for bids on this job from contractors to be opened May 4. (B8

Two Coffee Machines Started Successful Foods Enterprise

Eight years ago Matt Cockrell invested his future in two coffee machines.

Today's result is the Cockrell Coffee Service, an established Arlington Heights firm serving automated foods to northwest suburbanites in 75 locations.

Some 150 Cockrell-owned machines, ranging from a simple candy machine to a fully automatic cafeteria, fill the food bill for employees and visitors in factories, businesses, schools and public buildings.

Matt Cockrell, owner of the company bearing his name, knows service is the key to any success he's achieved. He learned this while devoting 20 years to circulation and advertising in the newspaper field.

"OURS IS strictly a local business," Cockrell explained. "We operate within a six-mile radius of Arlington Heights, purposely limiting the business to this area."

The reason for the limitation, the 43-year-old businessman confided, is to maintain a close, personal contact with customers. For example, never is a Cockrell serviceman more than a half an hour away from a repair job.

"You have to service the customer when and how he wants to be serviced," Cockrell said. "That's why we concentrate the service area and handle such a wide variety of food machines."

Foods dispensed by Cockrell machines include soups, canned hot foods, fruit juices, pie, sandwiches, salads, desserts, hot dogs, cookies, milk, hot chocolate, candy, soft drinks, crackers, gum and others.

Cockrell Coffee Service headquarters at 112 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, has one of the most complete vending setups in the Chicagoland area. The shop is prepared to quickly handle on-the-spot repairs or to completely overhaul complicated equipment.

COCKRELL, who lives at 905 E. Euclid with his wife, Betty, and their three children, Mary Elizabeth, 16, Carol, 11, and Matt, 6, is proud of the gleaming condition of his machines.

"We feel our sanitation standards are way above the industry average," Cockrell noted. "Our service costs are proportionately much higher than the average, but we feel money spent for cleanliness is money well spent."

Cockrell is aso proud of his service record. In eight years of operation the company has lost only four customers to competitors, and two of those have returned to the fold voluntarily.

The Cockrell firm is one of few vending companies which prepares its own food in a local commissary. Quantities of sandwiches, salads and desserts are prepared daily to insure their freshness.

SERVICING four company routes under the direction of service supervisor Jim Darby of Mt. Prospect are Marvin Wessel, Rolling Meadows; Tom Black, Arlington Heights; Maurie Umbdenstock, Arlington Heights, and John Macior, Rolling Meadows.

Manager of the commissary department is Jeanette Hoffman of Arlington Heights, who works in close association with Bob Burt of Elk Grove Village, the company's stock cerk.

Six vehicles, four trucks and two station wagons, are ready for service 24 hours a day and seven days a week. Cockrell has been called out of bed to service a machine in the middle of the night. He considers this routine.

"Sure, I'd rather let the repair job go until morning," Cockrell admits, "but when a man is working nights and wants a cup of coffee, it's our obligation to be sure he gets it."

FOUR TYPES of coffee machine are used in the Cockrell operation. Originally only the instant coffee type was used. Now there's the liquid concentrate type and two ground coffee types, one that brews each cup individually and one that maintains a 20-cup reservoir.

Some machines are mechanical, some electrical. Their average cost is $700, with some valued as high as $1,750. The average coffee sale per person per day is two cups, with some suburbanites drinking as many as 15 cups a day.

What goes into a cup of "machine" coffee? Cockrell says a cup with cream and sugar contains coffee, hot water, cream (fresh or powor syrup form).

"The product is constantly being improved," Cockrell pointed out. "When a better mousetrap is made, we'll be springing it." (B9 PREPAIRING foods in locally-maintained commissary is an integral part of the Cockrell Coffee Service operation. Here employee readies daily quota of hamburgers, adding onions and relishes. Cockrell vending machines dispense 20 varieties of foods in 75 northwest suburban locations. (B9 COMPLICATED MACHINE is examined in the Cockrell Coffee Service shop by Jim Darby, company service supervisor, and Marvin Wessell, Rolling Meadows, and Tom Black, Arlington Heights. The machines, dispensing everything from soup to nuts at the drop of a coin, range in price from $500 to $1,750. (B9

Okay Classrooms In Two Districts

Two northwest suburban school districts have been granted classrooms by the Illinois State School Building Commission, Dr. Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, announced this week.

The two school districts, Palatine District 15, and Feehanville District 26, were among 21 suburban school districts out of 30 applying granted 287 classrooms by the commission up to Jan. 1, 1961. Costs of the rooms approved, in a report prepared by William H. Spurgin, director of research for the superintendent's office, totals $6,566,147.

THE SCHOOL building commission provides funds with which to build additions to existing schools or new schoolhouses for districts which have exhausted their bonding power.

Palatine District 15 had submitted three separate requests, but the first two were rejected for technical failure to comply with the law and failure to establish need.

Its third request, however, will result in 24 classrooms granted at a cost of $652,716 for buildings under construction or completed.

The Feehanville school district has been granted a total of 10 classrooms at a cost of $240,820 for a building under construction.

THE ONLY OTHER northwest suburban school district, applying, Mt. Prospect District 57, saw its request turned down due to failure to establish need.

The school districts mentioned in the report show disposition of applications filed up to Dec. 10, 1960, with the commission.

Said Superintendent Puffer of the grants: "This loan has been a lifesaver to many of our suburban Cook county school systems. Without it, classes would have been excessive in size, or more pupils would have been forced to attend school on half day sessions.

"However, additional funds must be appropriated by the state legislature in the present biennium to meet the continuing needs of state school districts, a major number of which are located in suburban Cook county." (B-8

At Arlington High School

Fine Arts Experiment Has Cultural Rewards

Strange sounds were escaping from Arlington high school's art rooms last week, and fine arts appreciation students told their friends that they were "experimenting."

Instructors James Walker and Robert Wolff solved the riddle of music and art by explaining that the class, an elective for juniors and seniors, was producing art while under the influence of what less classically tuned ears might have termed "weird" music.

With Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" as a background, the students dipped into the water colors Monday. Tuesday De Bussy's "Nuages" was the inspiration for impressionistic creations with pastel chalks, and Berlioz' "Symphony Fantastique" accompanied the classes' work with clay Wednesday.

WALKER, AN art instructor, and Wolff, a music instructor, team up for the class, which normally emphasizes an appreciation of the two arts rather than actual participation.

During a unit on creativity, however, the students experimented with the effect of music on mood and, consequently, art. Previous instruction on the three composers' works aided the students in interpreting the music.

"We got some rather interesting results," commented Wolff, who termed the experiment "amazingly successful." "The students were definitely influenced in their choice of colors, forms, and composition."

WALKER ADDED that while there is nothing really unusual about the combination of hands and mind in art work, the students were surprised by the effect of mood on their work. He pointed out that, while music won't produce genius where genius did not formerly exist, it does aid the creative thinker.

The class itself is a sort of experiment. Only one other school, New Trier of Winnetka, has tried the team-teaching approach to the arts.

IN ITS SECOND year as part of High School District 214's curriculum, the class attracts students with talents in one of the two arts or teenagers who want "a better understanding of the classics."

To supplement the text book and classroom activities, the students visit art museums and attend musicals and operas.

Opportunity Council

Migration Is Program Topic

A former migrant worker who became a pioneering social worker will address Opportunity Council, Inc., Thursday, March 9 at 8:30 p.m. in the community room of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association.

John Kearney, director of Friendship House, an institution "building bridges across racial barriers" in Chicago, will discuss the migration to Chicago at the public meeting next week.

He has been described as an expert "expert" since he not only knows his subjects from academic study, widespread reading, and committee work, but from personal experience.

AFTER leaving school at the sixth grade, Kearney followed the crops until he was 16. He joined the Marine Corps and picked up a voluminous reading habit when, with 13 others, he was cut off from communications for many months on a small Pacific island.

After service, the social worker returned to his home in Buchanan county, Iowa, completing his elementary requirements and four years of high school in six months.

He earned a bachelor's degree in philosophy from St. Mary college, Winona, Minnesota, and is now a candidate for his master's at Loyola university, Chicago.

KEARNEY has worked with the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico as migrant specialist; has served as chairman of the migrant worker committee of the Catholic Council on Working Life; now serves as chairman of the committee for Fair Credit Practices in Illinois ;is a member of the Chicago Archdiocesan Lay Missionary committee; and teaches a course in church history for the International Catholic Lay Auxiliaries' trainees in Evanston.

Expansion Features Of Bank Are Told

Rapid growth of First Federal Savings and Loan association, Des Plaines, was credited this week with the firm's recent expansion program.

The association building on Lee st. has been enlarged and remodeled, including doubling space of the main floor area.

Other features are:

—a parking lot adjacent to the building;

—a new side entrance leading directly from the parking lot to the main savings section;

—new teller windows and record - keeping equipment;

—two new sidewalk tellers on Lee street;

—an all-hours depository for savers;

—an expanded safe deposit vault and additional coupon booths.

A NEW FEATURE is the large-size Vacation Box now available. These are roomy lockers where people can safeguard silverware, heirlooms, and all large valuable possessions when they leave home for extended periods.

First Federal's new home loan department includes private offices for loan closing.

There is also a special service department which provides Save by Mail, travelers checks, Christmas savings accounts, and other financial facilities.

FIRST FEDERAL'S new building is now open for public inspection. (B8

Brigade 'Adopts' Heart Patient, 3

A three-year-old youngster has become something of a mascot to the 45th Artillery Brigade of Arlington Heights.

The six pints of blood used in a delicate heart operation performed on the child at Lutheran General hospital in Park Ridge were given by seven 45th brigade members.

It was the first open heart surgery performed at the hospital located at 1775 Dempster st. since the facility opened a year ago.

A 10-MAN medical team performed the three-hour operation on little Bradley Daugherty of Lake Bluff to repair an atrial septal defect. This is a hole, about two centimeters in diameter or the size of a penny, in the inner wall separating the two sides of the heart.

The congenital defect allowed small amounts of blood to pass from one side of the heart to the other without benefit of receiving fresh oxygen.

A medical team consisting of surgeons, anesthesiologists, scrub and circulating nurses were involved in the operation. With the aid of a by-pass pump-oxygymotor, surgeons entered the heart's atruim to repair the septal defect. The six pints of blood donated were used by the heart lung machine, operated by a staff physician and technician during surgery.

MEMBERS OF the Arlington Heights artillery brigade who responded to the call for blood are: Harold Hollingsworth, Irvin Steward, Paul Stevens, Gilbert Zarate, Joseph Monastere, Raymond Barta and Julius Kopp.

Their unofficial mascot was discharged from the hospital two weeks after the operation was undertaken.

Chicago Candidates Seek Suburb Posts; Court Ruling Asked

Whether residents of Chicago may run for justice of the peace and constable posts in suburban townships or whether a resident of one township may seek election to these offices in another township are questions still to be ruled upon by the courts.

Nevertheless, three law students residing in Chicago will be on the ballot for these posts in the April election in Norwood Park township, which contains the villages of Norridge and Harwood Heights.

A SUIT TO bounce the young students off the ballot in Norwood Park township on grounds they are non-residents was dismissed Monday by Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

The court, however, did not rule on the residency issue. It held the suit was filed too late. The court action was instituted by a Norwood Park resident after Jan. 21, the deadline for filing such objections with the county electoral board.

This deadline is set by law and can't be changed for anyone waking up late, the court ruled in effect.

The three young men, all students at Chicago Kent College of Law and whose ages range from 25 to 28, filed for office in the township on the assumption the only requirement was to be a resident of the county.

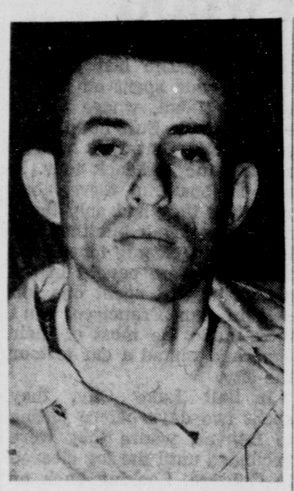
A 1959 statute, switching the method of pay for JPs from fines they collected to a salary paid by the county, defines the posts as "county officers."

If the trio should win, a suit questioning their right to hold office could be filed to settle the issue of residency, it was pointed out. (BS

Roselle Golf Club Is Sold to Millionaire

Roselle Golf Club has a new owner. And it's not called Roselle Golf Club anymore. The badge-like sign at the club's entrance will be removed and replaced by one bearing the name Golden Acres Country Club.

George M. Sloan of Chicago bought the club on Roselle road in mid-February from a 3-man partnership which owned it before. Sloan is owner of a tile company and a reputed millionaire.



ALLAN GRIFFITH

Former owners were James Guerino of Evergreen Park; Louis DeLuca of Chicago, and Michael Laterza of Oak Park.

SLOAN reportedly has big plans for Golden Acres Country Club—remodeling of the club house and Tam O' Shanter type tournaments with big cash prizes. Furthermore, it is said, the semi-private 27-hole layout is destined to become a private club.

Allan Griffith of Hoffman Estates is Sloan's new club manager. He replaces Gene Guerino of Itasca, son of the former part owner of the club.

GRIFFITH HAS lived in Hoffman Estates for four years at 134 Flagstaff lane. He previously lived in Arlington Heights. His brother, William Griffith, is owner of Griffith Insurance Agency in Arlington Heights.

More information, including Sloan's plans for development of the club, will be contained in an article next week in the sports section. (ACM

Telephone Social Club Has Election

The Illinois Bell Telephone Social club of the Wheeling, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Barrington area held their annual election banquet at Gunnell's restaurant, February 21.

Mrs. Delores Holding of the Palatine commercial department was elected as the president for the coming year. Other officers are Kenneth Weimerslage as vice president, Arlington Heights installer; Mrs. Joan Sammet, Palatine service representative as secretary; Clif McCauley, Arlington Heights PBX dispatcher as treasurer; Bob Snell, Arlington Heights installer, ways and means chairman; Larry Hahn, Arlington Heights dispatcher, as by-laws chairman.

Mrs. Holding, when accepting the gavel from Jerry Brodrelk, out-going president, anticipated a year of activity and social programs that would encourage the participation of local employees in the club. She also announced that Larry Hahn, membership chairman, would accept membership applications immediately. Mr. Hahn can be reached at CL 5-9966 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. week days.

PLANS FOR the coming family picnic in July have been motivated with the securing of the permit by the committee for the Elk Grove picnic area, south of Higgins and west of State rd. Further plans will be announced at the meetings.

The Social club, now in its third year, was the offspring of similiar clubs throughout the Bell system. Although not a mechanism of the Bell system, the clubs are encouraged and help to bring together the friends and families in organized social programs. All such clubs are non-profit and are open to employees in their local areas.

Meetings of the IBT Social club are held on the first Thursday of each month in the Palatine American Legion hall, 122 W. Chicago ave., and start at 8 p.m. (BS

FROM SHERWOOD

When Bob De Wilde, 1102 Burgoyne, left a business meeting in Ponte Verde, Fla., this week he headed north toward Philadelphia, in order to spend a few days with Dan at Haverford. Dan is a freshman at Haverford college.

The T. C. Carlsons, 1314 N. Harvard, are hoping to keep her mother, Mrs. I. J. Spurgeon, with them for a couple of weeks when she comes here from Altis Air base in Oklahoma where she has been visiting her son and his family. Mrs. Spurgeon's home is in Cincinnati.

An evening of bridge in the home of Mrs. Harold Sortor, 1405 N. Harvard, last Thursday evening also included a baby shower for Mrs. Robert Chodera. The guests, Mrs. Robert Brogan, Mrs. Bert Joost, Mrs. Carl Palmer, Mrs. Nick Shuman, Mrs. Peter Spindler and Mrs. John Hogan, make up the bridge group, along with the hostess and guest of honor. The centerpiece, and conversation piece as well, was a sprinkling can filled with white gladiolus and carnations tinted blue,. Interspersed among the flowers were a series of "baby things" of the small variety. The group combined their resources and gave Mrs. Chodera a stroller and a mobile.

MARILYN SHUMAN, 1001 W. Clarendon, set places for five more around the dinner table of the 18th when Nick's brother and his family were here from Summit, N. J. Although the A. R. Shumans stayed in Chicago, Marilyn says they did get to see them again during the week.

If you want to know a good way to entertain 12-year-old boys at a birthday party, just take them swimming. That's what Jack Zeisler did. Steve was 12 February 14 and celebrated the following Saturday when his dad and he took seven of his friends into Chicago for a swim at his club. They all came back with ravenous appetites and plenty of enthusiasm for roasting hot dogs in the fireplace. The Jack Zeislers live at 1144 N. Harvard.

FROM RIDGE PARK

Dick Kessenich's mother and brother have been wanting a peek at their new home ever since they moved in and last weekend they took advantage of the good weather and came down from De Forest, Wis. After putting their stamp of approval on the house, they left for home Sunday. The Kessenich family live at 1005 N. Illinois.

Over the coffee cups at Mrs. Bill Luxion's house last week several of the Princeton ave. ladies laid plans for a block party. When Mrs. Irving Johnson offered her home for the affair and Mrs. Halek offered to make barbecues they felt they were well on their way toward an evening of fun. Twenty-eight were there, including some from Elm and Yale, for the potluck buffet which was also a going away party for the John Cooleys who are moving to Evanston.

Galley 2 Ridge Park - Sher Ann and Hank Inselberger, 640 N. Salem, had a rewarding surprise last Friday night when the telephone rang and his old Army buddy called from Chicago. Lester Hunt was in Chicago for a convention and looked through all the suburban telephone books until he found Hank's number. It had been 16 years since they had seen each other —although they were together for two years here in the States, then were separated when they went overseas. Now a dean of a teacher's college in Kearney, Neb. Mr. Hunt had dinner with the Inselbergers Saturday night.

Sunday, Lil and George Lurtz and Margie, 909 N. Patton, entertained the Stanley Olsons, Ernest Karlsons of Chicago and the Karl Sanders of Deerfield for dinner at Biltmore country club, Barrington. Because they are all organ enthusiasts, they took a turn at the organ when they returned to the Lurtzes' after dinner.

GARY SCALZITTI was 6 Feb. 28 but had a party the Saturday before. Huckleberry hound was the theme for the party and 16 hungry hounds arrived for lunch, including his brother, Larry, and sister, Mary. Instead of cutting the cake, Gary's mother gave a new twist to the party and served each child hostess twinkies and they were a smashing success. Gary is the son of Tommie and Guy Scalzitti, 836 N. Fernandez.

A coffee last Thursday evening at Dottie Chaplin's, 815 N. Fernandez, combined birthday celebrations for Dottie, whose birthday was February 16, and Tommie Scalzitti, whose birthday was the 21st. The following ladies enjoyed coffee and cake: Jeannette Helfers, Frances Stebbins, Myra Brandt, Alice Colgrove, Lynn Sundquist, Dorothy Ungaro, Doris Kelly, Tommie Scalzitti and the hostess.

The Marty Saidikowskis, 828 N. Salem, just had a 2-week visit from her mother who lives in Three Lakes, Wis. While she was here, they visited relatives in Chicago, took her to dinner down town and also to see "Ben Hur."

Janet and Warren Schauer's neighbors are missing them already. They moved from 823 N. Salem a week ago Monday and are now living in Cincinnati.

WHEN MRS. Charles Black, 812 N. Kaspar, opened her Christmas present last year out fell two tickets to Hawaii. She was, excited then, but even more so now that she and Mr. Black have returned from 3½ weeks on the islands. Their first stop was Salt Lake City, where they visited friends for a day or two before flying with a group of 33 (mostly friends from the Salt Lake City area) directly to the island of Hawaii.

They began their visit at Hilo, also known as the orchid isle, and were welcomed with the traditional leis. After two days there, they motored to the Kona Coast where they tried their luck at deep sea fishing. They remember Kona mostly for the luau they had there —a private affair just for their group, it far surpassed the larger one at the Hawaiian village they were to attend later in the trip. Eight days were spent in Honolulu, which Mrs. Black likens to Miami, part of which time was spent in touring Pearl Harbor. Another highlight of their stay on the islands was a ride on a catamaran (sailboat). Leaving just before sundown they cruised off the coast of Oahu and watched the lights of Honolulu blinking in the distance, much like San Francisco. Boxed dinners were opened and relished as the boat cruised along.

Daytime trips included exploring the island by motor car and a visit to the famous Dole pineapple plantation. Mrs. Black says that everywhere they went, they found the Hawaiian people to be very friendly and handsome and quite happy to be the 50th state. The last part of the trip was spent on the island of Kauai, where they stayed at the Surf hotel, the same hotel that will accommodate the Paddock tour. It was so beautiful there, they regretted they had only three days to enjoy it but they did include sightseeing tours here too. They were caught in the air strike and spent one full day in San Francisco, but they made the most of their time and rented a car to tour the city.

In Salt Lake City, they spent two days before jetting to Denver, where they were grounded until the fog cleared in Chicago. Looking back on it all, they wish, somehow, that they could have been grounded in Hawaii instead.

SUNDAY THE R. C. Rathsams, 905 N. Patton, entertained the Edward Kahlers of Winnetka at dinner. By mere coincidence during the course of conversation, the two couples learned their daughters had been at music camp at Interlochen, Mich. last summer at the same time.

Nineteen of Donald Barnak's friends helped him celebrate his brithday last Saturday. He was 5 Monday, but had his party the preceding Saturday so that all his school friends could be there. Mr. Barnak was taking colored slides of the party as a record of the good time had by all. Several of the mothers came for coffee and cake and two of them took time out to help with the party. Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnak, 916 N. Fernandez.

Sunday the Earl Willes, 705 N. Kaspar, had baby Cheryl Sue christened in St. Peter Lutheran church. Susan and Richard Wille were her sponsors.

Dot Dedring has been keeping busy these days. Monday night she and Erik went to Orchestra hall to see a Swedish travelogue and were delighted when he recognized a town he had visited in Sweden. They also got a glimpse of Stockholm, which is Dot's mother's home town. Apparently their friends had the same idea they did when they saw the travelogue advertised in the paper, because Dot says they saw friends they hadn't seen for years.

Dot attended a fashion show luncheon at Villa Venice and Thursday joined Elsie Sorensen and Ruth Lense for a luncheon at the Hartman House in Wheeling given by the mother's club of St. Peter Lutheran church.

Dot, herself, has been doing a little entertaining too. Last week she entertained friends from Glen Ellyn at a bridge luncheon. And Saturday night Dot and Erik went to Homewood to an anniversary party for a couple in the group of friends who formed a club when they all lived in Chicago. Jill was busy that night too. A former schoolmate from Chicago came out with his boyfriend to double date with Jill and her friend at the high school dance. Jill and Erik's birthdays were the day before and they had a double celebration Sunday when 18 relatives came for a buffet supper.

It took two days to finish celebrating Mary Christensen's sixth birthday February 24. Saturday the Robert Kings came for dinner, as did her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hansen. Sunday, Robbie Hildebrandt, the James Christensens of Chicago, Mrs. Carol McCloud, Kathy and Michael, the Otto Clausen family, Mrs. Dorothy Omland and Mrs. Lena Johnson came for dinner. Mary is the daughter of Ann and Jim Christensen, 725 N. Patton.

Carol Mears had a slumber party February 20 to celebrate her 12th birthday. Nancy Thompson came to spend the night, as did Donna Krilcic, Ruth Moulton and Cindy Vinberg. The girls had a late breakfast at the Mears' before going home. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Twin daughters, as yet unnamed, are the newest additions to the household of Ellen and George Sottung, 1722 W. Oakton. Their arrival February 23 in Lutheran General hospital caused a bit of excitement, reports Ellen, in that their respective birth weights were 7 pounds and 6 pounds 10 ounces. The girls have a brother, Michael, and two sisters, Marie and Therese, who are presently recieving the doting attention of their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Sottung, Chicago.

George, son of Polly and George Herbert, 1227 N. Chicago celebrated his 11th birthday over the weekend by having his best friend Bobby Gunnison, in constant company. Saturday night a special family dinner party was held.

The second birthday of Robert, son of Peggy and Bob McMillan, 1220 N. Race, was celebrated a week ago Wednesday. A family friend, Miss Nancy Morgan, Milwaukee, was on hand to share in the occasion, which was highlighted by a dinner party.

Because her birthday, February 25, fell on the same day as that of a good friend, Janet, daughter of Marlene and David Pendleton, 1240 N. Yale, was content to celebrate her sixth birthday with a special dinner and a birthday cake last Saturday in the company of her sister, Cindy, and brother, Brian, and is looking forward to her own party this coming Saturday.

FLORENCE AND Ed Paul, 1215 N. Race, entertained friends and playmates of their daughter, Mary Beth, last Thursday evening at a supper party honoring her sixth birthday. Among her guests were her brother, Ed, sister, Beverly, Julie Trees, Susan Noerenberg, Kathy and Vicki Schmidt, Cathy Narup, Pamela and Patricia Chase, Loni Larson, Mark and Pam DeReimer, and Jay Janove, Rolling Meadows.

Barbara, daughter of Jeanne and Art Sadowski, 1119 N. Wilke, had mumps, so her seventh birthday was celebrated quietly February 23 with the family and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frohnauer, Chicago. Barbara is looking forward to entertaining her friends at a party Saturday afternoon.

Justly proud of their daughter, Judy, 15, are Elenore and John Whipple, 1418 N. Race, as she has been proclaimed the holder of an honorable mention award in connection with an art entry in the state wide exhibition now being presented at the Wieboldt store, Evanston.

February 23 marked the fifth birthday of Lisa, daughter of Sandy and Dave Yates, 1522 W. Oakton. Present for the dinner party honoring her and her sister, Leslie, who was 8 February 10, was their brother, David, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sanders, Waukegan.

SATURDAY afternoon Lisa was guest of honor at a party to which her brother, David, Ellen Frisbie, Mark Weber, Barbara Brown, Terry Trummer, Patricia and Colleen Coleman, Barbara Geer, and Jim and Deborah Colmer, Arlington Heights, were invited.

Michael Micek, John Garland, Scott Nielsen, Tom Ruprecht and Henry Aldergott helped to make the ninth birthday of Kyle, son of Barbara and Ralph Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, a memorable occasion last Saturday afternoon. Chris Parker was unable to be in on the fun, which also included attending the matinee showing at the Arlington theatre.

Kyle, whose natal day is February 24, shared birthday honors with his brother, Dwight, who will be 2 March 2, at a family dinner party Sunday in the home of their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Alexander, Park Ridge.

Barbara Bade, 1326 N. Illinois, was hostess to members of her birthday club last Friday night. Toasting celebrant Helen Marineau were Shirlee Pircher, Adelaide Fairfield, LaRue Reed, Mary Kale, Charlene Bang, Jo Lampasona, Doris Koser and Evelyn Schmidt.

A WELCOME is extended to comparative newcomers, Sydelle and Leonard Goodman, and their children, Philip, 6, Jeri, 4, and Lauri, 2, who moved into their new home at 1107 N. Wilke from an apartment in Chicago. The Goodmans attend Temple Beth Tikvah, Roselle.

Due to the severe illness of his grandfather, Frank Alby, Mark, son of Laraine and Ronald Francis, 1227 N. Wilke, 8 February 28, celebrated his birthday quietly yesterday afternoon with Debbie and Denny Burda, Paul Sadowski, and his brothers, Kenny and Kevin. Mr. Alby is at home with the Francises again, and friends will be sorry to learn his condition is critical.

Mumps interfered with the birthday of Chris, son of Mary Louise and Dieter Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, but cheering him up on his fifth birthday, February 21, at a dinner party were the family and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mae Mammoser, Chicago.

An after school party was held February 23 for Kevin, son of Magdalen and Martin Corley, 1326 N. Chicago. Among those admiring the Mickey Mouse decor were his sister, Robin, Jimmy Kohler, Ricky Kirstein, Guy Eisenhuth, Kevin Wiederhold, Robbie Husted and Tommy Koenig.

THE CORLEYS, who celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary February 18, were guests recently of Robert Anthonisen and Mrs. Agnes Forgie, both of Chicago, at a dinner dance given by the Engineering club of the U. S. Steel Co. at the Martinique restaurant, Evergreen Park.

Present February 28 at a dinner party honoring Dawn, daughter of Rose Marie and James Amann, 1409 N. Wilke, 3 that day, were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Amann, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weidner, both of Arlington Heights, uncle and godfather, John Weidner and aunts, Miss Leora Weidner, and the Misses Rosemary and Carol Amann, as well as brothers and sister.

Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, returned recently from a vacation trip to Miami Beach, Fort Lauderdale and Pompano, Fla. Highlights included their stay with friends at Pompano, who entertained them with boating and a round of the country clubs and night clubs in the area. The most memorable was a visit to Maikai's. Shirley reports that it was wonderful swimming in midwinter.

The Vogtritter children, Kim, Gary, Scott and Jill, were ably taken care of by their paternal grandmother, Mrs. C. W. Vogtritter, Front Royal, Va. Before she returned to her home Monday, the family got together for a dinner party Sunday afternoon in Shirley and Robert's home. Guests included former Terrace neighbors, Phyllis and Charles Marshall, and Robert's brothers, Kurt Vogtritter, Des Plaines, and his fiancee and Anna and Don Vogtritter, Mount Prospect.

The fifth birthday of Michael, son of Barbara and Al Bade, 1326 N. Illinois, was celebrated Saturday afternoon. Present were his sister, Vicki, Steve Pircher, John Fairfield, Danny Reed, Kathy Koser and Debbie Garland.

Parking Space Variation OKd

The Arlington Heights zoning board of appeals Saturday voted to grant a variation in required number of parking spaces to permit an addition and remodeling of Beverly Lanes, Inc., 8 S. Beverly ln.

Petitioner Edward Sander, owner of the bowling firm, asked the board to waive parking requirements to allow him to build eight additional alleys to the north and remodel to the south of the building.

The board, in approving the request, stipulated that a structure on the south side of the building be torn down to provide the maximum number of parking spaces possible. (A

To be a part of the fantastic growth that has taken place in this area, is quite rewarding for a businessman such as I. When Marian and I started our first Drug Store, little did we realize we had the proverbial "tiger by the tail."

We have tried to keep abreast of this phenomenal growth by improving our stores and by adding new locations as soon as business justified it. We have tried to keep ourselves and our personnel on our toes, so that at all times we are in a better position to give you better service.

NOW HEAR THIS — none of this would have been possible without the support of all of you, OUR CUSTOMERS. This we know, and you can be sure that we will always be striving to give you the best.

Suggestions and construction criticism we are always glad to receive, and you can be sure it will be considered, and, if it has merit, it will be put in force.

Suburban Scouts Service Project

Boy Scouts from six troops in Arlington Heights and one troop in Elk Grove Village will wipe windshields of cars parking in the shopping center and super market parking lots of the two villages on Saturday, March 4.

This service project is part of the overall public relations program announcing the forthcoming Boy Scout finance campaign. The Scouts will leave a small flier under the windshield wipers explaining that a Scout cleaned the windshield in the hope that the driver would help with a contribution when the campaign kicks off on March 11.

THE KICKOFF meeting for both village will be held at Miner junior high school on March 11 at 10 a.m. under the direction of finance chairman Thomas Stewart, 1011 N. Gibbons, and vice chairman William Tausch, 404 N. Gibbons, both of Arlington Heights.

Curt Kenyon, Arlington ventriloquist, will assist in instructing the workers with a short skit invoving a Scout campaign solicitor at the door of a potential contributor. Refreshments are being supplied by the Red Owl store.

The proceeds of this drive will be used for the operation of the Cub Scout, Boy Scout, and Explorer program in the villages raising the money. This involves the organization of new units, the training of leaders, providing professional help, office service, and special events.

The money raised by a local Scout council is spent where it is raised for the furtherance of its program of character building, citizenship training, and physical fitness.

THE SCOUT program of leadership training in the field of youth is recognized by all of the armed forces and the FBI as producing superior young adult leaders at the same time it effectively combats juvenile delinquency.

Scouting units in the United States are sponsored by such groups as the PTA, veterans groups, service clubs and churches. Of all of the sponsoring bodies in the country the churches hold first place sponsoring over 60 per cent of the Cub packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer posts.

Anyone who has not been asked and would like to assist in the campaign is asked to call either Thomas Stewart, CL 5-2988; William Tausch, CL 9-4377; or W. L. Griffin, CL 9-4093. (ACM

GENERAL MEETING

"Education Around the World" was the topic for the general meeting of the Arlington Heights PTA at Miner Junior high school February 21. A panel composed of foreign graduate students from International House at the University of Chicago discussed the educational program of their native lands. Russell Guthrie, an American student, served as moderator and others of the group were Nyema Jones of Liberia, Muzaffer Ahmad of Pakistan and John Kershaw from England. The audience participated with questions which proved both stimulating and informative.

All schools were well represented and all agreed the meeting to be an outstanding one.

MRS. ROBERT M. Wallace PTA president, gave a brief Founders day message following the invocation by Rev. W. Rowland Koch of the Congregational Church of Arlington Heights. She announced the decentralization of the PTA into separate units for the nine schools, effective in September.

L. W. Bredehoft, president of the school board, spoke of the coming referendum, urging all to vote for the building and expansion program. Without voter's approval, double sessions throughout the district will be necessary.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of sections 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the sixth grade of Miner high school. (A

Zoners Delay Final Action on Ready-Mix

A decision on the village's request for a zoning variation to permit relocation of Consumers company, a ready-mix firm, was postponed again Saturday by the Arlington Heights zoning board of appeals.

This time the postponement was attributed to the absence of a finalized contract between the village and the company. It had been promised for presentation at Saturday's zoning board hearing.

EXPLAINED village attorney Stephen Jurco: "The contract arrived Monday, Feb. 20, but it came too late to get village trustees' approval.

"Trustees will consider it Monday, Feb. 27, and I suggest this board adjourn until the contract is officially approved."

The all-important contract sets down the terms of the company's proposed move from 301 W. Northwest hwy. to the village's inactive sewage treatment plant located in the southeastern corner of the village.

The zoning board agreed February 5 to withhold a decision on the village request for a variation from the sewage plant's public use zoning until the full details of the contract could be studied.

BEING UNABLE to examine the contract Saturday, the board adjourned to 10:30 a. m. Saturday, March 11, at which time the agreement will be ready.

Before adjournment, however, residents and property owners in the vicinity of the sewage plant read more objections into the record.

Objecting to the relocation on varying grounds were 24 property owners of the south Forrest st. area, the Lauterburg and Oehler funeral home, and the Greenview Estates Civic association.

John F. Gillon, 331 S. Windsor, presented a letter he said came from the village of Mt. Prospect. Contents of the letter disclosed Mt. Prospect's objection to the relocation.

ATTORNEY Jurco objected to the letter being submitted into evidence, reasoning it was a carbon copy and not signed. It carried the name of E. Robert Reynolds, Mt. Prospect village clerk.

Jurco also objected to L. D. Eley, attorney for Lauterberg and Oehler, introducing new witnesses. Jurco argued the hearing of oral evidence had been formally closed.

But he was overruled, and Eley introduced two witnesses who testified to the hardship the ready-mix operation would cause for the funeral home business.

Village trustees, upon hearing contents of the letter from Mt. Prospect Monday, also questioned its validity.

TRUSTEE Eugene Schlickman said he talked with a Mt. Prospect trustee who indicated his board never took formal action to oppose the ready-mix plant move.

Commented village president Harold Carlson, "This letter looks a little stimulated to me."

GOP Women Aid In Vote Recount

Two members of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican club are the volunteers from this area assisting in the Adamowski-Ward vote recount in Chicago.

Mrs. Walter Brown, club president, and Mrs. A. J. Baugous, membership chairman, responded to the call for Republican volunteers and are working as watchers. They have been instrumental in turning up many questionable ballots — ballots with erasures, improper initials of election judges, and other irregularities.

Both women attended the short training session preliminary to working with the 20 teams which are recounting 906 city and county paper ballot precincts.

THE TEAMS work Monday through Friday, and at the request of Elroy Sandquist, Jr., attorney for Benjamin Adamowski, have been instructed to complete three precincts a day.

The validity of any questionable ballots in this recount will not be ruled on until all of the estimated 450,000 paper ballots have been checked. Adamowski hopes to upset Ward's 26,000-vote victory margin in the recount.

It is generally agreed that regardless of the outcome, the post-election battle has emphasized the urgent need for election law reforms in Illinois. (ACM

Winter Vacations Will Soon Yield to Spring Parties

It's almst spring and signs of it are everywhere. The lionish-lamblike month has come, robins have been sighted and mumps are blooming plumply here and there. Late winter vacations are ending now and spring parties are still in the offing. With a few round-faced exceptions, however, all recent birthday children have sparked the quiet social scene with their happy doings.

Home again are the Ray Wilkes, 631 N. Haddow, who returned from Florida Saturday with suntans and greetings from former Arlington Heighters. Their healthy compexions came from a month of sunshine in Lauderdale-by-the-Sea and the big hellos came from Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Klehm, lifelong residents in this area who are now at home in Pompano Beach.

In addition to their reunion with the Klehms, Mr. and Mrs. Wilke also met with the George Schnebergers who were vacationing in Florida at the same time. The Schnebergers and Wilkes live on the same block on Haddow and assure other cold, damp neighbors of sunshiny thoughts directed their way during the Florida "neighborhood get together."

Also returning here with greetings from former local folk were the George Kendalls, 733 S. Dunton. They came home early last week after a 5-day business trip throughout Iowa and a reunion in Kansas City with ex-Dunton neighbors, the James Bos family who asked to be remembered to other friends here.

A LIFELING N. Dunton resident, Mrs. Minnie Granzin now of Des Plaines, was guest of honor last Wednesday afternoon at a surprise birthday luncheon in the home of Mrs. K. T. Brusa, 417 S. Evergreen. A dozen old friends extended congratulations to the birthday girl who arrived at the Brusa home expecting a quiet luncheon "out" with two friends, by way of celebration.

There was a celebration, indeed, though not as quiet as she had planned. Adding her sprightly wit and good humor to the occasion was the "grand duchess" of N. Dunton, Mrs. Frank Runge, a lifelong neighbor of the honor guest. Mrs. Runge recently celebrated her own birthday, number 93.

The Ben Weidner home, 227 S. Chestnut, is still faintly echoing with the hubbub and fun it held over the past weekend. Thomas was 8 years old Friday and celebrated with a party for 42 young friends Saturday afternoon.

The Weidners moved late last year from a home near Rolling Meadows and Tommy's guests included old friends from that area, new friends from the new neighborhood and a sprinkling of cousins. He also entertained a pair of weekend guests who were in on the big fun Saturday, Jack Krier of Wilmette and Steven Weidner of Palatine.

Assisting his Mom with the starting, and stopping, of games and refreshment serving were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Heaft of Palatine and Mrs. William Hahn of Arlington Heights.

Sunday the Weidners held an open house-belated housewarming for 25 area residents. The holiday rush followes so soon after the family's move from 3615 Kirchoff that this was their first opportunity to show their new home. The well- initiated home was quiet Monday.

THE DON Bunton home, 317 N. Windsor, also recently hummed to the specific vibrations set up by 8-year - olds at a birthday party. Craig celebrated a February 10 birthday with 26 St. Peter Lutheran schoolmates who set the mood, though not necessarily the pace, for a family party the next day. Twenty relatives came to his second celebration and in Craig's considered opinion, being 8 is great.

Twelve local couples played in a neighborhood round robin bridge tournament over the weekend and four played under such relaxing circumstances they forgot to tell this reporter how the games went. The Newell Crocketts, Howard Hansens, and James McNamaras were guests Saturday and Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Riley, 738 S. Mitchell, in the Rileys' "weekend home" at Lake Oconomowoc, Wis. All reports concerning the Wisconsin branch of the tournament dealt with the weekend's lovely, lazy routine. Besides walking on the icebound lake in sunshine and shirt sleeves while admiring the scenic beauty and the weather, the group played a little bridge too.

THE YOUNGER Albert Colianni at 314 S. Highland was 7 years old February 22 and since there was a national holiday in his honor, he celebrated. Albert hosted schoolmates John and Bobby Brandner, his sister, Gail, and brother, Brian at a gala luncheon in the tollroad restaurant, the Oasis. Just so she wouldn't feel left out he took Mom along too. Sadly, Gail does feel left out because her birthday celebration this year was ignored by the press, an oversight that can and should be amended:

Gail was 6 years old January 30 and she entertained a group of young ladies at a luncheon in her home after the morning session of kindergarten. Miss Starr Hagenbring, Miss Betsy Brogan and Miss Linda Gerler toasted their hostess at the gaily-decorated luncheon table, then enjoyed an afternoon of games and giggling with her.

TWIN Brookes at 518 S. Dunton were 7 years old last Tuesday and mutually agreed to wait till Saturday to celebrate. Debby and Ricky, carbon copies belonging to Mr. and Mrs. David Brooke, invited a total of 10 friends to a pre-theatre luncheon in their home, then decamped for the local matinee and an afternoon of comedy. On the birthday proper a family party in the Brooke home brought right-on-time congratulations from 10 family members including Grandma Elizabeth Schoepko.

Gail Graczyk was four Monday and automatically qualified for her first "little people's" party, so she quick had one. Bobby and Eileen Gabrielsen, Mark and Glen Nagel, Nancy Barker and Barbara Dickinson arrived at the Graczyk home, 718 S. Chestnut, as soon as the afternoon kindergarten session ended.

Their arrival signalled the beginning of a scrumptious late-afternoon - and - supper-party, and Gail, who at three didn't think four would ever come, is convinced it was all worth waiting for. The traditional family party that is as vital to birthdays as the cake, honored the young lady Sunday when Grandma Graczyk of Chicago joined the rest in wishing Gail a happy time.

JIM DALTON, 522 S. Dunton, was 9 years old Sunday and since Mom was busy with the Heart Fund drive, he waited a day to celebrate. Thus the whole family was seeing spots Monday night. After a festive dinner out, they took Jim to see Disney's "101 Dalmatians."

Mrs. Gertrude Laird of Tama, Iowa, Sunday ended a 2-week visit here with her sister and family, the John Kitches, 1032 S. Dunton. Her son, David and his wife, also of Tama, came her for a weekend visit and all returned to Iowa together.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fonfara, 811 N. Stratford, had a 20th wedding anniversary last Wednesday and celebrated the grand occasion Saturday night with local friends. During a gala dinner-and-night-out the Robert Nicols and E. T. Zelsmanns toasted the anniversary couple and planned a repeat for the next 20.

AMONG the rare couples who celebrate a 50-and-thensome wedding anniversare are Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith 913 N. Beverly, who on February 28 observed their 61st year together. Sunday they were guests of their daughter and son-in-law, the Gordon Greens of Palatine, at the Alpine lodge near Wauconda.

Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Grace Spees, accompanied them and, as a pleasant surprise, their grandson, William Green, and his wife awaited them at the lodge to join the celebration. On the anniversary evening Mrs. Spees took the "bridal" couple out to dinner to complete the observance of a most remarkable occasion.

RECENT out-of-town house guest of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rose, 1300 Mayfair, was Mr. Rose's sister-in-law, Mrs. James L. Rose of Indianapolis. During her stay, the Roses gave a dinner party at their home for 20 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George Traner, 326 Stratford, have just returned from a Caribbean cruise. Flying to Anna Marie Isle, Fla., they were joined by a group of 18 friends who were to be their travelling companions during the next three weeks.

Embarking from Port Everglades, the Traners visited many islands, cities and seaports in Central and South America, including St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, Martinique, Trindad, La Guaira, Caracas, the Island of Caracao, Colon, Panama City and Port Au Prince. In many places they left the ship and traveled about the islands by car, visiting points of interest, shopping and taking in movies.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Burnett, 317 S. Derbyshire lane, have received word that their daughter, Ginger, an elemen-education major at Northern Illinois university, DeKalb pledged Sigma Kappa national sorority, Gamma Zeta chapter. Ginger is a second semester freshman.

MR. AND MRS. John P. Jarecki, 705 E. Fairview, spent an eventful week in Washington D. C. At a solemn ceremony before the supreme court, Mr. Jarecki was admitted to practice before the supreme court. Mrs. Jarecki, who is also an attorney, moved her husband's admission. Another attorney admitted to practice before the supreme court was William G. Clark, attorney general of Illinois, to whom Mr. jarecki is principal assistant in charge of the Chicago office.

Before returning to Arlington Heights, the Jareckis visited with friends and relatives and revisited areas of the city Mrs. Jarecki remembered when she lived in Washington D. C. as a child.

Six-year-old Stephen Jurco Jr., one of the youngest riders in the winter horse show held Sunday in Morton Grove, won first place award in the English equestrian class. Stephen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 S windsor.

Mrs. Robert Becker, 1211 Woodford, gave a luncheon and bridge February 23 for the benefit of the women's auxilary of the Northwest YMCA.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, 304 Wilshire, gave an informal open house Saturday for their neighbors.

MRS. WALTER Strobel, 1319 Mayfair, is home recuperating after undergoing major surgery in Ravenswood hospital. The Strobels' eldest daughter, Judy, a freshman at Valparaiso university, arrived home for a weekend visit with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, 1305 Woodford, joined Mr. and Mrs. George Schoonover of River Forest for an evening in town, dining at the "Top of the Rock" of the Prudential building and attending a performance of "Exodus."

Mr and Mrs. Larry Kussow 1203 Woodford, were in New York City last week attending the Paper and Pulp associating meetings at the Waldorf Astoria hotel. While Mr. Kussow attended meetings, Mrs. Kussow was able to spend time in Flushing, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ronald Petersen and her three young grandchildren. After leaving New York City, Mr. Kussow flew to Florida to spend a week in Pontre Vedro.

Mrs. James Sutton, 627 S. State, celebrated her February birthday recently at a supper party at the Supper club in Palatine. Joining the Suttons were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Guilfoil of Scarsdale and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hitchon of Northbrook.

MRS. RALPH Raveling, 321 E. Davis, spent three weeks in California visiting her mother, Mrs. M. Graff, and two sisters and their families, the Arthur Iversons and the Arthur Holts of San Diego, and friends in the Los Angeles area.

Mrs. Raveling was among the jet plane travellers who had to return home by train due to the flight engineers' strike.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ballard, 407 E. Rockwell, returned to Arlington Heights Friday from a 2-week vacation in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Arriving home, the Ballards welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burrows of Monticello, Ind., who will spend several weeks visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly, spent a week in Houston as guests of the Wholesale Distributors association convention at the Shamrock hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bratko and Mrs. Malcomb Hall were among those from Scarsdale who attended the "Beatnik party" Saturday of the American Legion post in Arlington Heights. The party, planned by the womens auxiliary of the post was a costume party with prizes going to the most unusual costumes.

MRS. LYLE W. Ewing and Mrs. John Sullivan entertained 40 neighbors at a coffee Thursday in the Sullivan home, 211 Stratford, for the benefit of the Northwest Family Service.

Another Northwest Family Service benefit was given Thursday by Mrs. Lester Schreiber, 123 S. Brighton, who entertained all her Brighton place neighbors at a coffee and bridge. (A

THE WORLD'S MOST EXPENSIVE DRUG?
On September 21st, 1948, Dr. Hench gave the first dose of Cortisone to a patient in The Mayo Clinic.

ITS RESEARCH COST WAS OVER
$21,000,000.00 (21 MILLION)
But, it was donated free by Merck & Co., who had labored for nearly 20 years in an almost hopeless effort to isolate this curative steroid. Cortisone made Medical history, but is now outdated.

NEW STEROIDS ARE LESS TOXIC.
They are being successfully used for other ailments besides Arthritis. And, a full day's treatment now costs less than a couple of packs of cigarettes.

CAN A STEROID HELP YOU?
You can be certain your physician will prescribe one if he thinks you will benefit. And, you can afford it for our system of pharmaceutical economics is bringing priceless medicines within everyone's reach.

YOU CAN DEPEND ON OUR CO-OPERATION
We charge only the necessary fair price needed to operate a good pharmacy. No more.

Audit Commission's Work Outlined in State Report

By
W. RUSSELL ARRINGTON
State Senator, 4th Senatorial District

The Illinois Legislative Audit Commission, of which this writer is chairman, has just released its fourth annual report.

The letter transmitting the report to the Legislature summarized briefly some of the accomplishments of the commission. Excerpts from that letter are as follows:

"Accomplishments measurable in terms of dollars are, of course, the most understandable. In this respect, the commission feels its record is outstanding.

"Since its creation less than four years ago, the Legislative Audit Commission has directly caused to be recovered for the State's general revenue funds amounts in excess of $472,000, and for the Workmen's Compensation special fund an additional sum of $32,000.

"Recommendations embodied in the present report, if adopted by the General Assembly, will increase the general revenue fund by an additional amount in excess of $408,000."

THE ITEMS comprising these totals were listed in a tabulation set forth in the report.

In other words, the commission's work will cause the general revenues of Illinois to be increased by almost $1,000,000.

In contrast, during the same period of time, the total cost to the State for the operations of the Legislative Audit Commission has been less than $93,000.

THE REPORT stated further:

"The commission feels, however, that the benefits derived from the commission's work not measurable by a dollar value are of even greater significance. Continuing legislative review of the stewardship of state agencies certainly serves to deter improper, or questionable, use of State funds. More important perhaps, the continuous insistence by this commission that all possible safeguards be sought and employed to strengthen fiscal management renders increasingly less likely, albeit perhaps not impossible, future frauds on the state.

"The fact that every audit is reviewed carefully on behalf of the General Assembly by its members serving on the Legislative Audit Commission encourages all State agencies to scrutinize their operations seriously and sternly. In innumerable instances such circumstances has had the compelling and sometimes positively dramatic effect of producing needed improvements in accounting records, controls and agency policy which previously either had been delayed, and in some cases patently disregarded."

Set Solon Quiz on Education

The Randhurst Council of the PTA legislation chairmen will meet with the Illinois Representatives of the area Friday, March 3, at 8 p.m. The meeting, to be held in the South junior high cafeteria, 301 W. South st., Arlington Heights, will give first hand information of what may be expected from this session of the general assembly and will afford an opportunity to present questions to the legislators.

THE FOLLOWING state representatives are expected to attend: Representative John W. Carroll, a newspaper publisher living in Park Ridge; Representative Arthur E. Simmons, a Skokie resident who is president of a real estate and insurance brokerage office; and Representative Bernard M. Peskin, who lives in Northbrook and is an attorney.

Mrs. Charles L. Rezner of Mt. Prospect, president of the Randhurst council of the PTA will call the meeting to order. Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of the Arlington Heights elementary schools, and state school education chairman of the Illinois congress of parents and teachers, will extend greetings to the guests. Mrs. R. B. Yadon, legislation chairman of the Randhurst council, will act as moderator.

THE LEGISLATION chairmen of Randhurst council have conducted workshops this fall and winter in an effort to understand more fully the needs with regard to school finance, revenue of the state, and other pertinent items. (B8

Eagle Food Merger Plan Is Announced

Merger plans were announced this week by Eagle Food Centers and Consolidated Foods Corp. The food processor and distributor will acquire the 38-store retail food chain in a stock transaction.

In commenting, S. M. Kennedy, president of Consolidated Foods, stated, "The Eagle Food chain is one of the outstanding retail food operations in the United States, and we are very pleased to have them become a part of Consolidated. This follows our policy of retail expansion only in the central geographical area in which we are now operating in the retail field."

EAGLE HAS a store in Rolling Meadows and one under construction in Mt. Prospect.

Richard Waxenberg, president of Eagle, said advantages would accrue to Eagle stockholders through the transaction. "Under Consolidated Foods' policy of virtually complete autonomy in each of its operating units, we also know that the people who have built Eagle Food Centers to its present position would still have the authority and responsibility for its operation."

Eagle Food Centers will be operated as a subsidiary of Consolidated and it is anticipated Waxenberg will be elected to Consolidated's board of directors. (B9

JP Candidates Are Busy Campaigning

Two of the nine candidates for justice of the peace in Wheeling township continued to stump the coffee and rolls circuit this week.

Speaking Saturday afternoon before a group of 30 potential supporters in Pioneer park fieldhouse, Thomas Hanlon, 610 N. Wilshire ln., Arlington Heights, called for a restoration of dignity to the justice court.

"The justice of the peace has broad powers which must be exercised with care," Hanlon said. "This is the office upon which we must depend to decide many local legal problems.

"If the JP does not handle local matters properly there is no appeal because citizens cannot afford to carry the case to the Circuit court. Therefore it is important that the men who serve on the justice bench are highly qualified."

HANLON, A 29-year-old attorney, accentuated the need for all township residents to take an interest in the April 4 election and in the candidates who seek the offices.

Saturday night, at a JP candidate night sponsored by the Northwest Homeowners league in Mt. Prospect's Central school, Raymond H. Stevenson, 413 N. Forest ave., Mt. Prospect, praised his audience for its "keen interest in local government."

The 33-year-old attorney said, "A candidate's printed literature can be used only as a partial guide to his qualifications. It is only by personal observation of the candidates that voters can properly evaluate the man."

STEVENSON urged league members "to adopt standards for measuring the qualities of the justice candidates just as you would adopt standards for electing your leaders."

Both Hanlon and Stevenson are independent candidates for justice of the peace. (ACM

"I want a Salerno Cookie" was on the tongues of 13 brownies of troop 23, Mrs. Maloney's troop, when they left the Salerno cookie plant February 21. All were impressed by the way cookies were made and were surprised when they were presented with a bag consisting of three packages of cookies to be taken home.

Troop 509 has erected a bird feeder outside a sixth grade classroom at Prospect Heights North school. It is maintained by the sixth grade classroom at Prospect Heights North school. It is maintained by the sixth grade troop under the leadership of Mrs. Hembd. The girls are working on their conservation badge and besides being an education for the girls, the project is being enjoyed by the school as well.

Troop 258 and 699 members have been learning to square dance. Mrs. Roth's troop visited Mrs. Blakemann's house and the basement was "bulging" with little Brownies doing the Virginia reel, Here We Go Around the Mountain and songs like My Name is Queen Mary. The groups were working on their second class badge and having loads of fun doing it.

Evanston Children's Theater is the destination of troops 67, 608 and 258 to see "Hans Brinker." The troops are leaving at 9 a.m. March 4 by bus to see the play.

Mrs. Kelly's new Brownie troop was invested February 13 and celebrated with a valentine party afterward. Due to illness in Mrs. Kelly's family, the troop activities will be carried on by Mrs. Nelson, co-leader, for the time being.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

Brownie troop 121 received a Brownie flag from Intermediate troop 551 February 1. Games were supervised by the Intermediates and cupcakes and candies with a valentine motif were served. This troop is under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Ramsaier.

A valentine party was held in the home of Mrs. Voyton for Brownie troop 131. Each girl brought decorations and party refreshments. As service project these Brownies are making "Sax" puppets for the Clearbrook school.

Troop 290, under the leadership of Mrs. Hillenmayer, has had a busy month. February 13 they visited the Arlington rest home and presented apples and cookies to the home; February 25 the girls enjoyed a swimming party at the Paladium in Glenview.

Troop 585, under the leadership of Mrs. Renee Cook, entertained Brownie troop 355 for a valentine party February 14. Girls of 585 entertained with a play entitled "The Writing of the Laws." Refreshments and singing followed. Because troop 585 had such a good time performing, they also entertained their mothers with the same play February 21.

SOUTH MT. PROSPECT

Troop 511 celebrated the Campfire Girls birthday by inviting Campfire troop Elu-Ti-Ki-Ka-Chon to a party this month. The guests of honor and their leader, Mrs. Cliff Ellison, enjoyed games and refreshments. Mrs. Long and Mrs. French are leaders.

Fifth grade scouts held their annual song fest last week at Lions Park school. The flag ceremony was presented by troop 179 and the scout laws and promise were led by the following girls from troop 559: Becky Rink, Cynthia Body, Barbie Burke and Pam Baker. During the closing ceremony the color guard, composed of Patti Rehm, Janice Herrell, Kathy Boland, Gail Grenning and Kathy Mehlick of troop 557, retired the colors.

Brownies in troop 792 have been busy trimming postage stamps for the Mt. Prospect Women's club, assisted by their leaders Mrs. Sweet and Mrs. Beck. The foreign stamps will be sent to veterans hospitals and the domestic stamps will be sent to Norway to children in TB hospitals.

A COLOR guard from sixth grade troop 401 presented the flag ceremony at the February PTA meeting at Westbrook school.

Many troops enjoyed valentine parties this month. Seventh graders in troop 369 combined their party with a scavenger hunt. Second grade brownies in troop 742 enjoyed refreshments and also made heart bracelets of felt and ribbon. Troop 179's party was planned completely by the fifth grade scouts. The girls made decorations, planned the entertainment. The party planned by brownies in troop 708 included a skit, "Parody on TV Commercials," presented by several members of the troop.

TROOP 703 entertained its mothers at a valentine-mothers' tea this month. Entertainment consisted of a play, complete with costumes, entitled "Cupid's Postoffice." Assisted by their leaders, Mrs. Moldenhauer, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Vogt, the scouts planted narcissus bulbs in felt decorated cups and saucers and presented them to their mothers.

Brownies in troop 212 made all the decorations and served refreshments for the valentine-mothers tea held by the troop in February. Twenty-five of the troop's mothers attended the party. Assisting the girls in their plans were leaders, Mrs. Serafine, Mrs. White, Mrs. King and Mrs. Welch.

NORTHWEST ARLINGTON

Jewelry boxes made of small plastic containers and covered with multi-colored fishchips represent the craft project just completed by brownies in troop 724, led by Mrs. Donald Johnson.

As their service project, the brownies in troop 380 made 45 tray favors to brighten Valentine day for patients in Northwest Community hospital, along with 51 valentines made for the children at Little City, Palatine. Mrs. George Maybee, leader, asks readers help in acquiring any information on the customs and crafts of Iceland, the Northwest Arlington neighborhood's country for the Girl Scout International rally. "Icelandic cookie and candy recipies would be especially helpful," commented Mrs. R. Bulinski, Cl 5-4586, and Mrs. Maybee, Cl 9-3563.

TERRARIUMS, deep glass bowls with living plants nested inside, represented the service project of brownie troop 345. The girls presented four terrariums on Valentine day to patients at the Arlington Heights rest home. Mrs. Jack Ness, leader, reports that her Brownies recently enjoyed a complete tour of Sylvia's Flowers where each girl was gifted with flowers as a memento of her trip.

As part of their second-class requirements, intermediates in troop 495 have prepared planters with tulip bulbs, reports their leader, Mrs. R. Kunstman. Brownies in troop 234 recently made a guided tour of Busse's Florist in Mt. Prospect. The girls saw how plants and flowers in the greenhouse were irrigated and Mr. Busse concluded the tour by showing the girls how to create a corsage and presenting each of them with a carnation. Mrs. Lou Kohler, leader, accompanied the troop.

Mrs. R. Randle, leader of intermediate troop 164, reports that her girls have been busy with badge work, but did take time out to tour Sylvia's Flowers. (B9

Newsmen Unaware of Their Rights, Asserts Teacher

The nation's radio and television news editors, broadcasters and even mystery script writers are faltering in their jobs of covering and relating crime news from the police beats on up to the time of court conviction of a criminal because "they don't know their own rights," Prof. Jacob Scher of Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism, said.

Scher spoke out in advance of Northwestern's third annual Short Course for Newsmen in Crime Analysis and Reporting to be held at the School of Law, under a Ford Foundation grant, March 20-25. Sessions will be offered in McCormick Hall on the Chicago campus and are under the joint auspices of the law school and University's Medill School of Journalism.

SCHER IS one of three Northwestern faculty members who will act as directors of the course.

Fred E. Inbau, law professor who set up and directed the Chicago Police Scientific Crime Protection Laboratory and who supervised mass lie detecter tests given policemen in the city's recent scandal, and Claude Sowle, who edits Northwestern's "Journal of Criminology, Criminal Law and Police Science," are the two other host-directors.

Scher, a former Chicago newspaperman who also holds a law degree, has been an outspoken foe of police and court secrecy, arguing that the Constitution guarantees the newsman, as a representative of the public, access to public records.

Inbau takes the view that the police are forced to work in a "straitjacket" because of "antiquated" laws placed upon them by the courts. He also believes television script writers give the public a "distorted" view of criminal investigation.

"According to television so-called mystery shows," Inbau said, "if the police will only bother to take a careful look around the scene of the crime or thereabouts, they will always find the clue which will make the whole case fall neatly into place and point unmistakably at the guilty party.

"THE TRUTH, in fact, is that there are very often no clues whatsoever, and the investigators have to start from scratch, with frequently no more than their own experience and imagination to guide them," Inbau added. Also, he said, the only way to a solution of a crime is to interrogate suspects—a right frequently denied the police by the courts and the legislatures.

He said that to make the investigator's task even more difficult the laws prohibit police from holding an arrestee for further investigation or questioning, since all but a few states require that he be brought to court without delay.

"It takes time and privacy and sometimes even a little trickery to adequately question a guilty suspect and secure his confession," Inbau said.

SCHER, FORMER chief counsel of the House subcommittee on government information, emphatically disagrees with Inbau.

are forcing police to act in a
are forcing police to ac tin a 'straitjacket' is absolutely untrue," Scher said. "To allow illegal detention or incommunicado arrests by the police would be to grant them use of coercion whereby they presume the guilt rather than the innocence of a person.

"It is contrary to the cornerstones of Anglo-American law," he added.

Scher believes limitation should be placed upon the rights of police in their interrogation and arrest procedures and that there should be restrictions set up by the courts with freedom from coercion the objective.

Scher also says he believes news is the best insurance that the law will run its due process. (B8

St. Viator Boosters Plan Athletic Fund Drive Group

At the regular monthly meeting of the new St. Viator high school Boosters club held last Wednesday in the recreation hall of Our Lady of Arlington Novitiate, 1212 E. Euclid, Father Francis E. Williams, principal of the new school, announced to the membership the formation of an athletic fund drive.

The drive's purpose, he explained, is to raise funds to provide athletic facilities and equipment supplementing the basic gymnasium and football field facilities available at the school's opening.

SOME OF THE items to be provided cover equipment and athletic areas for baseball, track and basketball. Later plans call for construction of a major field house.

Father Williams reiterated for new members that the high school now under completion already contains an 800-person capacity auditorium, a 2200-seat gymnasium, as well as an Olympic-size indoor swimming pool. It is the goal of all, he stated, to add these additional fields and equipment as in keeping with the other outstanding features of the school.

Father Williams expressed his gratitude for the group's interest, as well as his confidence that the athletic fund drive would reach all planned goals.

At that point, Booster club president Jim Rasmussen introduced the drive operating board as follows: co-chairmen Ed Riederer and John Pope; chairman for planning, Dennis Mitchell; chairman for publicity, John Carr; law advisor, Robert Moore; audits and reports committee, Virginia Shanley and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Alm.

Chairman for planning Dennis Mitchell went on to explain that the fund raising would take place in three main sources: the business community, various sale ventures, as well as social activities. He stated further that a key part of the meeting was to appoint area leaders to supervise these various fund activities.

OPEN FLOOR nominations and appointments followed. Area leaders named were Arlington Heights, John Daley; Des Plaines, Ross Wilcox; Elk Grove Village, B. B. Schofield; Mt. Prospect, William Demmert; Lake Zurich, Jay De Wire; Palatine, Hogan and Mayner; Prospect Heights, Dr. Frank Grogman; Rolling Meadows, Francis Le Beau; Wheeling, James Burns.

In a closing announcement, Father Williams indicated the possibility of holding the next Booster club meeting in the new St. Viator high school gymnasium. (ACM

Adult Hurt By Machine In Class

Jack Theobold, 130 Lincoln, Hoffman Estates, who was seriously injured in an evening woodworking class at Arlington high school in Arlington Heights, has filed suit for $35,000 damages.

Theobold's hands were cut and he lost the ring finger of the left hand while operating a table saw in the class about 9:30 p.m. Feb. 24, 1960, according to the Circuit court bill.

NAMED defendants are high school district 214 and Charles J. Miller, an industrial arts instructor, who conducted the class in the high school at Euclid and Walnut sts.

Theobold is seeking $25,000 damages from the teacher and $10,000 from the school district. The suit accuses both of negligence.

It charges the teacher "failed to properly instruct the plaintiff in the use" of the table saw and also alleges the machinery was defective. (ACM

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS THAT:

SECTION ONE: That Chapter 18 of the Municipal Code of Arlington Heights of 1954, Article VIII, Drivers, as to Section 18-802, is hereby amended by deleting therefrom Section 18-802 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

ARTICLE VIII DRIVERS

Section 18-802. Liquor or Drugs. (a) It is unlawful and punishable as provided in subdivision (d) of this section for any person who is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs to drive any vehicle within the Village of Arlington Heights.

(b) Upon the trial of any action or proceeding arising out of acts alleged to have been committed by any person while driving or in actual physical control of a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, evidence of the amount of alcohol in the person's blood at the time of the act alleged as shown by a chemical analysis of his breath, blood, urine, saliva or other bodily substance is admissible, and the result of any such analysis shall give rise to the following presumptions:

1. If there was 0.05 per cent or less by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, it shall be presumed that such person was not under the influence of intoxicating liquor;

2. If there was in excess of 0.05 per cent but less than 0.15 per cent by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, such fact shall not give rise to any presumption that the person was or was not under the influence of intoxicating liquor, but such fact may be considered with other competent evidence in determining whether such person was under the influence of intoxicating liquor;

3. If there was 0.15 per cent or more by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, it shall be presumed that such person was under the influence of intoxicating liquor;

4. The foregoing provisions of this paragraph (b) shall not be construed as limiting the introduction of any other competent evidence bearing upon the question whether or not the defendant was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

(c) It is unlawful and punishable as provided in paragraph (d) of this section for any person who is an habitual user of or under the influence of any narcotic drug, or who is under the influence of any other drug to a degree which renders him incapable of safely driving a vehicle, to drive a vehicle within the Village of Arlington Heights. The fact that any person charged with a violation of this paragraph is or has been entitled to use such drug under the laws of the State of Illinois or the Ordinances of the Village of Arlington Heights shall not constitute a defense against any charge of violating this paragraph.

(d) Every person who is convicted of a violation of this section shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than one (1) day nor more than six (6) months, or by a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) nor more than Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), or by both such fine and imprisonment. The Secretary of State of the State of Illinois shall be notified of all violations of this section.

SECTION TWO: The repeal, change or amendment of ordinances or parts of ordinances effectuated by the enactment of this ordinance shall not be construed as abating any actions now pending under or by virtue of such ordinance, or as a discontinuance, abating, modifying or altering any penalty accruing or to accrue or as affecting the liability of any person, firm or corporation or as waiving any right of the municipality under any section or provision existing at the time of the passage of this ordinance.

SECTION THREE: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as required by law.

PROVIDING FOR THE COST OF CONSTRUCTING OF A SANITARY SEWER ON CERTAIN LOTS IN C. H. TAYLOR'S ARLINGTON TOWN GARDEN'S SUBDIVISION IN THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COUNTY OF COOK AND STATE OF ILLINOIS.

WHEREAS, BEN YOURG, who at the time was the owner of and interested in certain lots in a subdivision hereinafter more specifically and legally described, in the Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, had heretofore caused to be constructed by private contract, and had paid the cost thereof, of sanitary sewers covering lots so described, which sewers serve property in lots not owned by Ben Yourg which are benefitted, which lots as to the sanitary sewers placed thereon are described as follows:

Lots 14, 15, 16, 17, 30, 31, 32 and 33 in C. H. Taylor's Arlington Town Garden's Subdivision in Section 28, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois, and

WHEREAS, said improvement so constructed is and will be of benefit to the above legally described properties; and

WHEREAS the said BEN YOURG was given permission to construct said improvement by private contract with the understanding that the Village of Arlington Heights be not charged with any part of the cost thereof, and with the further understanding that an ordinance be passed by the Village of Arlington Heights, after the completion of said improvement, requiring that the owners of any property adjacent thereto desiring to make use thereof pay the proportionate share of the cost of said improvement, to be used in reimbursement of the said BEN YOURG, or his heirs or assigns, for the proportionate cost of the construction thereof; and

WHEREAS the cost for the sanitary sewers and the engineering in connection therewith as it affects the above described lots was equitably chargeable to the property in the amount of $2.28 per front foot, and

WHEREAS, the President and the Board of Trustees of the Village find said costs and charges to be reasonable and in their judgment less than the cost of such improvement, if constructed by special assessment; NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COUNTY OF COOK AND STATE OF ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: That the cost of said improvement as to the sanitary sewers, which did not include any house connection or service pipes, is hereby determined and fixed at the rate of $2.28 per front foot of property in said subdivision and adjacent property, said amount being the cost of the construction of said improvement and engineering and other costs paid for the construction thereof by the said BEN YOURG.

SECTION TWO: That no person, firm or corporation, being the owner of or party interested, nor any contractor, agent or other representative of such owner or party interested, of the above and the following described premises, to-wit:

Lots 14, 15, 16, 17, 30, 31, 32 and 33 in C. H. Taylor's Arlington Town Garden's Subdivision in Section 28, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois, shall connect to or obtain service from said improvement without first obtaining a permit from the Village of Arlington Heights to make such connection. No such permit shall be issued unless the applicant will first pay to the Village of Arlington Heights for the use of the said BEN YOURG, or his heirs or assigns, a sum equal to $2.28 per front foot of such applicant's property to be served by such improvement. Such charge and the amount so paid, shall entitle such property owner to connect to any and all of said improvement, and shall be in addition to the usual charges and fees payable to the Village for making sewer connections. Such payment shall not relieve such property owner or owners from the payment of the established sewer charges by the said Village for sewer service rendered and furnished.

SECTION THREE: That the cost of said improvement as to the sanitary sewers, which do not include any house connection or service pipes, is hereby determined and fixed at the rate of $2.28 per front foot of property in said subdivision and adjacent property, said amount being the cost of the construction of said improvement and engineering and other costs paid for the construction thereof by the said BEN YOURG.

SECTION FOUR: All moneys collected by the Village from such adjacent property owners for such connection charges, provided for in the preceding sections of this ordinance, except the usual connection fees and charges made by the Village in other instances, shall, within thirty (30) days after receipt thereof by the Village, be paid to the said BEN YOURG, or his heirs or assigns, less, however, an amount of two per cent (2%) to be retained by the Village for the cost of collection, legal and publication costs with a minimum fee of $100.00 paid from the first sums collected, and that the said BEN YOURG shall execute any and all necessary documents to hold the Village of Arlington Heights harmless by reason of any action on the part of the said BEN YOURG, or any other person affected thereby.

SECTION FIVE: Any person, firm or corporation being the owner or owners of or parties interested in any of said property being capable of being served by said improvements, and any contractor, agent or representative of any such person, firm, or corporation making connections with the improvement hereinbefore described, without first making application to the Village for a permit, and without first paying the fees and charges herein provided for, shall be subject to a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00), and upon conviction thereof, the Village shall enter upon said street and remove all such connections so made within the street lines of said street.

Board Asks Probe Of Zoning Charge

Board Asks Probe 2-30 ital

Village manager L. A. Hanson was instructed Monday by Arlington Heights trustees "to investigate and take appropriate action" to rectify an alleged zoning violation by Roto Mercury-Comet Sales, Inc., 1410 E. Northwest hwy.

In a letter read at Monday's village board meeting, the Stonegate Homeowners association complained that the auto firm was using a lot at 400-406 Carlyle as a parking lot in violation of residential zoning.

THE ASSOCIATION also complained of oil drums behind the Roto building "which are full of refuse and uncovered," parking in an alley in violation of no parking signs and the testing of cars on Carlyle st.

Village attorney Stephen Jurco said these matters were called to the board's attention several months ago, but that negotiations with a Roto attorney ended in a standoff.

Jurco said he thought Roto officials had expressed intentions to apply for a zoning variation on the lot in question. Hansen indicated he had no knowledge of a variation request. (A

Woman Sues For Damages In Accident

A woman who was injured when she stepped on broken soda bottles on an Arlington Heights sidewalk and fell to the pavement has filed suit for $35,000 damages.

The ragged glass was from bottles that dropped from a root beer truck parked at Dunton and Campbell aves. in Arlington Heights for a delivery last April 28, according to the suit.

IT CHARGES the truck driver, Harold Jeter, failed to clean up the glass pieces before the plaintiff, Eleanor Ramsey, happened by.

Also named defendants in the Circuit court bill are Dad's Bottling co. of Chicago and Dad's Root Beer Co.

New Management For Exchange

The Arlington Heights Currency Exchange, 6 W. Campbell st., went under the new management of Raymond Glickson of Skokie, effective February 15. The new owner has operated similar businesses in the northwest suburbs for the past five years.

"We hope to be able to provide the residents of Arlington Heights with better service, especially in the field of auto licenses," Glickson said this week. (A

A LARGE STEP in the promotion of community-military relationships was taken this year when the Village of Arlington Heights disclosed the design for its 1961 village vehicle sticker. The sticker, being displayed by owners of vehicles in Arlington Heights, honors the 45th Artillery Brigade (AD), which has its headquarters on Central rd. south of the village. The sticker depicts a Nike-Hercules missile with the words, "Home of the 45th Artillery Brigade Air Defense." (A

Eastwood Events

Welcme to Eastwood is extended to two families who recently moved to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bartnek are new neighbors now occupying the former C. M. Heinze home at 214 N. Lincoln lane. The Bartneks previously lived in Des Plaines.

While the George Kujawski family called Danville, Ill. their home for the past three years, they are originally from Poland, and have lived in West Germany and Sweden before arriving in the United States to become permanent citizens. Mr. Kujawski is a physicist in the space technology division of Guardite in Wheeling. Painting is his hobby and he is especially pleased to be so near the Art Institute in Chicago.

The Kujawskis have three children, Eva, 14; Aina, 2½ and baby Mark, 6 months old. Eva, a freshman at Arlington high school, is already on the school's honor roll, after just three years residence in this country.

MR. AND MRS. Kujawski are occupying the former residence of the George Moore family at 202 N. Dryden.

All their neighbors wish them happiness in their new homes to these two families.

The fifth birthday of Gary Glader was observed February 21 with a luncheon party for six of his friends. Johnnie Harty and Tammie Behrens were present, along with youngsters from chicago and Mt. Prospect. The flu bug prevented Jeffie Haseman from sharing the birthday fun. Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glader of N. Brighton pl.

A duo birthday party was held at the Stewart Schultzes on Sunday, the actual birthdate of Mr. Schultz. Since son Scott celebrated his first birthday Tuesday, Feb. 28, Sunday seemed to be a fine day for grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pamperien, to come from LaGrange to wish the two Schultzes - father and son - happy birthday.

March 6 will be Stu Fitz-Patrick's birthday and it will be a real family celebration. His mother, sister and her family and daughter Judy and her new husband are all coming to wish Stu "many happy returns."

MR. AND Mrs. Steven Bartolone, 408 N. Hickory, entertained ten guests for a ham dinner and an evening of games and conversation Saturday night. The couples, from Chicago, Melrose Park and Park Ridge, are longtime friends who at one time were all near neighbors in Chicago,. Three of the couples, who had never seen the Bartolone's newest baby, brought gifts for 3-month-old Susan who was born on Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. Kenneth Behm was surprised guest of honor at a stork shower a week ago Sunday in the home of Mrs. Dorothy House. Besides Eunice's sister, her mother and Chicago friends, immediate neighbors present were Eileen Anderson, Nina Hoym, Marcia Kozakiewicz, Vera Mell, Barbara Hanner and Mrs. Stewart Schultz. (A

Arlington Greens

A general meeting of the Arlington Greens Community association will be held March 7 at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tomaso, 635 E. Clarendon. A slate of candidates to hold office for the coming year will be presented and nominations from the members will be welcomed. Those planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Tomaso at Cl 5-4102.

Mrs. Jean Waffle, 1154 N. Dryden, hosted a birthday luncheon for her neighbors, Emily Coward and Marty Keller, last Tuesday. Guests were Bea Pettenuzzo and Jane Brown. A birthday luncheon Wednesday, also hosted by Mrs. Waffle for Mrs. Keller, was attended by Evelyn Korff, Alice Nichols Donna Thompson and Mrs. Thompson's mother.

The O. J. Baileys, 627 E. Clarendon were joined by the Albert Maioriellos of Mundelein on a motor trip to the west early in February. They made stops at Albuquerque, N.M., the Las Vegas area, a tour of the Grand Canyon and Los Angeles, where a trip to Disneyland captured their fancy. A stop in Santa Maria to visit friends and the train trip bringing them home last weed Wednesday ended their 2-week winter vacation.

DEEDEE TESTA, 1115 N. Beverly lane, 3½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Testa, came home last week Thursday after more than two weeks in Northwest Community hospital, where she underwent treatment.

Responding to a sudden illness call from Mrs. Ruth LeKander, 1102 N. Dryden, last Wednesday evening, her neighbor, Mrs. Mary Zitzer, hurried over to help out and found it was only a ruse. She became the guest of honor at the baby shower arranged for her. Lorraine Smith, Betty Roegner, Grace O'Neil, Peg Kramer, Marian Metzel, and Elaine Bradshaw made up the guest list.

Four-year-old Mary Beth Woehlck, 1112 N. Pine ct., celebrated her birthday February 22 at an afternoon party for 12 playmates.

Helping Grandfather Harry Ward celebrate his birthday, the Gordon Baer family, 1147 N. Hickory, spent last weekend in Peoria.

The Bob Foremans of 1111 N. Pine ct. joined his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Foreman of Broadview, for a drive to Elgin and dinner last Sunday to observe the senior couple's 40th wedding anniversary.

With no February 29 on the calendar this year, 9-year-old Ellen Kargo, 618 E. Clarendon, chose last Sunday to celebrate her birthday. Her family dinner party was attended by grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Kupel of Chicago.

HOUSE GUESTS of Mr. and Mrs. Len Hauskey, 1112 N. Haddow ct., since last Friday are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hauskey Sr., who motored from their home in Minneapolis for a visit with their son and his family.

The strike-bound airlines last week provided an unexpected visitor for the Pete Johnson family, 709 E. Olive. Mrs. Johnson's brother, Mathew Whalen Jr., returning from a sales convention in Miami, used the stop-over advantageously and spent three days visiting the relatives. A Sunday family reunion dinner in the Johnson household was attended by 20, including father, Matthew Whalen Sr., sister, Virginia Whalen, aunt, Agnes Hunt of Perry, Pa., the Norman Press family of LaGrange Park and Mrs. Rita Weiland of Chicago. Matt left Sunday for the flight home to Pomona, Cal.

New residents in Hickory Meadows are Ronald and Lorry Miller, who moved into their new home at 802 E. Jules st. February 20 from Chicago's northwest side. The Millers have a 5½-month-old son, Billy. Mr. Miller is a safety engineer for the Aetna Casualty and Surety company in Chicago. (A

A Correction

Paddock Publications inadvertently reported last week that Robert Wegrzyn of Arlington Heights, who was killed in an auto accident February 20, was driving his own car.

In fact, Wegrzyn, 31, was a passenger in an auto being driven by his brother-in-law, Eugene Quota of Oak Lawn. The mishap occurred near Galesburg.

Caucus Candidates File Nominating Petitions

Thursday, March 2, 1961

Runningmates on the 1961 Caucus Party ticket filed nominating petitions Saturday in the office of the village clerk, assuring the appearance of their names on the ballot April 18.

Filing with village clerk Mildred Pearson were John G. Woods, candidate for president; Richard A. Glantz, William J. Moore and Norval B. Stephens, candidates for trustees, and Mrs. Alberta Foerster, village clerk candidate.

WOODS, of 501 N. Windsor dr., indicated the party is in the process of formulating a platform and that it should be ready for publication next week.

In hinting the platform's content, Woods said, "Every resident of Arlington Heights will be encouraged to take an active interest in village government and to attend board meetings.

"Furthermore, specific time will be set aside for the board to answer questions or receive comments and suggestions from citizens."

WOODS EXPLAINED that, if elected, he would strive to get agendas for village board meetings ready in time for prior publication in the Herald. He also promised to work for shorter board meetings.

Trustee candidate Glantz, of 202 S. Stratford rd., commented, "We intend to reexamine all village services with a view to improving efficiency and economy. We believe taxes can be cut."

Candidate Moore, of 6 S. Waterman, noted "the need for immediate development of a positive plan for orderly but vigorous annexation of adjacent areas."

Candidate Stephens, of 330 S. Bristol ln., said his party feels "appropriate steps should be taken to attract desirable tax-sharing commercial and research enterprises."

MRS. FOERSTER, of 1541 N. Ridge, pointed out that "the village clerk's office too can be extremely valuable in communications and liaison work, as well as provide essential services." (A

First Area Flood Map Is Released

The first flood hazard map for the Chicago metropolitan area has been completed and published by the U. S. Geological Survey, the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission announced today. The map was prepared at the request of the commission, as a test of the feasibility of a flood hazard mapping program for the whole metropolitan area.

The new map, second of its kind in the nation, shows land northeast of Chicago Heights that was innundated by floods of the Little Calumet river and its tributaries, Thorn, Deer and North creeks, during July, 1957. Very nearly the same land was covered by the flood of October, 1954. These flood plain areas, where frequent flooding may be expected, are shown in blue on the multicolored map, and are visible at a glance.

The Geological survey map also contains a graph of the occurrence of annual flood peaks; profiles of the Little Calumet river and its tributaries, and flood - frequency curves indicating the estimated frequency of future floods at gauging stations along the tributaries. The map covers a standard topographic quadrangle which is approximately 48 square miles an area. (A14

How Do Illinois Schools Compare?

How do public schools of Illinois compare with those of other states?

Such a question defies a meaningful answer becuase many complex factors must be considered in evaluating school systems, according to research director Sam M. Lambert in a report issued last week by the National Education association.

However, many sets of statistics, and there are 68 in the report, can throw considerable light on this question.

For example, a state that ranks first in teachers' salaries, third in percent of pupils finishing high school, second in expenditures per pupil, and fourth in proportion of teachers with bachelor's degrees, could probably be considered among the better school systems.

ILLINOIS with $5,725, ranked 9th in teachers' salaries compared to the highest average held by California with $6,700. Wisconsin ranked first, 94.9 percent of pupils finishing high school, compared to Illinois 9th with 73.8 per cent. Illinois ranked 44th in per-capita state expenditures for all public education in 1959 with $28.04, compared to Delaware in first place with $137.07. Oklahoma was first with 99.7 percent of elementary teachers with at least four years of college preparation compared to Illinois in 18th place with 73.9.

An analysis of the 68 statistical tables showed Illinois above average 45 per cent and below average 55 per cent in comparison to all other states.

Illinois ranked 3rd in personal income per pupil enrolled in pubilc elementary and secondary schools in 1960. It ranked 4th in per-capita federal individual income and employment taxes. It also ranked 4th in nonpublic school enrollment as per cent of total enrollment in public schools. (A-14

Suburbs Map Annual Assault Against Hardy Mosquitoes

by TOM EDWARDS

Most people are already starting to worry about their annual "big bite," their April tax bill due next month along with all the other bills that constantly nettle and harry them.

One kind of bite they aren't thinking about is mosquito bites, the memory of which has already faded since long ago last summer, and is only a remote part of the future warm months.

For who mars the delightful harbingerings of spring with reminders of the ugly little beasts that tiptoe about our juicy skin and sink their disproportionate lethal syringe's into unsuspecting quarters.

BUT THE BITE of a mosquito's bill, about which we feel much less helpless in coping with than the seemingly abatable and ever growing plague of taxes, is what thoughts of spring mean to the permanent fourman crew of the Northwest Mosquito district.

In fact, they battle against this nemesis 12 months of the year. Their work will probably be between a $1 or $2 figure on most tax bills ($1.25 per $5,000 assessed valuation), one bite for which complaints are nil.

This month they begin their inspections for mosquito hatchings in order to nip them in the bud. In fact, some mosquito larvae, commonly known as the tiny wrigglers or "wigglers," have already been found squirming around.

Wilbur R. Mitchell of Mt. Prospect, technical director of the mosquito control operation, tells that these fantastically hardy larvae have been found in ponds where there is still ice.

ONCE LOCATED, mosquito breeding spots are treated with oil to kill the larvae. During the fall months the men are busy draining mosquito breeding sites, and during the late winter they prepare the equipment for the summer onslaught when about 30 or 40 more men are added to the crew.

But the mosquito is an uncannily resourceful bug that defies the attack of man. His life history is still not completely known, and his methods of procreating his species approach wizardry.

Somehow, Mitchell relates, mosquitoes, instinctively know where there will be water. They lay their eggs either directly in the water or at points where they know water will be, such as where ponds form in the spring. "They have built-in radar, for water," Mitchell says.

OR THE EGGS (between 50 and 300 are laid by each female) will even be laid on rises away from the pond's edge. Rains gradually wash them down to the pond. Thus, if the eggs laid in the pond are destroyed, others are still available to be washed into the pond and live.

Still further, all the eggs laid by a single female do not hatch at one time. Some seem to have an inhibitor of some kind, "a trigger mechanism," Mitchell explains. Though one mosquito may hatch in June, its brother from the same clutch of eggs may not get around to popping into life until a month later, another means by which nature insures the survival of the species.

After the egg hatches, the mosquito spends about 7-10 days as a wriggler growing into an adult. But the life span of the adult is still an enigma. "Laboratory conditions aren't the same as nature's conditions," Mitchell said.

Mosquitoes usually spend the winter in the egg form, or in some cases as adults in hibernation accounting for the presence of one in the bathroom at such odd times as January.

WHEN WEATHER conditions are right, mosquito populations build up to an "outbreak." They migrate, traveling to places where their population isn't so great (like humans to the suburbs). They may move from a few miles to about 15 or even 30 miles distant.

It is during the migrations that the residential areas swarm with the bugs, and it is these peaks that the abatement crew tries to head off by elimination of breeding areas.

But it is like a flood, and the war is then against the adult bug, covering residential areas with a fog containing a slight amount of DDT.

(One thing Mitchell notes, it is only the female mosquito that feeds on animals, the male being content to live on plant juices. The blood helps in the production of fertile eggs.

Last summer weather conditions were unfavorable for Mr. Mosquito, and he reached only "peak" periods, the beginning of July and the first and last of August. By keeping a record of weather conditions, Mitchell can pinpoint to almost a day the time of an outbreak. "But there is no limit as to the number of times we might have to spray. We may do so 20 times or more if the mosquito concentration demands it," he said.

IT DOESN'T take much to kill a mosquito, and the spray solution leaves only about a tablespoon of DDT per acre, Mitchell reports. "It doesn't have any effect on humans, fish or birds."

Main breeding place in the Northwest area is the Des Plaines river basin. Others are the runoff areas of Salt creek flowing south, Popular creek flowing toward Elgin, and Spring creek basin in the Barrington area.

Also, they breed in sewers, flood waters, and in oxidation ponds. Storm water retention basins are little problem, Mitchell explained, because they usually contain fish which gobble the wrigglers.

There are 40 species of mosquitos in this area, and about 160 in the United States. Main two species are the Culex pipiens or the "domestic" variety, and the Aedes vexans. Also, 17 of the Anopheles quadrimaculatus, the malaria carrying species, were identified under the microscope by Mitchell last summer. Eight light traps are constantly used to obtain mosquitoes to determine species and concentration.

The domestic variety of the insect "is the one that likes to sleep with you," Mitchell relates. "It also breeds around the house, even in water filled tin cans." The other most common one breeds in water runoff areas.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement district covers 245 square miles, larger than the city of Chicago. Boundaries are County Line road on the north, Elgin on the west, Devon avenue on the south, and Park Ridge on the east.

HEADQUARTERS for the district's operation, which began in 1957, is at 147 W. Hintz rd., Wheeling. There the 11 fog or mist sprayers are kept, and the one unit for spraying sewers through their manholes.

The spray units were kept in operation about 19 hours per day for 65 days during the 1960 season, it is stated in the annual operation report. The 19 residential areas included in the district can be covered in 7½ nights, about ¾ to one square mile per night (8 p.m. to 5 a.m. when the spraying is done). There are nine inspection and treatment crews during the peak season.

Through drainage operations, about 135 acres of farm land were "reclaimed." Annual budget is about $130,000.

MITCHELL began in his line of work while serving in the U.S. armed forces. He spent 12 years in charge of a similar operation at Freeport, before coming here in 1957.

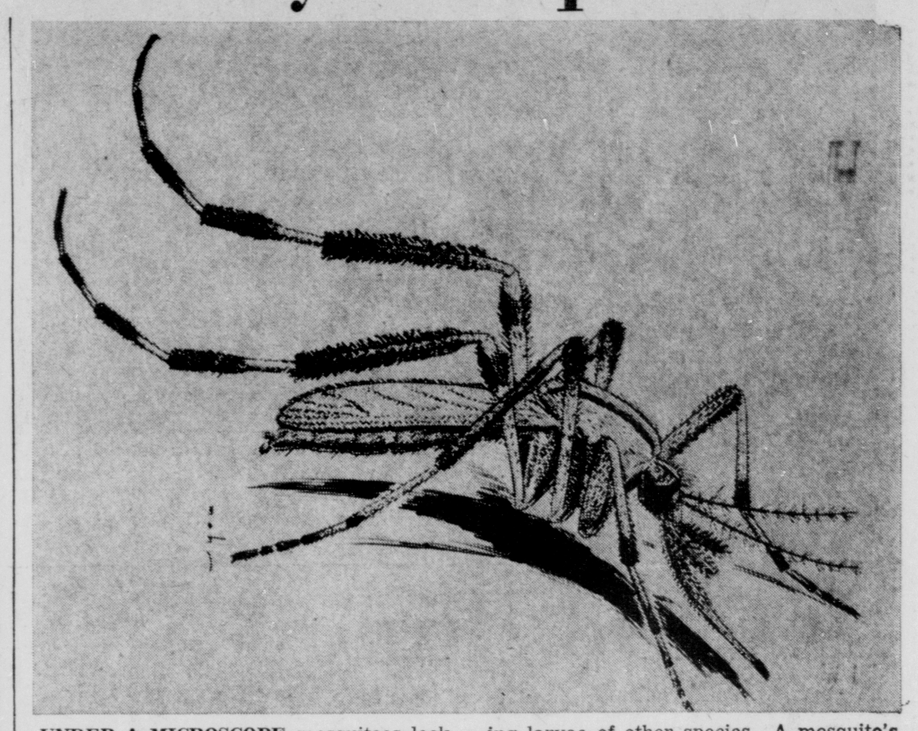
MOSQUITO SPRAYERS are being readied by the crew of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement district for this summer's warfare. Above Wilbur R. Mitchell, technical director of the district, inspects a machine which is used in residential areas at night spreading a fog containing a 3½ per cent DDT solution. In the background are storage tanks for insecticides and oils.



UNDER A MICROSCOPE mosquitoes look like they feel when they decide to feed on you. Above is one of the largest species of Illinois mosquitoes, the "gallinipper" or Psorophora ciliata. It may attain a wingspread of over half an inch and is a vicious biter. Appearing cannibalistic, it is. The larvae or wigglers of this species, which breed in rain pools, have the habit of eating larvae of other species. A mosquito's stinger or proboscis, is quite complex, consisting of five parts. The long fronds on its head are the antennae, and the two short ones are the mixilliary palpus. Since only female mosquitoes bite animals, blood is believed to help in insuring egg fertilization.

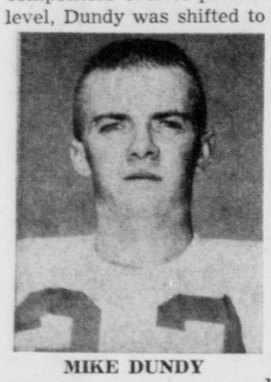
Semi-Final Tilt at Prospect Tonight

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

THE RECENT DISMISSAL of veteran quarterback Mel Meyers from the University of Illinois football squad, for "failure to return to classes in time following the vacation," prompted several people to inquire about the possibility of Arlington high grad Mike Dundy getting a shot at the No. 1 signal-calling slot next fall.

An All-State halfback in high school and one of the finest competitors ever to perform at Arlington in any sport on any level, Dundy was shifted to quarterback last fall in his initial gridiron season at Illinois. He showed promise before suffering an injury that sidelined him for a good part of the plebe campaign.



MIKE DUNDY

However, Mike will be back at halfback when the grid drills open, according to sources in Champaign-Urbana. Illinois had a fine crop of frosh halfbacks last fall but if Dundy is given the chance he deserves, he could make the grade with the Illini.

Mike currently is showing well in indoor track, but that's no surprise to anyone who watched this tireless competitor perform for Coach Russ Attis at Arlington high. He finished second in the state 440 yard dash, copped the West Suburban quarter-mile crown, and was named to the All-State cinder aggregation.

Last Saturday Dundy hooked up in a special 600-yard run with one of the finest runners ever to perform in collegiate track, George Kerr. Kerr claimed both the 440 and 880 yard titles in the Big Ten outdoor last spring (with clockings of :46.1 and 1:51.6 respectively) and anchored the victorious Illinois mile relay team.

The fleet Jamaican has appeared on tracks all over the world including the Olympic Games in Rome where he finished third in the 800 meter run, match races in New Zealand, pre-Olympic meets in Europe and post-Olympic meets in Africa.

Kerr and Ted Beastall of Illinois started from scratch in the special 600 with former Northwestern standout Doug Gilbert given a 15-yard head start. Dundy and frosh teammate Mike Holbrook of Downers Grove were given 25-yard advantages.

All Mr. Kerr did was run the fastest 600-yard race in track history with a brilliant 1:09 standard. The American record of 1:09.5 may hold up, however, even though Saturday's race was run in lanes with official starters and timers. The AAU may frown on the handicapped runners, terming them "pacers."

Although Kerry's effort was remarkable, Illini frosh track coach Ed Bernauer was more excited about Dundy and Holbrook. "After all, we know George is one of the great runners in the world," he pointed out, "but those two freshmen ran a pace of 1:13 for the 600, and that's great!" Bernauer projected their time for the extra yardage.

Dundy finished second behind Kerr in the special race with Holbrook third.

THIS 'N THAT

Arlington and Barrington high schools are resuming athletic relations with a frosh baseball contest this spring . . . Next year junior-varsity and frosh basketball games are on the schedule between the two schools with varsity and soph hardwood contests on Dec. 1, 1962 . . . It is hoped that football will be resumed also in 1962 but nothing definite has been set up . . . Contests also will be scheduled in other sports . . . The last time Arlington and Barrington met in the regular schedule was in 1953 . . . The two schools have tangled in tourney competition since then with Arlington bumping the Bronchos in the sectional hardwood opener last winter . . . Arlington high grad Ralph Carlino stands 4-5-1 as a 123-pound wrestler with the Indiana university varsity . . . Another Arlington product, Dave Schreiber, is a frosh at Luther College in Decora, Ia., and has been doing some wrestling on a varsity level at 154-pounds . . . Dave was 22-2-1 as an Arlington senior working at 145 . . . Stan Norman, senior sprinter from Arlington high on the Grinnell College swimming team, has been turning in brilliant performances in the 50-, 60-, and 100-yard freestyle events and was unbeaten after the squad's first eight meets.

Ralph A. Gotlund, of 804 N. Beverly, Arlington Heights, received an honorable mention in the Field and Stream 1960 Fishing Contest for his catch of a muskellunge weighing 41 pounds, 13 ounces. Ralph landed his big one at Trout Lake, Wis., on Oct. 14, 1960.

Michigan State Coach Forddy Anderson believes basketball would profit by the invention of a metallic or plastic jet which would "sing" when the ball slipped through, adding to spectator enjoyment . . . On top of everything else, Ohio State's cagers are a smart bunch . . . The 13-man Buckeye squad averaged 3.01 out of a possible 4.00 in grades . . . Roger Dinwiddie, who wrestles in the 157-pound division for Missouri University, has been blind since he was 11 . . . He plays the electric organ, wrestles, and is carrying a 3.5 (out of 4) average in pre-law . . . George Bork, the West Suburban scoring champ last winter from Arlington high, finished with 125 points in 19 varsity games at Northern Illinois and sported a .495 shooting average . . . Bork canned 56 baskets and 13 free throws . . . Only one Illinois mark is included in the national high school track honor roll for 1960 . . . That is the 6-6¼ high jump by Maine East's Chuck Mohr in the Evanston district last spring . . . This is Illinois' poorest showing in years, but anyone who sat through that weather-handicapped state meet last spring can understand the reason.

Jim Rodgers Tops Interim's Scoring

And it isn't surprising.

East Leyden's talented Jim Rodgers is the Interim league scoring champion for the second straight year.

Rodgers finished the 12-game loop campaign with 277 points for a 23.8 ppg and a 55-point bulge over runnerup George Pomey of Prospect. The two pace-setters both collected 85 baskets this season, but Rodgers dropped in 107 free throws, including 19 in the Eagles' rout of Glenbrooklast Friday.

AS A JUNIOR, Rodgers had pumped in 222 points in the 10-game schedule for a 22.2 ppg. His nearest competition last winter was Greg Sletteland of Glenbrook with 186.

Thanks to an 18-point performance against Proviso West, Prospect high's Bill Zadel passed Wheaton's Jack Hutchinson and claimed third place in the scoring derby. Zadel, who had landed the eighth slot as a junior, popped in 186 points while Hutchinson registered 185.

The scoring leaders:

	B	Ft	Pts
Rodgers (E. Leyden)	85	107	277
Pomey (Prospect)	85	52	222
Zadel (Prospect)	74	38	186

Maine East Heads Squad

Coaches Honor Ten Players On West Suburban Star Unit

by BOB FRISK

Ten boys, including three juniors and two repeaters, were named to the 1960-61 West Suburban all-conference basketball team released Wednesday by the league coaches.

Maine township East's Blue Demons, blanked last year in the all-star selections but the unbeaten champ and class of the loop this winter, placed three boys on the hardwood honor team.

York and Hinsdale each landed two slots with single representatives from LaGrange, Downers Grove, and Riverside-Brookfield rounding out the select alignment. Arlington and Glenbard West failed to capture spots.

WSC All-Stars

Charles Adams (York)	6-2
Bob Rudolph (York)	6-4
Bob Haarlow (Hinsdale)	6-2
Hal Brandt (Hinsdale)	6-3
Dave Wotring (Downers)	5-9
Dick Ruggles (LaGrange)	5-10
Ed Petrick (Maine East)	6-1
Steve Smith (Maine East)	6-5
Don Gebbie (Maine East)	6-5
Tom Gard (Riverside)	6-4

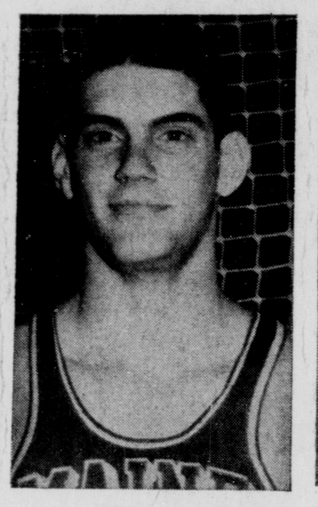
HINSDALE



STEVE SMITH
MAINE EAST

DICK RUGGLES
LaGRANGE

STEVE of Maine East, Bob Rudolph of York, and Bob Haarlow of Hinsdale are the juniors named to the squad. Repeaters from the 1959-60 selections include Hal Brandt of Hinsdale and conference scoring champ Dick Ruggles of LaGrange.

Other all-stars are York's Chuck Adams, Downers Grove's Dave Wotring, Maine East's Ed Petrick and Don Gebbie, and Riverside's Tom Gard.

No designation was made in regard to first and second teams and no honorable mentions were named by the eight conference coaches.

RUGGLES AND Brandt, the two all-star repeaters, both enjoyed impressive campaigns in league play although the LaGrange standout came out with the big prize—the conference scoring championship.

Fifth as a junior in the point derby with 211 markers in the 14 WSC encounters, Ruggles, a 5-10 guard, popped in 261 this winter. He finished with a five point bulge over runnerup Haarlow of Hinsdale.

Dick's high game offensively in league play was in the opener against Glenbard when he netted 11 baskets and 10 free throws for 32 points. He topped 20 on five occasions and didn't favor either half of the campaign in his production.

RUGGLES collected 132 markers through the first seven games and 129 in the final seven. He closed with 27 against York last Friday.

Brandt slipped a little from his offensive efforts as a junior though finishing with a respectable 207 total in the West Suburban. Brandt, who was an All-State quarterback in football, netted 210 as a junior for a sixth place slot in scoring.

Hal only eclipsed 20 points in one conference game but was one of the "headiest" players in the loop. A good team man, he handled both forward and guard slots. Brandt registered 23 against York in the season opener and had 19 against both Downers and Riverside.

HINSDALE'S other all-star, 6-2 Haarlow, was the second best scorer in the West Suburban as he averaged 18.3 points per game. Bill hit 20 or better on six occasions in the WSC, an item unequalled by any other performer this season, with a high of 28 against Riverside.

Haarlow had collected 165 league points as a sophomore on the varsity and should be definite All-State material next winter in his final campaign.

Maine East's champions, 14-0 for the loop season, are represented by three boys on the all-star team and a fourth, forward Bob Habetler, was also among the league's best.

SMITH, the talented 6-5, 212-pound junior, finished sixth in league scoring and hit 19 against Hinsdale, Downers, and LaGrange. Steve worked in the varsity alignment at Maine as a sophomore and registered 93 points. He should have a real big year in 1961-62.

Gebbie, the other 6-5, 200-pounder in the Demons' sizable front-line, joined Smith in giving Maine some impressive rebounding strength and also chipped in with 153 league points. Don had a high of 25 against Riverside.

PETRICK PLAYED an invaluable role on the conference champs. A smooth performer in the back-court, Ed also was an effective scorer, collecting 194 for the WSC season and finishing with a 13.9 ppg. The 6-1 senior hit double figures in his last 12 conference games with a high of 19 against R-B.

Reavis High Matmen Capture State Title

Reavis high school of Oak Lawn claimed three individual championships and rolled up 51 points for a convincing victory in the state wrestling meet last weekend at the University of Illinois.

Niles of the Suburban league finished second with 34 and North Chicago of the Tri-County landed fourth with 26.

Rounding out the top ten finishers were Granite City (25), Waukegan (25), Elgin (22), Evanston (21), Thornton (20), Morton (20), and Proviso East (19).

Heading the individual champions was Rick Bay of Waukegan who captured the 154-pound crown and walked off with his third straight state title. In addition, Bay extended his unbeaten string to 71 bouts, a mark that carries over three seasons.

BAY WAS THE only returning champion able to survive the rough eliminations. Bob Hopp, defending heavyweight titlist, had to settle for third place, and Fred Cosby, 180-pound champ as a junior, finished in the runnerup slot at heavyweight. Pekin's Larry Park, the 112-pound champ last winter, placed second at 120 this year.

In addition to Bay, the other mat champions include Don Snyder of Proviso East (95), Dave Jackson of Reavis (103), Bob Zacconi of Morton (112), Jim Dorsey of North Chicago (120), Ron Semetis of Carl Sandburg (127), Don Graf of Reavis (133), Jerry Torrence of Thornton (138), Willie Roy of Reavis (145), Don Evans of Oak Lawn (165), Dave Russell of Elgin (180), and Bob Picksen of Evanston (heavyweight).

PALATINE'S Pirates finished the highest among the area schools with seven points thanks to fourths by Brad McCreery (120) and Andy Oltyan (112) and one victory by soph George McCreery at 154.

Prospect collected one marker when heavyweight Darryl Phillips won his first match with a 3-2 decision over Bob Schulte of Blue Island. Phillips then bowed to Morton's Al Turdick, 5-2.

The Knights' Bob Trausch and Doug Vaughan both dropped opening matches at 127 and 133 respectively. Trausch fell, 7-6, to Rog Blankstein of New Trier and Vaughan was pinned in 5:47 by Downers Grove's Al Majorich.

Arlington's only tourney entry, sophomore Hal Selleck, was pinned in 5:31 of his opening match at 165 by Wood River's Don Neece.

Two Maine Squads In Cage Feature

The folks up Maine way have been waiting for this one!

Maine township East and Maine West, two neighboring high schools with a natural athletic rivalry, will battle for prestige and a regional title shot tonight (Thursday) when they meet in the second semi-final contest of the Prospect basketball tournament.

The winner will advance into Friday's championship fray and face the winner of last night's semi-final clash between host Prospect and Palatine.

Tonight's battle will begin at 7:30 p.m. with tomorrow's headliner at 8 p.m. Near-capacity crowds are expected for both battles.

The two remaining regional encounters and the Arlington sectional and Northwestern super-sectional tilts will be carried by station WNWC in Arlington Heights, 92.7 on the FM dial.

TO ADD to the drama surrounding tonight's fracas is the fact that the two Maine schools have never met in varsity basketball.

Maine township East's Blue Demons will carry an impressive 19-2 record into the game. Coach Bernie Brady's classy outfit rolled through 14 West Suburban contests unbeaten to annex that crown and is ranked fourth in the Chicago area by one metropolitan daily.

Balanced scoring has been the key to the Blue Demons' success this season with four of the five starters consistently hitting in double figures. One of the guard slots has given Brady some trouble with 5-10 Johnny Hanson, 6-1 Tom Von Bergen, and 6-0 Chris Adams all trying their hand at filling the back-court position.

IN TUESDAY'S 62-36 rout of Glenbrook the big four of Don Gebbie, Steve Smith, Ed Petrick, and Bob Habetler all hit for double figures with the quartet combining to net 24 baskets in 41 shots. Smith claimed scoring honors with 15 points.

COACH Gaston Freeman's Warriors, 11-12 over the season, recovered from a slow start to bump Niles of the Suburban league, 67-57, Tuesday evening as three boys carried the scoring attack.

Sophomore Al Waters, a promising 6-2 forward, popped in 17, hitting seven of ten from the field, and senior Doug Halpenny also collected 17. Senior Bruce Shriver registered 16.

Maine West fired at an impressive .509 clip from the field although it could hit on only 15 of 32 free throws.

LaRocco popped in 13 baskets and six free throws for the top individual performance by a Prospect soph this season. The previous high among the frosh-soph cagers had been 22 by Bob Hope and Ken Groh.

Hope added 18 markers, 14 in the first half, for runnerup honors behind LaRocco and Gary Beck finished with seven for Coach Bob Hoese's Knights.

Prospect had moved out to a 36-22 halftime lead and outscored Deerfield 27-15 in an explosive third quarter.

Arlington High Hosts Sectional

Arlington high school will again host a sectional basketball tournament with the trio of games set for March 8 through March 10.

The first game Wednesday evening, March 8, will match the Prospect regional winner with the Elgin regional winner. On Thursday evening the Barrington regional winner will meet the North Chicago regional champion.

All games will begin at 8 p.m. with the doors opening at 6:30 p.m.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

LEAGUE TITLES HAD BEEN sewed up in a number of circuits before Friday's games. Only upset was Evergreen Park defeating Lincoln-Way, 41-38, and throwing the latter into a two way tie for the Southwest Suburban with Homewood-Flossmoor. Bloom and Thornton continued winning and tied in the South Suburban. Maine East finished unbeaten in the West Suburban but had to come from behind to beat Arlington. Hinsdale finished a game behind. Prospect edged Wheaton by one game in the Interim Association. East Rockford clinched the big 8, Warren already had the Northwest sewed up, as had Crystal Lake the North Suburban. Waukegan was unbeaten in the Suburban League and may be the team to reckon with in sectional play. Their regional with North Chicago, Warren, and Zion should be one of the best in the area. North Chicago was undefeated in the Tri-County and Geneva, an easy district winner, was champ of the Little 7.

AS THE SEASON CLOSES a look at Palatine's prospects in basketball the next two years is not an overly optimistic one. Two of the better players will return from a varsity which had a 4-10 record plus a first line substitute. The sophs while winning their last three also had a 4-10 record. The frosh lost all their games with North Suburban schools. Not a very hopeful outlook for the Pirates. Still, with 6' 7" Ron Kozlicki available for two more seasons and John Seehausen and John Roberts returning next year as seniors, Palatine will not do too badly at the varsity level.

This past season two of Palatine's four victories were over Barrington and Libertyville who tied for second place and the Pirates did move up to a tie with Dundee for sixth place. Also, five losses were by four points or less and two in overtime games. A higher finish in 1961-62 is a strong possibility and our guess is a first division berth and a contender next season. This past season some boys on the varsity disappointed at times in their playing but the real bright spot was the work of big Denny Christensen who proved to be the team leader, leading socrer, and hardest worker. We were glad to see that he was named to the all-league squad.

ONE OF THE AXIOMS of basketball coaching is to make the opposing team play your type of game. Woodstock is far and away the weakling of the North Suburban Conference. In fact they are the weakest representative in that league in the last five seasons. Yet, they made Palatine play a wild run and shoot brand of ball from the start last Friday night and came close to winning their first league game of the season for they trailed by only four points with a minute to go. Woodstock has no height while Palatine's front line is one of the tallest in the league but the press defense of the Blue Streaks seemed to make Palatine run and shoot without getting the big boys under the basket for the rebounds or short jump shots. Thus the height differential was minimized and the small inept Woodstock boys made a game of it all the way. That is the way it is in this game called basketball.

Illinois has the best swimming team in the nation at the prep school level in the New Trier contingent which took all but two of the individual first places and broke three national record last weeksnd. New Trier had firsts scored by six boys and piled up an unprecedented 104 points in taking the state title for the 12th time since 1942.

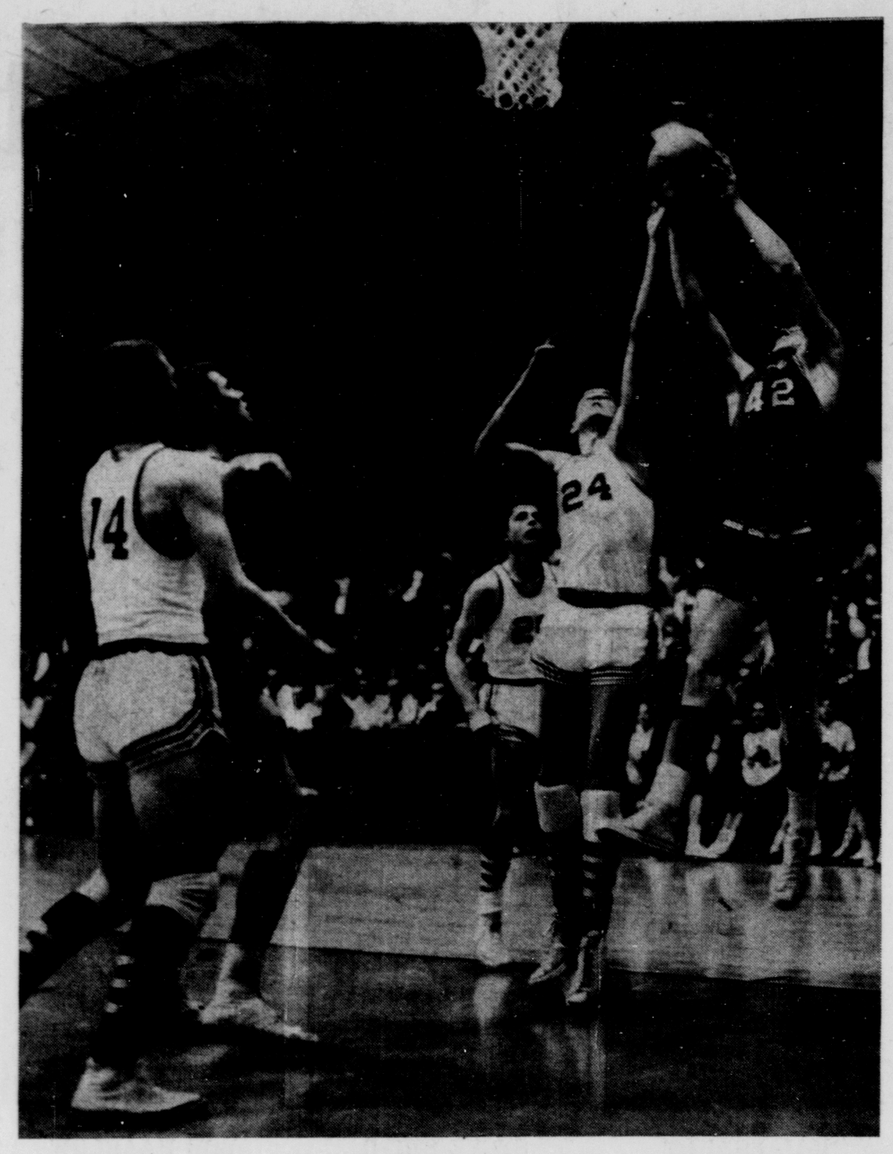
A week from Friday the Chicago Relays will be run at the amphitheater. Dick Welty of Palatine, who is on the Northwestern University track team, will run in the mile relay at the big meet. Northwestern has a stronger team than usual and the mile relay team has been a winner in most dual meets. Welty's dad, Richard K. Welty, is P. E. teacher at Palatine high and directed his son to a second in the state in the 440. Retired from active coaching, the elder Welty has been attending most of the meets that his son has been competing in this year.

20 YEARS AGO

Palatine won the district tournament by whipping Lake Forest 52-28 after taking Warren 31-19 and Northbrook 42-25. Ray Hahnfeldt led tourney scorers with 40 points in 3 games. Bob Hollinger was star of the championship game. Palatine has now won 22 of 24 games and has a two year record of 40 wins and 5 losses. The Pirates have a winning streak going of 14 in a row which they will put on the line against Libertyville in the Waukegan regional opening session.

10 YEARS AGO

Barrington took its own regional by defeating Palatine 73-48 in the final. The Bronchos scored 33 baskets in 50 shots for a 67% average from the field to submerge coach J. E. Stutzman's Pirates. Palatine had surprised the experts by beating Wauconda 63-51 with Ray Sievers scoring 22, and had upset Arlington 47-38 in the semi-finals. Arlington had beaten Palatine twice during the season in convincing style. Don Buenzow, 6' 7" Pirate center and a junior, scored 17 against Arlington and 23 in the championship game. Barrington shot over a 50% average from the field for the entire tournament led by Dan Osinski and Steve Roake. Sievers, Rogers, and Buenzow of Palatine; Clark and Evans of Arlington; Art McWilliams of Northbrook; Bob Nolan of Wauconda; Newman of Libertyville; and Cochran, Pederson, Roake, and Osinski of Barrington made the all-tourney squad of 12 players.



THIS BATTLE FOR POSSESSION in Monday evening's regional play involves Palatine high's Denny Christensen (42) and Arlington's Bob Jacobsen (24). Looking on (l. to r.) are the Cards' Vince Furlong (14), Palatine's Ron Kozlicki, and Arlington's Gary Brodnan. The Pirates won the exciting hardwood encounter, 47-46.

Loss Skein Snapped

Pirates Top Streaks; Tie For Sixth Place

Three boys scored in double figures Friday evening as Palatine hammered out a 61-55 north suburban conference decision over Woodstock and thereby clinched a share of sixth place with Dundee.

Friday's victory, acquired within the friendly confines of the PTHS arena, halted a gloomy seven game losing streak for the Pirates who wrapped up their conference slate with a 4-14 mark.

The triumph coupled with Monday's regional win over Arlington gave Coach Dick Kolze's boys an overall 9-13 record heading into Wednesday's regional semi-final collision with mighty Prospect.

AS FOR the hapless Blue Streaks, Friday's setback dropped the lid on a disastrous campaign which saw Coach Gib Kurtz' crew extend their record-breaking winless skein in North Suburban Conference play to 23 games.

Fourteen of those losses were incurred during the current '60-61 campaign with the other nine wrapping up the past winter.

As a matter of fact, Woodstock's last NSC triumph came at Palatine's expense in their first meeting last season.

THE STREAKS additionally walked off with doormat "honors" this season for the fifth consecutive time!

Palatine's superior height was instrumental in Friday's victory. The Pirates outrebounded the visitors, 56-31.

Senior Denny Christensen, who along with guards Jon Fabri and Curt Marker made their last appearance before the home fans, whipped in 10 points to lead the Pirates to a 14-12 edge at the conclusion of the initial session.

PALATINE matched that margin in the succeeding period for a 4-point bulge at intermission, 28-24.

John Seehausen and Ron Kozlicki combined for 10 points as the Pirates lengthened their advantage to 45-37 with eight minutes to play.

With Roger Eckert and Rex Ritter leading the way, Woodstock fought back desperately in the fourth and final stanza but still fell five points short.

CHRISTENSEN, with 19 points, paced the victors' attack but high-point honors went to Woodstock's Eckert with 23.

on the star squad finished third and fourth in the scoring derby. Rudolph, a 6-4 junior, registered 233 markers in the 14 encounters and Adams, a 6-2 senior, had 229.

Rudolph had the third best single game output in the WSC with his 31 against Glenbard West and topped 20 in three other games. Adams, 11th in loop scoring as a junior, pumped in 26 against La-Grange, and 23 and 22 against Glenbard for his top efforts.

RIVERSIDE'S Gard, a 6-4½ senior, sat out one conference game and still finished with 212 points. He was the author of the best individual effort with a brilliant 33-point performance against York and topped 20 in two other games. As a junior, Tom had finished 14th in the WSC scoring race.

Downers Grove's Wotring, spark-plug of the Trojans' attack, was a dependable backcourt performer and capable scorer. He hit 21 against Riverside and 20 against Glenbard and tallied in double figures in eight of the squad's last nine conference games.

Murphy Clinches Loop Title

It's official! Basil Murphy of Zion-Benton high is the new North Suburban Conference scoring champ.

The Zee-Bee senior guard fired in 25 points against Barrington Friday to hike his 14 game total to 298, 38 tallies more than his closest oursuer, Tom Douglas of Barrington.

Douglas bested Palatine's Denny Christensen in their torrid battle for second place. Christensen's 249 point total fell 11 shy of Douglas' mark.

MURPHY, third in last year's scoring scramble, replaced Libertyville's Jamie Hill atop the NSC heap. Hill, who won with 269 points in '59-60, wound up eighth, 82 points off Murphy's pace.

Murphy's winning total fell 36 points short of the standing conference record of 334 set by another Zee-Bee, Ronnie Stanton, in '56-57.

Two other Pirates, Ron Kozlicki and John Seehausen, placed among the leaders, finishing 11th and 12th respectively.

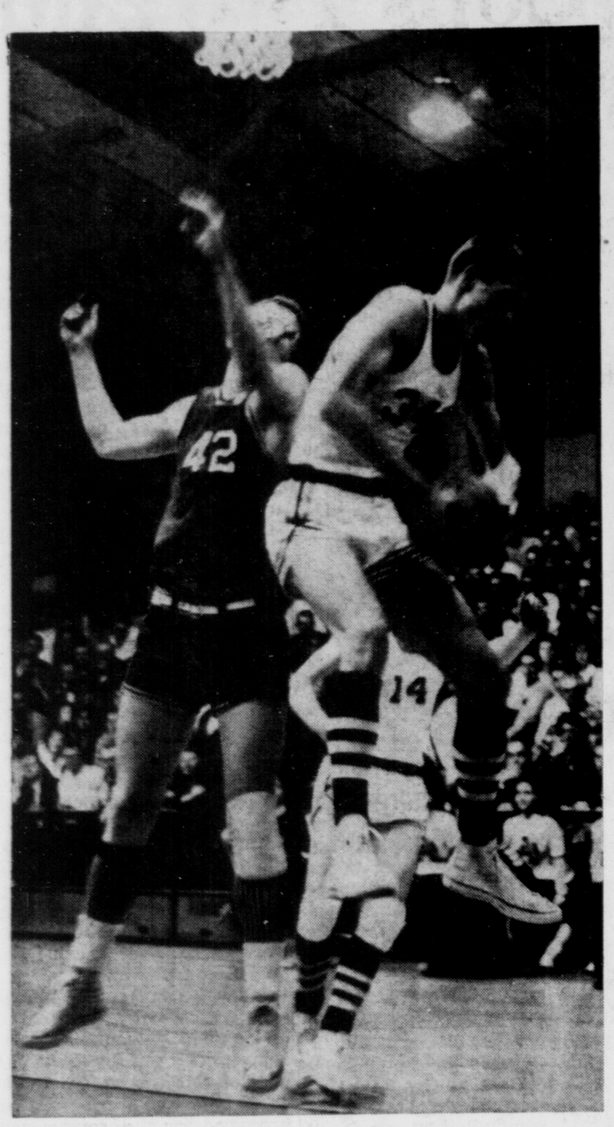
Prospect, Palatine Cop Tourney Openers



ARLINGTON'S JIM CLABAUGH (34) pulls down this rebound with Palatine's Denny Christensen (42) also in the action in first half of the Pirates' 47-46 triumph Monday evening. The victory gave Palatine a semi-final berth in the Prospect regional tournament.

Knights Massacre Maryville

by TOM McSHANE

The Prospect Knights clobbered Maryville of Des Plaines 98-38 Monday night in the first round of the Prospect regional basketball tournament. The win boosted the Knight season mark to 23-1, and qualified Coach Dick Kinneman's lads for the tourney semi-final round with Palatine last night (Wednesday).

The Monday contest was barely a warm-up for the talented Knights. Kinneman rested his regulars through the second and fourth quarters, and let his second stringers gain the tournament exposure.

Dick Palmer, the only starter who played the entire game, came away with a record-tying 32-point performance to lead the Prospect romp.

The Maryville squad, giving away inches and pounds at every position, played its heart out right down to the wire, and once again won the admiration of the big crowd.

GEORGE Pomey, Bill Zadel and Palmer started the Prospect avalanche in the opening minutes as they led the Knights to an 8-0 lead, which then expanded to 24-6 at the end of the quarter. Pomey had seven, Zadel five, and Palmer four in the surge.

Palmer took over in the second quarter, dumping 12 of the squad's 28 points as the Knight lead mounted to 52-25 at halftime.

In the opening four minutes of the third period, Prospect stretched its lead to 59-30. Then, with the second string and Palmer in the game, Kinneman's lads went on a rampage that netted them 21 straight points. The Knights drove home 10 of the points on blistering fast breaks that had the crowd on its feet.

PALMER HIT two free throws as the fourth quarter opened to widen the Knight lead to 80-30. Prospect continued to pour it on as the game neared its end, then stalled after gaining a 98-37 lead to keep the final count under the 100 mark.

Palmer's 32 points tied the school scoring record set by Pomey earlier in the year against Wheaton. Pomey was second in the scoring column with 15 points. Rich Bachhuber came off the bench to lead the second stringers with 14, taking the lead in the fast break column with five buckets.

John Abraham was high man for the Terriers with 14 points.

PALATINE'S RON KOZLICKI (33) and Arlington's Bob Jacobsen (24) battle for control here in first half of the Pirates' 47-46 victory Monday evening in the Prospect regional basketball tourney. Palatine moved into the semi-finals with the triumph and was slated to meet Prospect's host Knights last night (Wednesday).

Pirates Handle Cardinals' Five

by BOB FRISK

A determined crew of Palatine Pirates, down but not out for a good part of the contest, took command midway in the fourth period Monday evening, held on in the final hectic minutes, and fashioned a 47-46 victory over Arlington in the second game of the Prospect regional tournament.

For Coach Dick Kolze's North Suburban league quintet it was sweet revenge after falling to the Cardinals by 18 in an earlier get-together. With the victory Palatine earned a shot at Prospect's Knights in a semi-final tilt last night (Wednesday).

For Coach Frank Bohac's West Suburban Cards it was a disappointing exit from the tourney competition that had proved so profitable last winter. Arlington had claimed the regional crown in 1960 and had battled to the sectional finale before falling to Elgin.

THE CONTEST was tight from the start Monday although the Cardinals held the upperhand through most of the first three stanzas.

Sophomore Chuck Close personally sent the Arlington outfit off to a 13-8 first period lead as he bagged all 13 points with an amazing display of marksmanship from out front.

The Pirates had jumped off to a 3-0 lead on John Seehausen's free throw and Denny Christensen's fielder, but Close canned a fancy drive and free throw to knot the count.

PALATINE fought back and went ahead at 8-5 but then Close went to work. He banged home four straight long jumpers and Arlington went into the second quarter with a 13-8 advantage.

The Cards climbed out to a seven point lead midway in the second period before Kolze's outfit started to roll. Curt Marker potted a jump and after a Jim Clabaugh free throw, John Roberts rimmed a two-pointer. Big Ron Kozlicki hit from close in with 1:42 remaining before halftime and added a free throw for a three-point effort that cut Arlington's lead to 21-20.

Trading points in the final few seconds, the two clubs went into the locker rooms with the Cardinals on top, 25-24.

A TIGHT third quarter saw Palatine rally from a four-point deficit to claim the lead with 37 seconds remaining on Kozlicki's work from the charity stripe. The lead held up and Palatine had its slim advantage heading into the final eight minutes of play.

That tense fourth quarter had the fans on their feet as the two clubs battled down to the wire with the outcome in doubt up to the final gun.

Kolze's Pirates shot into the lead at 40-39 on Seehausen's free throw and held on in the dramatic windup. Fabri's jumper gave the Palatine five a 42-39 margin with 2:36 remaining and Seehausen tossed in a hook shot with 1:47 left.

ARLINGTON'S Furlong tallied on a drive, Palatine's Marker collected a free throw, and the Card's Kolstad hit from the charity stripe. With 27 seconds to go it was Palatine on top, 45-42.

A foul at the 20 second mark sent the Pirates' John Roberts to the free throw line, and the Palatine junior calmly popped in both efforts for the deciding points of the hectic tourney encounter.

Arlington tallied the final four markers on two free throws by Kolstad and a lay-up by Clabaugh, but Palatine had the victory and the right to meet the state-ranked Knights of Prospect in Wednesday's semi-final clash.

CLOSE WAS high for both teams with 16 points, all in the first half, as he hit seven of 17 from the field. Arlington's Clabaugh and Palatine's Kozlicki tied for runnerup honors with 13 each.

Palatine shot .395 from the field with the Cards firing at a .300 clip on 60 shots.

The box score:

Pomey Named To All-State Aggregation!

George Pomey, Prospect high school's talented 6-4 forward, was named to the first annual Associated Press All-State basketball squad, it was announced Monday.

A total of 10 players were named to the squad by the AP panel of 16 sports writers who have been rating the teams during the season.

Joining Pomey on the select unit are Bryan Williams of Danville Schlarman, Skip Thoren of Rockford East, Bogie Redmon and Fred Riddle of Collinsville, Bill McKeown of Clinton, Eddie Jackson of Peoria Manual, Jack Merganthaler of Pinckneyville, and Dick Rapp of Centralia.

Pomey is the first Prospect All-Stater in basketball and the first boy honored in a post-season honor team from the Interim league in its short history.

Maine Units Capture Tournament Games

Maine township East and Maine West set the stage for a dramatic semi-final battle as they rolled to decisions Tuesday evening in the second night of action in the Prospect regional basketball tournament.

Maine East ran over an out-manned Glenbrook squad, 62-36, and Maine West exploded in the third quarter to pull away from Niles and wrap up a 67-57 triumph.

The two quintets will square off tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in the second semi-final test of the regional. To the winner of that one goes a berth in Friday evening's championship battle.

MAINE EAST countered the first eight points Tuesday and was never headed as it mauled hapless Glenbrook. The Blue Demons raced off to a 20-4 first quarter lead, increased that margin to 34-8 midway in the second stanza and wound up with a 37-15 halftime cushion.

Coach Bernie Brady's powerhouse kept popping in the points in the third period, increasing their advantage to 28 points at the break, and then the subs took over. Glenbrook outscored the Demons' second string by two markers in the final stanza.

Four boys hit double figures for Maine with 6-5 Steve Smith registering 15 points. Ed Petrick cashed in with 14, Don Gebbie with 13, and Bob Habetler with 10.

BRADY'S crew shot .475 from the field and .600 from the charity stripe. Coach Howie Helfrich's Glenbrook Spartans had a .302 mark from the field and .333 standard at the free throw line.

In the evening's second battle Niles jumped off to a 16-8 first period lead and was never headed in the next eight minutes although Maine rallied to knot the count at 26-all at the intermission.

With 3:33 remaining in the third quarter Coach Gaston Freeman's Warriors exploded and from then on, it was all Maine West. At the one minute mark Maine had a 10-point lead and it headed into the final quarter with an 11-point bulge.

THE TWO teams paraded back and forth to the free throw lines in a dull fourth quarter with the Warriors holding on to their lead and finishing with a 67-57 triumph.

Soph Al Waters and Doug Halpenny both collected 17 points for Maine West and Jim Hart sparked Jack Fabri's Trojans with 13.

The Warriors hit at a brilliant .509 clip from the field but could register only a .468 from the free throw line. Niles had a respectable .405 floor average and connected on 23 of 32 free throw attempts.

Leaders Battle to Standoff In Paddock Classic League

The two leaders, Cook County Mobile Homes and Bill Bond's Mens Wear, battled to a standoff Saturday night at Country Lanes in Lake Zurich.

As a result of each team winning one and tying one, Cook County Mobile Homes of Des Plaines remains one game ahead of Bill Bond's of Rolling Meadows in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

Tommy Thomas' Casablanca five of Palatine won two games from Pro Sport Center of Mt. Prospect to move into a third place tie with the defeated team. Both are two and one-half games off the pace.

Cook County Mobile Homes, bowling out of River-Rand in Des Plaines, started out like it was going to make a run-away of things with a 1070 game for a 162 pin win.

Headlining the Cook County Mobile Homes attack was Bob Rogers of Des Plaines who rolled the league's high individual game of the year, 279. Teammates Tony Sasso of Des Plaines and Don Oberg of Itasca posted 209 and 206, respectively.

Rogers continued his hot streak in the second game with a 223 score, but his teammates didn't keep pace as Cook County Mobile Homes fell to 882 and Bill Bond's came up with a 952 game behind a 217 game by John Taylor of Waukegan and 205 by Herb Lohman of Lake Zurich.

THE FINAL game was a standoff, each team rolling 927. Oberg was high for Cook County Mobile Homes with 203 and George Radke of Mundelein totaled 199 for Bill Bond's, which was rolling at home Saturday. Rogers finished with a 192 game for a 693 series, second high in Paddock Classic play this year.

Pro Sport Center, the Gunnell entry, took the first game, 954-927, as Ed Duff of Niles on a 214 game and his teammates more than offset a 248 effort by Herg Engstrom of Elgin for Casablanca.

Then Casablanca waxed hot in the last two games to become the night's hottest team with a 2944 series. Irv Hahnfeldt of Palatine bowled 242, Engstrom 211 and Harvey Randolph of Northbrook 203 for a 1022 Casablanca win.

THREE Casablanca men also were in the 200's in the final game. Randolph shot 222, Marvin Perry of Arlington Heights 208, and Ron Fogarett of Palatine 202 for a 995-939 triumph.

Three men were in the 600's in this match. Engstrom totaled 656 and teammate Randolph had 605. On the other side, Duff added games of 224 and 215 to his original 214 for a 653 series.

Moyle Construction of Ten Pin in Barrington lost two to Timroth Plumbing of Des Plaines but remained in fifth place. Moyle's lone triumph came in the final game when Le Roy Papineau of Lake-in-the-Hills rolled 233 to pace a 983-930 triumph.

EARLIER Lee Adams was the sparkplug for Timroth Plumbing, which bowls out of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights. Adams had a 225 first game and coupled with a 220 total by Joe Cordulack of Park Ridge, Timroth totaled 945 for an easy first game triumph.

Things became a little closer in the second. Adams rolled 215 and teammate Warren Olson of Arlington Heights had 212. It was a good thing they did because Timroth won by just five pins despite a 229 game by Papineau.

When the firing had subsided, Adams had a 643 series, Papineau a 624 triplicate and Cordulack a 613 total.

IN THE BATTLE of the two tail-enders, Bill Cook Buick won two, which is more games than it won in its previous 18 tries. Even so, Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling remained four games out of the cellar with a 7-14 record.

Although neither rolled well in the first game, Bill Cook Buick came out on top, 897-846. Then George Stone of Wilmette rolled 225 and Hec Healy of Northbrook 215 as Jeffery evened the won-lost column. In the final game, it was a 237 score by Tom Kouros of Barrington Woods which put Bill Cook Buick over the hill by 23 pins. Kouros also rolled high series, 610.

MOST OF THE five individual leaders had poor series, but this was not the case for Rogers. His 693 series boosted his average from 198 to 200. Kouros remained at 198 and the previous leader, Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights, slipped a pin to 197. Radke also dropped a pin to 195 as did Dick Nethaway of Des Plaines who went to 194.

When action resumes Saturday at 6:30 p.m., it will be at Bowlway in Elgin where the No. 1 match will pit Bill Bond's Mens Wear against Pro Sport Center. Cook County Mobile Homes will take on Moyle Construction.

JUST DOGS

Right & Wrong—

There is a right and wrong way to play with a new puppy and the manner in which it is done can have a lasting influence on his grownup behavior. Aggressive tendencies may easily develop because of such a seemingly small matter as holding out a bone or a toy, then snatching it away just as the pup is about to take it. Such teasing "tricks" in play are all too common, especially with children who don't realize that it is bad training. The puppy may appear to enjoy it and, in some cases, understand that it's all a game. In general, however, any form of taunting or teasing is very apt to make a pup defensive and churlish. Moreover, it makes it much harder to train him in good behavior as he grows older. He has no way of understanding when you are serious or making fun of him.

This doesn't mean that a puppy must be coddled, for he is used to the give and take play with his litter mates and as the human counterpart of his kennel pals you can shove and tumble him about and he'll thrive on the attention and the exercise. Just remember your own strength in comparison with that of a small puppy and don't push him around too roughly.

Growling in play may appear "cute" in a puppy, but should never be encouraged. Slapping or grabbing at a pup puts him on the defensive and may lead to a lasting bad disposition. There's a noticeable difference between playful growling and truly aggressive growling. When a pup begins to growl in earnest, all play should stop with a sharp "No."

This business of hand-chewing also has limits. Part of it is natural for a pup, however, as he gets older it should be stopped. Jerking your hand away or slapping at the pup won't help in correction. Simply let him know that there are limits. If he starts out in earnest, get in the word "No" and pry open his mouth with your other hand. Then divert his attention. This can be done by throwing a ball or giving him some other harmless plaything to get his mind off the hand-chewing.

Keep in mind that lessons taught while the pup is young on what is right and wrong will help ten-fold when he starts to grow up and you train him in earnest.

Local Awards—

Irv Pociot of Roselle and Glenn Wells of Palatine received obedience awards recently from the German Shepherd Dog Training Club of Chicago. The presentations were made at the club's annual dinner held in LaGrange. Irv received the CD award for his dog and Glenn the CDX award as recognized by the American Kennel club.

The event was rather noteworthy in that 39 degrees and five championships were awarded members in recognition of the performance of their dogs.

Barks and Bays—

After successfully operating on the eyes of a Dalmatian, the veterinarian told the owner not to let the dog watch TV so much.

Helen Lutsch Cops Two 2nd Place Medals

Helen Joy Lutsch, one of the top ranking Senior Women skaters in Illinois and the coach of the Mt. Prospect Skating Club, took two second place medals at the Illinois State Indoor Speed Skating championships last Saturday, at the University of Illinois rink in Champaign.

Other medal winners from the Mt. Prospect club in this last local skating meet of the year were Bob Grady, who took two fourth place medals in the 440 yard and 880 yard events in the Juvenile Division; Tim Jilek with a fourth in the 330 yard event of Midget Boys; Norine Lutsch who took a third place medal in the 330 yard Midget Girls final; Patty Lutsch with a fourth in the 220 yard event of Pony Girls; and little Dick Solley who took a third place medal in the Pony Boys 330 yard final.

Dick, 8, is one of the promising young skaters on the Prospect team and although he has come close to scoring in numerous meets this year, this was his first medal win.

Other members of the Mt. Prospect squad who skated well in the meet but failed to score were Jerry Haenisch, Jim Rybarczyk, Mike Bickler, Dan Jilek, Ronnie Baker, Greg Grippentrog, Chuck Hughson, Billy Grady, Janet Bickler, Mary Lou Haenisch, Linne Lindstrom and Linda Sommers.

Plans for the club's annual banquet are being formulated under the chairmanship of John Lindstrom, for the latter part of this month. An interesting evening's program is promised for the skaters and their families.

Arlington Sophs Conclude Season With 45-20 Loss

Checked with only five baskets in 28 minutes of play, Arlington high's frosh-soph cagers terminated their 1960-61 campaign last Friday evening with a 45-20 loss at Maine East.

Coach Ken Schaller's young Cardinals fell behind after one period and could never catch the hosts in the season finale. Maine held a 16-10 halftime lead and outscored the Cards by 19 in the final two stanzas.

The loss set Arlington's West Suburban standard at 2-12 with a 5-15 overall slate. The Cards decisioned Glenbrook twice and also bumped Palatine, Riverside, and Glenbard West.

TOM WILMOTTE did all the work for Arlington in the first period Friday with four markers but that was the extent of his scoring for the evening. Joe Mueller popped in five of the Cards' six second period points but was checked for the remainder of the contest.

Arlington sent home only two baskets in the final two periods and was blanked in that concluding stanza until reserve. Tom Tully netted a layup with 35 seconds remaining.

Seven boys scored for the Cardinals with Mueller's five heading the squad. Wilmotte and Ken Layden each chipped in with four.

Vernon Hills Gals Claim Two Key Wins

Vernon Hills Restaurant of Lake Zurich took a big step toward the second half crown in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League Saturday night after the first half title escaped them.

Vernon Hills, bowling out of Country Lanes, rolled the league's second highest team game and team series to take two from challenger Steve's Restaurant on Steve's home Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling Saturday.

As all this was taking place, Morton Pontiac of Arlington Heights took two frim Sims Bowl in Des Plaines to move into the runnerpup spot, two games off the pace and one ahead of Steve's Restaurant.

BONNIE Kuhn of Mundelein was the big hero for Vernon Hills, rolling a 635 series. Teammate Fran Altergott, also from Mundelein, bowled 583, three pins less than Sis Jennings of Deerfield who was high for Steve's Restaurant.

Bonnie started with a 242 game to offset a 201 effort by Sis and give Vernon Hills a 31-pin triumph. Then Vi Douglas of Palatine hit 212 and Fran and Alice Nichols of Arlington shot 199 each as Vernon Hills racked up a 969 game, second high in Classic competition this season. Despite a 209 by Bonnie and a 204 by Fran, Sis bowled 213 to give Steve's its lone triumph by 13 pins.

MORTON Pontiac, representing Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, was shackled in the first game by Sims Bowl despite a 221 game by Pat Proebstle of Arlington Heights. Although slipping a few pins, Morton captured the seond game. This wasn't the case in the final as three Morton women were in the 200's. Nancy Amirante had 205, Connie Labo of Rolling Meadows 204 and Pat Proebstle 201. On the opposite side, Ruth Beyer of Palatine rolled 212 and Edith Wayne of Des Plaines 209.

Northfield Bowl captured two from River-Rand Bowl to move into a fifth place tie with Sims Bowl. After dropping the opener thanks to a 192 game by Jackie Moore of Niles for River-Rand, Fran Feuer of Winnetka rolled 234 to pace Northfield to a 23-pin win. Then Fran led the way with a 186 game to provide Northfield Bowl with a four-pin triumph. Fran's 587 series was high among the two teams. Peggy Sparks of Rolling Meadows was high for River-Rand with 56[illegible].

Literary Work

Though a literary work on veterinary medicine appeared in the Fourth century, the first school to teach the science was not established until 1761, at Lyon, France.

Al Eck Decides Against Professional Grid Career

Alan Eck, Northern Illinois university's two-time Little All-American end, has turned down a bonus offer from the Boston Charges of the American Football League, and says he "almost definitely" has decided against seeking a professional football career.

"It's a tugh decision," Eck said. "The week after Boston first made its offer, I was going around in circles. The offer was very generous, and I'd like very much to take a crack at pro ball.

"But I'm planning to be married this summer, and, ignoring the possibility of playing football, I plan to teach and coach in high school. I don't feel it would be right for me to sign a teaching contract if I intended to try out for pro football.

ON THE other hand, if I didn't sign a teaching contract, then didn't make the grade in pro football, I'd be looking for a teaching job late in August. By that time, teaching jobs are pretty scarce.

"Small as I am (5-11, 172 pounds), trying for a pro football job looks like a long gamble. I've concluded the most sensible thing is to forget it and I can't foresee anything happening to change my mind."

A significant aspect of the Boston offer is that fact that Chargers Coach Lou Saban formerly coached at Western Illinois university, where he had an opportunity to evaluate Eck's pro potential in Interstate Conference encounters with NIU during the 1958-59 seasons.

THE 23-YEAR-OLD Eck, a football, basketball and track star at Palatine high school, last fall repeated as NAIA Little All-American second-team choice, Associated Press Little All-American honorable mention, All-IIAC selection, and, topping the poll for linemen, All-Illinois College nominee.

He also repeated as leading pass receiver in the IIAC and in the NAIA's 20th district, and ranked eighth nationally (NCAB) with 45 catches for 740 yards and five touchdowns in nine games. He finished 13th in the nation in 1959.

Al's three-year totals of 111 receptions for 1,812 yards and 19 touchdowns all are NIU career records, and his 45 receptions last fall established a new single-season record

A physical education major with a safety education minor, Eck completed work toward his bachelor's degree in January, and is now enrolled in the NIU Graduate School.

Cards Scare Demons; Drop League Finale

Arlington high's Cardinals, sparked by the inside-outside punch of Jim Clabaugh and Chuck Close, threw a first-class scare at Maine East last Friday evening before the West Suburban champs could recover and post a 52-44 victory.

Coach Frank Bohac's upset-minded visitors, seeking to become the only conference unit to handle Maine this winter, held a one-point lead at halftime but skidded to an abrupt halt in the third period and failed to register a basket for seven and a half minutes.

With Don Gebbie and Ed Petrick leading the way Bernie Brady's Blue Demons spurted out to a nine-point advantage after three periods and held on in the final eight minutes of play.

THE VICTORY gave Maine a 14-0 mark in WSC competition this winter and a two game bulge over runnerup Hinsdale in the final standings. Arlington stands 2-12 and has to settle for eighth [illegible].

In a slowed-down first period Maine scored the first five points but Arlington battled back with the next five to tie the count at the buzzer. With 2:18 remaining in the stanza the Cards had countered their initial point on a free throw by Clabaugh.

CLABAUGH took a neat feed from Close and potted a cripple and then Close tied the score with a long 25-footer with six seconds remaining.

Arlington held the upperhand for a good part of the second quarter and Clabaugh's drive with 17 seconds left before the intermission sent the Cards in with a one-point, 19-18 halftime lead.

Bob Jacobsen netted a free throw to open the scoring in the third quarter and give Arlington a 20-18 lead, but then came the drought.

WITH 7:08 remaining in the quarter Petrick cashed in on two free throws to give Maine a lead it never relinquished. Petrick followed with a layup, Gebbie hit on a five-footer, Petrick banged one in from out front, Gebbie hit a drive, Steve Smith tallied on a layup, and Gebbie rimmed another short jump.

With 1:02 remaining in the period Maine held a 33-20 lead and the Cards still had to collect that first basket of the segment.

Close broke the famine at the 33 second mark with a 20-footer and with eight seconds remaining the talented sophomore hit again on a long jumper to set the quarter count at 33-24.

THE TWO teams battled on even terms in the final eight minutes as Bohac's Cards never gave up. With 4:28 remaining in the game Close hit a pair from the charity stripe to cut the Blue Demons' lead to eight points.

Arlington closed the gap to seven late in the game thanks to a 25-footer by Close, layup by Clabaugh and two free throws by the sophomore but Maine held on and finally wrapped up its 14th straight conference decision.

Close was high for Arlington with 20 points, his personal high of the season, and Clabaugh chipped in with 13. Maine's "big four" of Smith, Gebbie, Petrick, and Bob Habetler all finished in double figures with Petrick high with 13.

Ruggles Captures West Suburban's Scoring Crown!

Dick Ruggles, LaGrange's fine senior guard, is the West Suburban conference scoring champion for the 1960-61 campaign!

Ruggles popped in 27 points against York last Friday and finished with 261 for the 14 conference games for an 18.6 ppg. The 5-11 standout had tallied 211 as a junior for a fifth place finish.

Hinsdale's Bob Haarlow, 6-2 junior forward, claimed the runnerup spot after finishing 12th as a sophomore. Haarlow collected 256 markers and averaged 18.3 ppg in sparking the Red Devils to their second place loop finish.

ANOTHER junior, Bob Rudolph of York, finished third with teammate Charley Adams fourth. Overall, seven boys topped 200 points for the conference season or the same number as in the 1959-60 campaign.

THE TOP Arlington scorers in the conference season were senior Jim Clabaugh with 174 and sophomore Chuck Close with 154. Gary Brodnan, the other half of the Cards' talented soph backcourt duo, was the squad's third best WSC scorer with 98 markers. Bob Jacobsen pumped in 83, Skip Witt 61, and Don Kolstad 54.

Prospect's Frosh Cop Final Contest

Rolling up its biggest score of the season in its final hardwood appearances Prospect high school's frosh "A" basketball team routed outmanned Deerfield last week, 70-43.

Coach Larry Wyllie's hot-shooting plebes piled up a 36-21 halftime advantage, then coasted in with their 12th victory in 14 outings this season.

Tom McClellan sparked the Knights' offensive attack with 16 points, ten in the final half, and Bob Pomplun added 10, all in the second quarter.

TWELVE BOYS broke into the scoring column for Wyllie's crew in their final 1960-61 encounter. Following McClellan and Pomplun in the parade were Don Neubert and Dave White with seven each and Grant Gentry, Dave Thomas, and Dave Hicks with six.

Knights' Unit Routs Proviso West, 74-48

It took a full season to do it, but everyone finally got into the act last Friday night in the Prospect high school fieldhouse.

Nobody knew who was the happier after it happened late in the fourth quarter. The fans were excited. The guys on the bench were pounding each other gleefully, and the kid out on the court looked as if he'd just been elected president.

Mark Thorne scored a field goal for the Prospect Knights with a minute and a half left in their final game of the season against Proviso West. The two points represented a season's effort for the young man, ending a 23-game quest for one of those intangibles that mean so little and so much at the same time.

THORNE'S excitement was reflected in the faces of his second-string teammates, the "Eighty-Eighters," a heretofore anonymous group of incorrigibles given to wreaking mayhem in the final halves of several Prospect games. For these young men, Thorne's conquest was the great moment of the season.

The easy layup by number 40 made the evening complete. With every member of the team scoring at least two points, the Knights easily trounced the visiting Panthers 74-48 to take the Interim association championship and wind up their regular schedule with a 22-1 record.

Coach Dick Kinneman's squad looked better than it had in weeks as it pulled away to a 13-4 lead in the first five minutes of the game, and completely squelched every Panther recovery attempt from there on out to post its 11th conference victory in 12 outings.

BIG BILL Zadel led the first quarter push, scoring the first six points on a jump shot and two layups, and adding four more on a tipin and follow shot before the quarter ended with Prospect on top 19-7.

Fred Lussow, Dick Palmer, and George Pomey took over where Zadel left off during the second quarter to boost the Knight lead to 37-21 at halftime. Lussow hit three fielders and a charity toss in the quarter, while Palmer and Pomey split eight points evenly.

Pomey hit eight points in the third period as Prospect continued to pull away, building their advantage to 52-30 at the three-quarter mark.

KINNEMAN pulled his regulars in favor of Thorne and company midway in the fourth period with a comfortable 62-36 lead. The "88'ers" spent two minutes trying to set up Thorne for "the shot of the year", and, having accomplished their aim, managed to out-play the Panthers 14-12 during their appearance.

Zadel was high man for Prospect with 18 points. Pomey had 15 and Lussow had 11. Dick Murphy's 13 paced Proviso West.

Prospect's JVs Blast Proviso; Tie for Second

Prospect's Junior Varsity basketball team wound up its season last Friday with a 52-24 thumping of Proviso West's Panthers that gained the junior Knights a tie with Wheaton for second place in the Interim association final standings.

Coach Ted Wissen's youngsters moved to their ninth conference victory in 12 starts with little trouble from their guests. Proviso West never was in the game.

Prospect opened with a burst that netted the Knights an 8-0 lead in the first two and a half minutes. Wissen's team extended the lead to 18-7 at the quarter and 28-12 at halftime. During the second quarter the youngsters from Prospect looked as good as they have all year.

The Prospect regulars extended their lead to 41-15 at the three-quarter mark, and Wissen cleared his bench for the fourth quarter.

Prospect's Tommy Thomas was the game's leading scorer with 11 points. Bill Draut had nine for Proviso.

Tighten Up Intoxicated Driving Law

Approved by Arlington Heights trustees Monday was an amendment to the village traffic ordinance spelling out more clearly restrictions against driving vehicles under the influence of alcohol or narcotic drugs.

The new amendment says, "If there is 0.15 per cent or more by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, it shall be presumed that such person was under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

IT ALSO provides that habitual users of narcotic drugs are prohibited from driving in the village. Convictions call for one day to six months in jail or a fine from $100 to $500.

Also approved Monday was an ordinance amendment providing more realistic registration costs for demonstration vehicles owned by village automobile dealers. (A

Schneller Urges Partisan Politics Out of Village

"I firmly believe national party politics should be kept out of the local level of government," declared village president candidate Joseph Schneller at a meeting of his party's supporters Saturday.

Schneller, head of the Citizens party ticket aiming at the April 18 village election, expressed his opinion regarding partisan politics in the north side fire station before 30 zone marshalls and precinct captains.

HE SAID HE is not a member of any national party association and has never been a member of any national group. He indicated that he welcomes "people with all political beliefs to participate in the Citizens party campaign."

Assisting Schneller in discussing the party's platform and stand on issues were his running mates, George Coker, 1611 N. Ridge; Barney Erickson, 611 N. Dunton, and James Sutton, 627 S. State rd., trustee candidates, and Mrs. Doris Jarvis 101 N. Phelps, village clerk candidate.

Zone marshalls attending the meeting and their assigned precincts are as follows: Dwight Guilfoil, 633 S. Burton, 6, 7 and 8; John Gessert, 929 S. Chestnut, 1, 9 and 15; John Simmons, 1338 N. Race, 4, 12 and 13.

ALSO, WILL Schwants, 710 N. Beverly, 16, 20 and 21; Jim Rush, 26 N. Phelps, 17, 18 and 19; Thornton Tongue, 1805 N. Ridge, 14, 10 and 11, and Bob Maley, 220 S. Dwyer, 2, 3 and 5.

The Citizens party is being opposed by the Caucus party and Good Management party.

Four Bridge Pairs Emerge Victorious

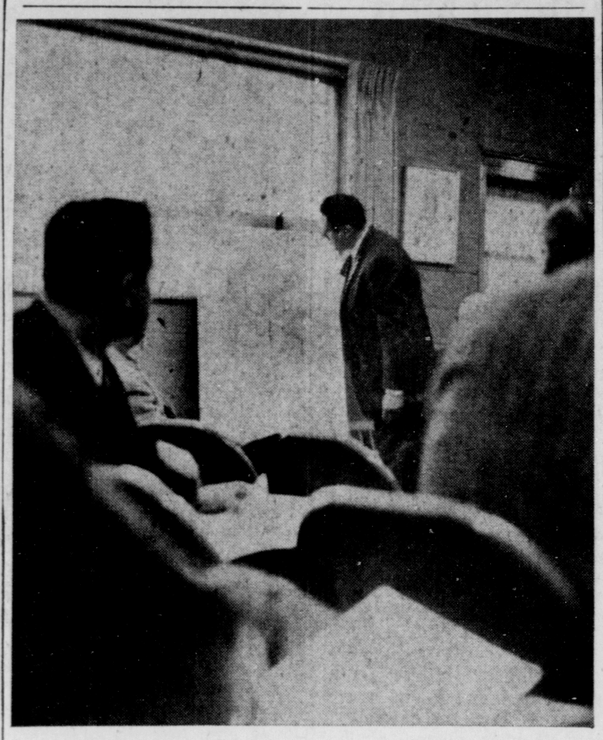
Four bridge pairs left the Friday night with first place smiles, following the bi-weekly duplicate bridge competition.

Winners were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Edwall of Mt. Prospect; Nuri Bulut and C. J. Ells of Mt. Prospect; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hayes of Deerfield; and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Crawford of Mt. Prospect.

Second place awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nightingale of Arlington Heights; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Magnuson, Mt. Prospect; R. T Pearce, Chicago, and Ray Hanson, Wheeling; and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wenk, Mt. Prospect.

SOME 44 pairs competed in the fast-growing group, which meets the second and fourth Fridays of each month. Director Chester Rumpf points out that both beginners and experienced duplicate players take part in the games, which are open to the public.

The "Y" sponsored enthusiasts will stage their first "master point" night at the next meeting, March 10.



CITIZENS PARTY presidential candidate Joseph Schneller (center) points out zone boundaries to Citizens Party workers gathered Saturday in the north side fire station. Seven zone marshals were appointed to carry the party's message to Arlington Heights residents.

Recognition Fete Slated for Clubs

Sunday, March 5, at 7 p.m. in the little theater of the Arlington high school, the Awana Boys and Girls club recognition service will be held for the First Baptist church of Arlington Heights.

This is the time of the year when boys and girls enrolled in the club receive awards and badges for the work done in club meetings on Thursday evenings.

Awards and rank badges will be given for attendance, memory work, sword drills, Sunday school attendance and character and leadership for the past year. Some 60 boys and girls are eligible for awards and recognition.

THE CLUBS are Bible-centered groups involving boys and girls from 8 through 14 and containing a full year's work for each age group on a graded level. The boys who show outstanding leadership, cooperation and character are made junior leaders with the rank of lieutenant for boys in the Pal group and captain for boys in the Pioneer group.

The club periods run for two hours from 7 to 9 p.m. each Thursday evening and are comprised of group games, "tribe" sessions, films and slides, "surprises" and devotions.

During the year there are outings which include overnight campouts; visits to museums and other places of interest such as zoos, airports and state parks, and fun times based upon special recreational activities such as swimming, ice skating, tobogganing, and team sports.

Club memberships are open to any boy or girl age 8 through 14 who wishes to participate regardless of their church affiliation. (A

Grade School Enrollment Spiral Concerns District

The problem is caused by rapidly increasing enrollments in Arlington Heights school district 25.

The answer lies in voters' approval March 18 of a $1,125,000 building and expansion program.

District officials, after studying current and future school needs, have concluded only the construction of two elementary schools, an addition to Miner junior high school and an addition to administrative facilities will prevent crowding and double sessions.

ACCORDING to the district 25 study, enrollment has increased by nearly 70 per cent since the 1955-56 school year, and the district must plan to house some 2,000 more students by the 1963-64 school year.

The study further reveals the present junior high schools, Miner and South, are now crowded with 1,293 students. The 1,650 students now in grades three four and five will be moving into junior high status soon.

It appears that the south side elementary schools, Dryden, Park and Westgate, can adequately provide for the growth in their areas for the next two years.

However, the north side elementary schools, Ridge, North, Windsor, Kensington and Wilson, will need relief by September, 1962.

SOME 2,300 students, five new schools, and 130 more employees have been added to the administrative burden since the present central office at South junior high was built in 1956.

The proposed bond issue, scheduled for the vote Saturday, March 18 will provide funds to solve the problem. Proposed are kindergarten through fifth grade schools at State rd. and Olive st. and Patton and Maude sts., a 17-room junior high addition, and administrative facility expansion.

Approval of the issue would require a tax rate of about eight cents per $100 of assessed valuation. The 1961 rate for bonds and interest will be higher than the 38½ cents paid in 1960, but not as high as the 46.34 cents paid in 1948.

The district's eight elementary schools will be used as polling places March 18. Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. (A

Training Class Set For Course

The Great Books Foundation will conduct a leader training course designed to prepare candidates to lead Great Books discussion groups formed in the north and northwest suburbs this fall.

Mrs. Melty Harris, Hoffman Estates, Great Books discussion leader, advised that the 10-session course will be held at the Skokie public library, 5210 Oakton blvd., Skokie, running weekly on Mondays, March 13 through May 15, 8 to 10 p.m.

MRS. HARRIS advised that this free course is open to all adults, regardless of education, who like to read challenging books, talk over the ideas they contain, and stimulate a group of thoughtful adults to active critical thinking.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Harris, 105 Buckeye, TW 4-6305, or contacting Mrs. Lyla Marder, Great Books Foundation co-ordinator, 1040 Court ave., Highland Park, IDlewood 2-8468 or STate 2-1155. (A

Name Chairmen of Red Cross Drive

Charles H. Wilson, 314 S. State rd., Arlington Heights realtor, this week was appointed co-chairman for the local business firms solicitation by Branson B. Barron, Red Cross Fund chairman for Arlington Heights.

Wilson has offered to use his sales staff to contact local businessmen during the drive.

Barron also appointed Wendell L. Prunty, 413 S. Highland, as co-chairmen for house-to-house solicitation; and Ronald F. Wittmeyer, 1522 N. Kennicott, as publicity chairman.

THE RED Cross drive will be made with a door-to-door canvass of houses Sunday afternoon, March 5, and solicitors plan to reach their quota on this one day.

In addition to those solicitors, Barron has appointed the following group captains: W. D. Farr, Russell L. Larson, O. V. Anderson, J. P. Davies, Paul H. Marx, Ed Nosal, H. VanderKoogh, Karl W. Hoshor, Deane Shumate, John B. Stevens, W. B. Hahn, H. W. Moore, Clyde E. Rhodes, H. F. Bunnelle, John E. Haslam, Fred Steingraber, William T. Barnard, Thomas A. Miller and M. A. Bliese.

"THROUGH the Red Cross, residents are each able to show their concern for those in need, no matter if they are located in this community or in some other part of the country," said Barron.

People don't have to be victims of disaster, however, to benefit from Red Cross, he added. In Arlington Heights free courses in first aid, water safety, care of the sick and injured, and mother-baby care are given each year.

People with sons or other relatives in the service take advantage of Red Cross service to men in the military and their dependents.

Church Launches Building Drive

Beneath a banner proclaiming "A Christian Church for the Northwest Area", the Christian church of Arlington Heights last Thursday held the kickoff dinner for the church's building fund campaign.

The executive committee promoting the drive to build the $100,000 first unit are Guy McCord, chairman official board; the Rev. Don L. Jones minister; Richard M. Harold, campaign chairman; Mrs. C. E. Parson, campaign secretary; and Wayne Pearce, chairman follow-thru committee.

MORE than 60 campaign workers attended the dinner, held in the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights. In addition to the executive committee, other leaders of the drive are Thomas Fennell and A. E. Peterson, team captains; Edison Lyle and Richard Burke, team lieutenants; Mrs. Harry Johnston, meals chairman; W. L. Milliren, spiritual life chairman; and C. E. Parson, publicity.

The Christian church now worships in Miner school auditorium, Miner and Dryden. Services begin at 10:45 a.m. each Sunday, with church school at 9:45 a.m. Child care is provided. (A

WHAT IS A PRESCRIPTION?

It looks like an ordinary piece of paper with writing you can't read, to get medicines that seem expensive.

Actually, a prescription is a passport to better health. Physicians study about ten years to be able to write one. Pharmacists study about five years to learn how to compound them. Drug firms sometimes spend millions to perfect the drugs in them. The few dollars all this knowledge costs saves you sickness-time and sometimes your life.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Men's Glee Club To Sing In Arlington Heights Sunday

"The Men o' MacLeod" will entertain with songs of Scotland when the Men's Glee club of the College of Wooster appears in Arlington Heights Sunday. The group of 12, garbed in familiar tartans of black, orange and red which symbolize the college, enter and leave to the accompaniment of drums and bagpipe.

The Men's Glee club concert, under the direction of Prof. Karl Trump of Wooster, will be presented at the First Presbyterian church in Arlington Heights at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Karl Trump, the Director, is associate professor of vocal music at the College of Wooster. In conjunction with his teaching of individual voice students there, he is director of the Men's Glee club of the college.

TRUMP attended DePauw university and Ohio State, from which latter university he holds a B.A. degree. He obtained his M.A. degree from Columbia university. He has also done special vocal study in New York City with Oscar Seagle, Eva Gauthier, Gibner King and others.

In 1957 he spent a sabbatical year in Vienna, Austria, where he was enrolled at the famous Vienna Academy for Music and was a voice pupil of Maestro Sergei Radamsky.

Trump came to the college in 1949. Before starting his teaching career he had extensive musical experience in New York, including that of radio soloist, operetta singer, actor, church soloist and choir director.

Since coming to Wooster he has served as director of music at First Presbyterian church, Wooster and Trinity Lutheran church, Canton. (A

Roaring Twenties Is Dance Theme

A "Roaring Twenties" costume dance will be held on Friday evening, March 3, 1961 for Wheeling area teenagers at the Wheeling Amvet hall, 141 S. Milwaukee, from 8 to 12 p.m., sponsored by the Amvet Post 66.

Features of the evening will include a Charleston contest, prizes for the best "Roaring Twenties" costumes and other dance prizes donated by the Amvets. Soft drinks will be available in the basement of the hall. Music will be by the "Rebels."

THE TEEN dances are held every first and third Friday evening of each month, under the sponsorship of the Amvets. The dance on February 17 was a Valentine Dance party with prizes donated by local merchants.

Those who donated were Bodell Cleaners; Wheeling Appliance; Mark Drug; Ben Franklin Store; Dunhurst Drugs; Schulers Hardware; Village Beauty Shop; Jeffrey Kotz Shoe Store; Schaeffer's Fashions; Oak Leaf Bakery; Steve's Restaurant; Wolf & Dundee Standard station; Dirigo Inc.; Hagerstrom's Metalcraft; Al's Oklahoma station; Jim Stavros; Wheeling Furniture; National Food Stores; and Welflin's Variety.

Decorations for the Valentine Dance were done by members of the Wheeling Youth club. The decoration committee included George Beattie, Bob Pfiester, Hugh Cokenower, Norman Bucher, Kim Drinkwater and Rolly Truelsen. (ACM

'Lost' Resident Is Apprehended

Norman Mielke, 27, of 127 S. Mitchell, was arrested Saturday by Arlington Heights police at Campbell and Kennicott sts. and charged with public intoxication.

Police were alerted when a resident of the area phoned to report an intoxicated person walking down the middle of Campbell st. Mielke said he moved here a week ago from Lake Zurich and was lost.

Books of Sea Are Library Favorites

The sea has always lured men to adventurous exploits and stories, both true and imagined, and these adventures are perennial favorites among users of the Arlington Heights Memorial library.

Among the most exciting accounts are those of disasters at sea. Alvin Moscow's fascinating "Collision Course" is a tauntingly written report of the incredible collision of the Swedish-American cruise ship, "Stockholm" and the Italian luxury liner, "Andrea Doria."

In "Fire At Sea," another ship disaster story, Thomas Gallagher attempts to solve the mystery of the burning of the "Morro Castle." His well-documented theory is that the radio operator, long considered the hero of the fire, was actually a criminal pyromaniac.

C. S. FORESTER'S book, "The Last Nine Days of the Bismarck," is a thrilling tale of a running sea battle with heroism on both sides during World War II.

In "Tahiti Nui," Eric de Bisschop contests the theory of Kon-Tiki. With a crew of four, he sailed on a raft from Tahiti to Chile to gain proof that the Polynesian peoples migrated from east to west.

There is also fast action in "The Seven: Navy Subchaser," by W. E. Syers, the exciting adventure of a small craft with a green crew during World War II. Another book, "Mutiny," by Frank Tilsey, presents in fiction a fascinating examination of power on board the "HMS Regenerate" during the Napoleonic Wars. (A

Freezer Patent

The first commercially successful ice cream freezer was patented in 1848.

'Save Our Trees' Cry Residents

"Save our trees" was the cry Monday of 15 Arlington Heights residents who attended a board of trustees meeting to protest the proposed widening of north Douglas st. between Euclid and Hawthorne.

The residents, homeowners in the one-block area, vigorously protested widening to 28 feet because the street would then come within inches of large trees, seriously endangering their longevity.

THE HOMEOWNERS suggested a 24 foot width so that bulldozers would be less likely to damage tree roots. They found a hearty supporter in Trustee William Sauer.

"It's silly to spend $25,000 a year to save the trees from Dutch Elm disease and then turn around and knock them out like this," Sauer said. "I don't think this village needs wide streets this badly."

Edmund Shanahan, secretary of the board of local improvements, the body which approved the street widening January 26, said only five trees would have to be removed. The balance could be saved, he noted.

TRUSTEES AGREED to direct village manager L. A. Hanson to mark off the block to show how close the improved street would come to the trees. Trustees will view the situation Saturday and then make their decision. (A

Arlington Cook Shares Main Dish, Two Favorite Desserts

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

by LOIS SEILER

"In perusing my recipes I've discovered that the majority of them are for desserts," mused Mrs. Albert J. Baugous of Arlington Heights. "It doesn't surprise me though," she admitted, "for they are my favorite food to fix as well as eat!"

She chose two calorie-laden favorites to tempt us with today, as well as a savory meal-in-one pork chop dish.

"EITHER PORK CHOPS or pork tenderloin patties may be used in this dish," said Mrs. Baugous. "I've used the tenderloins for a luncheon and the chops for a family meal."

ORIGINALLY an oven dish made with long grain rice, Mrs. Baugous adapted the recipe for an electric skillet and substituted Minute Rice for the long grain. However, it may be prepared in the oven, if desired.

Onion and green pepper is combined with the rice and cream of chicken soup. The browned meat is cooked on top of this mixture.

A tossed salad and rolls are ample accompaniments for this savory dinner, and because it is hearty and rich Mrs. Baugous prefers a light dessert such as a lemon chiffon pie or fruit and cookies.

HER FAVORITE "laddies" dessert, which she likes to serve for luncheons or to a bridge group is an English Toffee dessert.

This delightful dessert has a bottom crust of crushed vanilla wafers and chopped nuts with a rich chocolate filling. The crumb mixture is also sprinkled over the top.

It is stored in the refrigerator overnight and served topped with whipped cream. This dessert has an elegant flavor - like authentic English toffee.

MRS. BAUGOUS' family's favorite dessert is a delicious Date Pudding. "I haven't ever come across a date recipe quite like this one," commented this capable cook.

Unlike the usual date pudding, this one is baked in an oblong pan, rises quite high and has a meringue-like texture. It is delectable served hot or cold topped with whipped cream.

In addition to cooking, Mrs. Baugous is also quite interested in politics. She is membership chairman of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican club.

Mr. and Mrs. Baugous and their daughter Susan, 13, live at 1158 N. Hickory in Arlington Heights.

One Dish

Pork Chop Dinner

6 pork chops or tenderloins
2 cans cream of chicken soup
1 can water
1 medium onion
1 green pepper
1 cup Minute Rice
Flour chops and season with salt and pepper. Brown in a little fat in an electric skillet or frying pan. Remove chops from pan.

Place the chicken soup and water in the skillet and cook over low heat, stirring until smooth. Slice onion and green pepper in rings and add to the soup mixture.

PLACE CHOPS on top, cover and cook in electric skillet for one hour at 225 degrees, or bake in the oven in a tightly-covered casserole for 1 to 1½ hours at 300 degrees.

Place chops to one side and stir in the rice. Arrange chops over the mixture and cook an additional 15 to 20 minutes. More water may be added if the mixture becomes too thick. Serves 6.

English Toffee Dessert

6 ounce package vanilla wafers, rolled fine
1 cup nuts, finely chopped

Mix ingredients together and use half of mixture to cover bottom of a 9 by 9 inch pan. Reserve remaining crumbs.

¼ pound butter
1 cup powdered sugar
3 eggs, separated
1½ ounces Bakers chocolate
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar together thoroughly. Add well-beaten egg yolks, melted chocolate and vanilla. Mix well after each addition.

Gently fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Do not stir. Small particles of egg whites will be absorbed by the chocolate.

Pour over crumb mixture and spread remaining crumb mixture over the top. Store in refrigerator overnight. Serve topped with whipped cream. Serves 8.

Date Pudding

2 cups dates
2 cups nuts
4 eggs
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup milk

Chop dates and nuts.

Beat eggs very well. Add sugar gradually, beating hard all the time.

Sift baking powder with flour and add flour mixture and milk alternately, a little at a time, to the egg-sugar combination. Gently stir in chopped dates and nuts.

Pour into a greased 9 by 13 inch pan and bake for one hour in a 325 degree oven.

Cut in squares and serve hot or cold topped with whipped cream. Serves 12.

A TRADITIONAL design is coupled with streamlined modern material in this lovely serving set, perfect for home entertaining, perfect for gift-giving. The Grecian figures on olive green have the elegance and beauty of fine old pieces, yet is modestly-priced. Called the Four-Way "Hellenic" Server Set, (the brass holders allow many combinations or ways of serving), costs about $5.98 by Jeannette Glass.

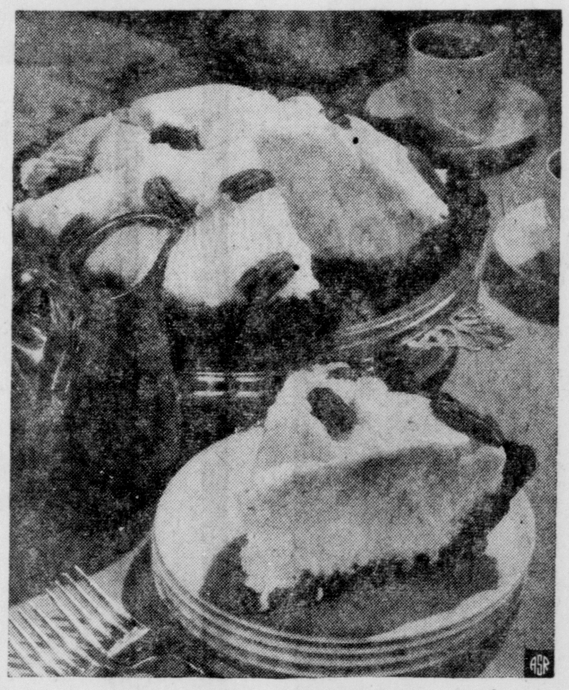
New Mahogany Finishes Include New Red, Grey

Newest finishes for genuine Mahogany include a soft lovely brown like the natural color of this major cabinet wood, and a new red, compatible with both the 18th century designs of Sheraton, Hepplewhite, Adams and Duncan Phyfe, and adaptations of these master creations, and a new gray.

The new brown fashion finish for Mahogany is shown for the first time in the home organ field by Hammond, on the contemporary styled cabinet of a Console organ with built-in tone cabinet. New, too, is a Console organ with built-in tone cabinet, traditional furniture style, in new red finish.

New finishes for Mahogany now being used by manufacturers of a wide variety of fine home furnishings in addition to organs make the textures and beautiful figures of this "King" of cabinet woods available to homemakers in both seating and accessory pieces. (SH

Chocolate Ice Cream Pie Is Crunchy Taste Treat



Cream Pie the next time you want an elegant dessert that is really quite simple to make. Make it early in the day and store it in your freezer until shortly before serving time.

Remove it from the freezer a short time before serving to allow it to mellow and facilitate serving.

Even a beginner can be assured of success with this recipe. It's so simple to make. The chocolate syrup is poured over the oven-toasted rice cereal until the cereal is completely coated.

Press the mixture into a buttered 9-inch piepan, fill with vanilla ice cream and presto, your pie is finished. For extra elegance, serve with praline sauce, which you can either make or purchase.

This is but one exciting illustration of creative cookery with breakfast cereals. Breakfast cereals make contributions of protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy, when used as a recipe ingredient.

CHOCOLATE CRUNCH ICE CREAM PIE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons light brown sugar teaspoon salt
1 package (6 ounce) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups oven-toasted rice cereal
2 pints vanilla ice cream

Combine corn syrup, butter or margarine, sugar, and salt in saucepan. Bring to a boil over low heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat; add chocolate and vanilla, and stir until chocolate melts.

Add to cereal; stir carefully until cereal is coated. Press evenly over bottom and sides of buttered 9-inch pie pan. Chill. Fill with ice cream. Store in freezer. Serve with Praline Sauce. Yield: 1 9-inch pie. (SH

Week's Best food buys

Red Meat prices in area stores reflect full impact of last week's cost variables and supply build-ups, cracking as much as four cents a pound on selected retail beef lines. Pork and some lamb also averages lower.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are unchanged as supplies from south and west build to seasonal peaks in near perfect growing conditions. Most lines rate a bargain price position, with only a few select items showing a high price trend. This means an approaching period of produce values from a quality, abundance and pricing viewpoint.

Poultry lines, notably fryers, tom and hen turkeys and large eggs, are unchanged marketwise, from last week—continuing a pattern noted in recent survey reports.

SELECTED grocery discounts are noted in more survey stores this week. This can mean lower grocery costs for the selective shopper.

In view of previously reported live and wholesale meat situations that now reflect at retail, the weekly university of Illinois consumer service survey pegs beef firmly at the top of the consensus value column. For the marketing period ending Mar. 4, the U of I-rated bargains include:

Meats—beef chuck roasts, rump roasts, porterhouse, sirloin and round steaks, ground beef, and economy cuts of lamb and pork; Poultry—turkeys and large eggs; Produce—salad greens, tomatoes, radishes, cabbage, potatoes, oranges, grapefruit and bananas.

Meat costs moved only fractionally at live and wholesale levels. Even the short holiday work week failed to retard abundant supplies which ran headlong into lagging consumer demand. Some firming at wholesale is noted, probably in anticipation of better movement hoped for by the lower retail prices.

Steaks declined the most, as much as 4 cents off of top quotes, in an effort to spur dragging demand. They show a new, lower price ceiling of $1.25 on porterhouse, $1.05 on sirloin and 85 cents on round—although lower feature quotes will be found, such as 69 cents on round steaks. In roasts, blade cut chucks are the big factor showing feature prices of 39 cents. Regular market quotes on this line is a new 55 cents. Round bone roasts range broadly 49-65 cents, and rib roasts hold a highly competitive 69 cents. Ground beef is abundant at 49 cents.

PORK ALSO averages lower at retail, such as rib roasts 43-45 cents, loin end roasts 53-55 cents, center cut chops a top of 89 cents, spareribs mostly 49 cents, fresh Boston butts 49 cents mostly but some 52 cents, smoked Boston butts 69 cents and under, and most bacons 69 cents, with some brands still showing 73 cents.

Lamb holds generally unchanged through all levels of trade with exception of chops which price 4 cents to 5 cents lower at retail. Loin chops quote $1.19, rib chops 98 cents and shoulder chops 79 cents. Leg roasts quote 69 cents and offer feature opportunities; shoulder roasts are tagged 45 cents.

Fryers hold last week's 39-43 cent range, and prevailing 45 cent tags on toms and 49 cents on hens fail to reflect current market conditions. Wholesale eggs are firmer, but large sizes continue to show a steady 55-65 cents.

Produce news underscores high production, heavy shipments and good supplies reaching this area. Southern and western regions are basking in excellent growing conditions. A sign of approaching spring is seen with the first arrivals from the deep south of strawberries at relatively cheap prices and Mexican melons in good volume but the usual high prices. Beans, cucumbers and large peppers show market strength (but small peppers are cheap). Asparagus and sweetcorn are higher priced.

Looking ahead during March, the calendar of fresh produce values include (indicates peak supply month): Vegetables—artichokes, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, horseradish, mushrooms, parsnips, potatoes, radishes, shallots, spinach*, turnips, yams, salad vegetables and greens; Fruits—apples, bananas, coconuts, grapefruit*, oranges* (all areas), pineapple and rhubarb. Quality for Consumer

Canned Foods Labels Tell Story at Glance

You can't tell a book by its cover, as many a disappointed reader can attest, but you are able to tell the contents of a can by its label. The label on a can of food tells you, as specifically as possible, exactly what the can contains.

The basic information that appears on the label is not the result of random choice by the packer. This information has been arrived at, after careful study, by both the government and the National Canners Association. This organization, which represents the canning industry, sees to it that the consumer gets products of uniformly high quality—and encourages canners to tailor each product to consumer needs and preferences.

EVERY LABEL for a commercial food product tells the following story: the product name, the name and address of the manufacturer, packer, or distributor, and the net contents of the container by weight or liquid measure, according to the nature of the product. Thus the purchaser knows what she's buying, where it comes from, and is assured of getting full measure for the food dollar.

The label also reveals the variety, style, and packing medium of the product, whenever relevant. The consumer wants to know, for instance, whether the can of pineapple she buys contains slices or chunks, whether the canned peas are large or small. If the dietary properties of the food are important they are listed; dietetic packs must be distinguished from other pack styles. Any food that contains artificial color, flavor, or preservative must be so labeled. While these special additives are harmless and sometimes make a product look and taste more appealing, the consumer wants to know whether the color of a fruit or the savory flavor of a sauce is natural or artificial.

THE CAN LABEL also includes a list of ingredients, unless the government has set a "standard of identity" for the product. This term means that each packer producing a certain food knows the standards and agrees to meet them. The standard of identity for a product lists the required basic ingredients and sometimes the basic proportions to be used. It further lists optional ingredients; if these are used, they must appear on the label.

Besides these basic facts, many canned foods labels give additional information. Because canned foods packers are eager to provide the consumer with all possible help in selecting her purchases, their labels generally include a clear picture of a product, the approximate number of servings and the number of cups, the brand name, and directions for using the product successfully. Often packers go even further and provide the homemaker with excellent recipes.

IN ADDITION to the qualities guaranteed on the label, the consumer can take certain facts for granted when she purchases a canned food. The product has been processed from undamaged unspoiled raw products in an immaculate plant. Workers receive strict supervision to ensure sanitary food handling.

Packages and containers are made from materials that will have no harmful effect on the food. The canning and can making industries have taken great pains to discover, for instance, the best enamel coatings to use on their metal cans. Chemical reactions of food to metals and other substances call for care and experiment in determining how the can should be coated for certain products.

All this protection assures the consumer that every canned food she selects from her supermarket shelf conforms to the most rigorous standards of purity and quality.

Homemade Delight: Buttermilk Bread

There's nothing to equal the flavor of homemade bread made with buttermilk. Bake up a batch soon and serve it fresh from the oven with a choice of cheese and fresh fruits. The combination is good enough and balanced enough to make a wonderful meal!

BUTTERMILK BREAD

1 cup buttermilk
3 tablespoons sugar
2½ teaspoons salt
6 tablespoons shortening
1 cup very warm water
1 package or cake Fleischmann's Yeast, active dry or compressed
½ teaspoon baking soda
6 cups sifted all-purpose flour (about)

Heat buttermilk. Stir in sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Measure very warm water into a large mixing bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture.

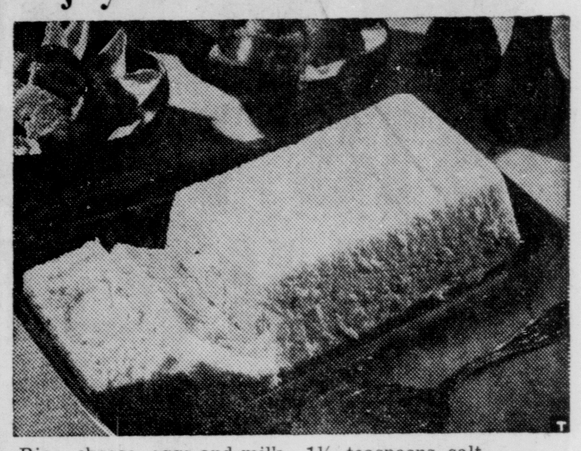
Combine baking soda and 3 cups of the flour. Add to yeast mixture and beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour. Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic.

Place dough in a greased bowl. Brush top lightly with soft shortening. Cover with a towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch down and turn out on lightly floured board.

Divide in half. Shape into loaves; place in greased bread pans (9 x 5 x 3 inches). Brush top with melted shortening. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until center of loaf is slightly higher than edge of pan, about 1 hour.

Dust with a little flour. Bake at 400 degrees about 50 minutes. Makes 2 loaves.

Enjoy Golden Rice Dish



Rice, cheese, eggs and milk are typical ingredients for Lenten dishes. But what a wonderfully different way they are combined in this Golden Rice Loaf!

This is such a handsome entree you will want to bring it to the table for the host to serve. The first slice, and each succeeding one, reveals a hidden treat. Slices of hard-cooked egg peek from the center of the perky yellow framework.

Served with your favorite vegetable and hearty salad this dish combines economy with excellent eating.

Golden Rice Loaf

1¼ teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon sage
2½ cups milk
2 cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon grated onion
3 cups cooked rice
3 eggs, slightly beaten
3 hard-cooked eggs

Combine flour, salt, pepper, mustard, sage and about 1/3 cup of the milk; stir until smooth. Stir in remaining milk. Cook until thickened, stirring frequently. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Remove from heat.

Fold in onions and rice. Stir in slightly beaten eggs.

LINE bottom of greased 8½ x 4½-inch loaf pan with waxed paper. Put about half of the rice-cheese mixture in bottom of pan. Arrange hard-cooked eggs lengthwise in center.

Cover with remaining rice-cheese mixture. Set in pan of hot water.

Bake at 350 degrees about one hour or until set. Let stand in pan about 5 minutes before unmolding. Slice to serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings. (SH

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

We all love our food, and we all know that food is essential to our life and continued good health, but how many of us eat purely for the sake of health alone? Very few.

Some of us eat purely for the pleasure it gives us; some, to become strong; some, because we are worried or upset; and still others of us because we find ourselves bored or with nothing else to do.

For these last two reasons, primarily, many who should watch their weight for their health's sake find themselves putting on those literally fatal excess pounds. Examine your motives for eating. You'll be sure to find them interesting.

Old World Recipe Has 'Rosy' Gravy

This modern adaptation of an old-world recipe is a prize winner from the National Chicken Cooking contest held annually for the past 13 years on the Delmarva peninsula.

Fried chicken satisfies the robust appetites of brisk winter days. This luscious delicacy, fried to a paprika-laden goodness is topped with a colorful sauce of tomato paste and sour cream—Rose-Colored Chicken.

You'll need a 2½ to 3 pound broiler-fryer for this recipe, which makes four or five servings. Serve it with hot fluffy rice or old-world style with dumplings or noodles. A green vegetable and tossed salad complete the meal.

ROSE-COLORED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer, 2½ to 3 pound, cut up
4 tablespoons (¼ cup) butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper, scant
1½ tablespoons paprika
1 cup thinly sliced onion
1/3 cup finely cut green pepper
¼ cup tomato paste
½ pint (1 cup) dairy sour cream

Heat butter or margarine in skillet, moderately hot. Place chicken pieces in skillet, skin side down. Meanwhile, combine salt, pepper and paprika. Sprinkle half the seasonings over chicken; turn chicken and sprinkle with remaining seasonings.

Cook over low heat until lightly browned, about 10 minutes, turning pieces as necessary. Sprinkle onion and green pepper over chicken. Cover and simmer until fork-tender, about 30 minutes.

Remove chicken and keep hot. Drain off any excess fat from skillet . . . pour in tomato paste and sour cream and blend well. Do not cook after sour cream is added. Return chicken to sauce, or serve sauce separately. Makes 4 to 5 servings. (SH

Crop Acreage Data Is Sought

The Cook County ASC office announced this week that all farms in the county will be visited by ASC representatives to obtain the acreages of all 1959 and 1960 crops. This information will be needed if the proposed feed grain program is passed by Congress.

The survey will be carried out from March 6 to March 17. It would help if farmers would have the acreages of the crops grown each year available. In most cases the farm operator will be contacted. If crop history cannot be obtained for a farm, it will be necessary to estimate crop acreages. (B8

Mail Boxes, Tree Are Victims of Accidents

Three mail boxes and a large tree were victims of auto accidents in the northwest suburbs during the past week, as cars went off the road and plowed into ditches.

It began with Ronnie Mueller, 17, of 300 E. Rand rd., Mt. Prospect.

On February 20 at 1:50 a.m., while traveling west on Route 62, 2½ miles east of Route 59, his 1960 foreign car went off the highway and rolled over.

The youth was slightly injured and damage to his car totaled $650.

Two days later, on February 22, Daniel P. Ernst, 34, of 145 S. Elm, Palatine, while driving his 1953 car on Route 62 a half mile east of Barrington rd., told state police a vehicle came toward him.

This happened at 10 p.m., he said, and the car, coming from the opposite direction, was in his lane.

HE SWERVED to the right to avoid a head-on collision and struck a guard rail. He was injured and taken to Sherman hospital in Elgin, and was discharged two days later. Damage to his car totaled $400.

On February 25 at 12:10 a.m., Lidia Pahuchy, 36, of Route 3, Vistal ln., Palatine, was driving down U.S. 12 at Thomas st., two miles northwest of Route 83.

Just as she was about to make a right turn, a car driven by Robert Lundstrom, 38, of 721 N. Rand rd., Arlington Heights, came up behind her.

In his attempt to pass her car, Lundstrom's vehicle struck it in the left rear. The first car went out of control and struck a post in the ditch on the southwest side of the road.

Lundstrom was taken to the Northwest Community hospital with a nosebleed.

There was total damage to the first car, a 1951 make, and Lundstrom's car, a 1960 venicle, suffered $350 damage.

Lundstrom was charged with following too closely. A passenger in the first vehicle, Anna Trehubchuk, 35, of 1109 E. Thomas, Arlington Heights, suffered no visible injury.

On February 26, at 8 p.m., Pedro Perez, 20, of 528 E. Heights, was traveling on E. River road, a half mile east of U.S. 45, a mile north of Illinois 58.

WHILE traveling on the shoulder of the road with the right wheels of his car for 153 feet, his vehicle struck a large tree, swung around across the road and knocked down three mail boxes.

The car ended up with its front end resting on the road, the remainder dangling in the ditch.

Taken to Lutheran General hospital, he was examined and discharged with no apparent injury.

His car, a 1959 auto, suffered $900 damage, and he was charged with driving in the improper lane and driving on the shoulder of the road.

On the same day, at 10:20 p.m., Robert B. Anderson, 34, of 786 Golf rd., Des Plaines, while crossing a railroad crossing on Route 12, 1/8 of a mile north of Route 58, struck a car in front of him driven by Arthur Bruno, 29, of 975 Rand rd., Des Plaines. Bruno had stopped for a train signal.

Anderson was charged with driving too fast for conditions, for being without a driver's license and for intoxication, state police said. His car, a 1957 vehicle, suffered $600 damage. (B8

Motorist Fatally Injured in Crash

A Green Bay, Wis., motorist involved in a two-car collision at Meacham rd. and Illinois 58 Saturday, Feb. 18 died of his injuries in Northwest Community hospital last Thursday, Feb. 23.

He was Theodore Schuyler, 36, driver of one of the cars involved.

A coroner's inquest into the death has been continued until April 21 at 2 p.m. at the Lauterburg & Oehler funeral home, 2000 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights.

A PASSENGER in the other car involved, Charles Lathrop, 22, of 1206 Carroll ave., Park Ridge, remains in critical condition at Edgewater hospital in Chicago where he was transferred from Northwest Community hospital. Lathrop suffered a skull fracture and possible internal injuries in addition to scalp and face lacerations.

He was riding in a car driven by Jerry Grupe, 22, of 549 N. Aldine, Park Ridge, at the time of the mishap. Grupe is listed in good condition at Northwest Community hospital.

DISTRICT 3 state police charged Grupe with driving on the wrong side of the road. They said he was passing cars going west on Illinois 58 and failed to get back into his own lane of traffic, colliding head-on with Schuyler's automobile.

A coroner's physician said that Schuyler's pregnant wife was with him at the time of the accident. Burial was in Wisconsin. (B8

To Serve Northwest Suburbs

Community Is Organizing For Mental Health Clinic

by DICK HOFFMANN

Community leaders this week were lining up behind the plan to establish a mental health clinic and mental hygiene association to serve the northwest suburban area.

Meanwhile, officials were looking into the possibility of tapping excess township funds as a source of raising the money necessary to establish a clinic. School districts are now permitted to do so by virtue of recent legislation.

The communities involved would be required to contribute one-third of the money needed, with the state carrying two-thirds of the clinic's cost.

Mrs. R. B. Yadon, president of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Gerald M. Chapman, league member, have been consulted over the possibility of seeking funds from the township source.

"TOWNSHIPS may spend money to purchase memorials," Mrs. Chapman said. She added that New Trier township used surplus funds to erect a library at New Trier high school. The library was a sailors' and soldiers' memorial, she said.

School districts may now petition for use of excess township funds if the township has not levied taxes in the past three years. The petition is voted on at the town meeting, and, if favorable, distributed according to assessed valuation, Mrs. Chapman explained.

It is doubtful, though, if money for a mental health clinic could be obtained this way, although township funds are transferable so that the money could conceivably be secured in a different manner from the same source.

THE MENTAL health clinic proposed would serve the communities and surrounding areas of Arlington Heights, Palatine, Mt. Prospect, Elk Grove, Hoffman Estates, Wheeling and Rolling Meadows. This would take in four townships: Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg.

Dr. Monte J. Meldman, Arlington Heights psychiatrist, who has been working with Wheeling Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Gill and Rolling Meadows Police Chief Sy Campbell in formulating plans for the clinic, said he would like to meet with committees representing the various communities to get their views on the subject.

Meldman said he thought Arlington Heights represented midpoint between the various communities, and therefore would be the best location for the clinic. "It could be located here at the Arlington Heights medical center (1430 N. State rd.), or in an old house," the psychiatrist said.

MELDMAN dispelled any doubts persons had concerning what the clinic's relationship would be to Northwest Family Service counseling agency when he said: "In order for a psychiatric clinic to function, it has to be served by Family Service."

He pledged to work closely with the agency and support it in any way possible. "Close collaboration with all facilities is needed for the success of a mental health clinic, and Family Service is the backbone of the community." The agency often makes referrals to psychiatric facilities.

He said plans had been to solicit funds from municipalities, school districts, industry and individuals to raise the communities' share of the program, but that School Superintendent Gill had suggested investigating excess township funds as a possible source of financing.

He said if sufficient funds were not raised by May in order for inclusion in the state's budget, application could be made in October.

All age groups would be treated at the clinic, which would serve low and middle income families earning up to the vicinity of $8,000 annually, although this figure would be flexible enough to allow for the number of children in a particular family whose breadwinner might be making more.

"The clinics are not designed to compete with private facilities," he said in explaining this policy. He said patients discharged from state mental hospitals, however, are treated free of charge, and that others would be charged according to their ability to pay.

A BOARD of directors is being formed, with two members already on it: Superintendent Gill and Police Chief Campbell.

Meldman said no specific goal has been set for funds, noting that the more that is raised means that much more which the state will provide. A more distant goal is establishment of a psychiatric unit at Northwest Community hospital, he added.

The reaction of community leaders and others concerned with such work was in favor of the clinic. Here are some of their comments:

—Mrs. Marjorie Boswell, Palatine village health inspector: "Mental health is the most important thing we have. But this has to be presented to people in a way it will get across. Half of all our problems are maladjustments; that goes for all of us. But I don't know what you would do to get people to understand."

—Edward Pinger, president of the Hoffman Estates village board: "It seems like a good idea. We'll use all these facilities in our area. We've been aware of the problem, and in our community—which is jammed with young, vital people—more so."

—Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher: "It's something we've needed for quite some time. I remember a case involving a youngster who needed psychiatric help. We tried to get him into the Chicago Juvenile Research center. They told us there was a year's waiting period."

—THE REV. Martin E. Marty, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Elk Grove Village: "I like to think of the northwest suburbs not as a collection of little individual towns but as a metropolitan area of a quarter of a million people which this clinic would serve. I think the communities are prepared for it, and the clinic will receive wide support."

—Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood: "The mental health bond issue went over with a bang. This shows a cognizance on the part of the public of the need for such facilities."

—Charles A. Hodlmair, president of the Elk Grove Village board of trustees: "Mental illness is a subject we don't like to talk about but we know exists in fact. It is something that could happen to any one of us. If the need is there, it is something we should support and have."

—The Rev. John C. Talbot, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Palatine: "There is a definite need for a mental health clinic in this area. The key to the question is whether or not we can find regular and adequate ways of supporting this and Family Service. Something has to be done to awaken community response. The concern for social needs in this area is deplorable."

POLICE CHIEF Campbell said he had talked with school and government officials in Rolling Meadows who thought establishment of a mental health clinic was a good idea. As of yet, however, he added, no one has offered to do anything toward its establishment. (B8

'Crisis' Is Being Utilized As Therapy by Psychiatrists

by DICK HOFFMANN

A psychiatric "emergency" is usually thought of as that grim moment which triggers the patient's flight from reality. But crisis is now being employed as a therapeutic tool.

Its uses were described last Wednesday, Feb. 22 by Dr. Melitta Schmideberg before a gathering at the Forest hospital in Des Plaines.

Dr. Schmideberg, director of Clinical Services, Association for Psychiatric Treatment of Offenders in New York, told an overflow audience how emergencies which arise during therapy can actually be turned to creative uses in effecting a cure.

". . . 'emergencies' are not isolated events which necessarily hinder therapy but . . . often further the treatment if they are utilized to create incentives and insight, thus forming the basis of a good therapeutic relationship," she contended.

THE WOMAN psychiatrist was the fifth speaker in the Forest hospital's third annual scientific program which is concerned with "therapy of the schizophrenic."

She spoke on treatment of borderline schizophrenics in the handling of emergencies, noting: "The orthodox analyst regards any life situation or upset of the patient or family that is not limited to the analytic interview or cannot be handled by interpretation as interference with treatment."

Dr. Schmideberg's unorthodox approach has often involved her in her patients' financial affairs, seen her instructing children in the mysterious ways of a subway, and had her passing out advice on housekeeping.

"In emergencies such as illness or death in the family, I try to give the patient the sympathy, strength or advice a good family doctor would give," she explained.

The psychiatrist, speaking in a marked German accent, illustrated her contentions with six case histories in which she either used emergencies to her advantage as they arose or else provoked the crisis herself.

IN THE case of a 30-year-old physician who had escaped into a catatonic state, she impressed upon him the possible consequences of the breakdown. "I did 'rub in' the seriousness of his past condition . . . I discussed very seriously with him whether he was fit to carry on his medical practice and whether he should not change his profession . . . "

Of this verbal shock treatment, she says: "Current psychiatry is too much dominated by the 'trauma' theory, assuming that the patient fell ill as a result of excessive stress, and that therapy must protect him against such strain, yet patients do not break because of stress but because of their inability to cope with it, and the task of therapy is to desensitize them and to teach them to cope with difficulties."

She said that by making the young physician aware of the shock of his psychotic breakdown and the possible consequences he tried to deny, his fear of psychosis became a "therapeutic incentive."

WITH FEAR acting as agent, he became amenable to therapeutic influences which fostered his will to "normalize," she pointed out.

In the case of Ira, a young man in his twenties who had an aversion to work, Dr. Schmideberg said, she provoked an emergency, suggesting that a second psychiatric opinion be secured since he did not seem to be responding to treatment.

" 'What would the other psychiatrist recommend . . . . shock treatment? ' he asked. I went to great lengths to assure him that shock treatment was by no means as unpleasant as people thought, and he was getting increasingly disturbed. I also told him," she continued, "that I felt it my duty to discuss the situation with his parents, he begged me to wait still a while, and I agreed to a week's delay. The next day he went out and got a job. I asked him afterwards whether he resented the way I had handled him. His answer was 'no, because it worked.' "

ON ANOTHER occasion, Dr. Schmideberg had an alcoholic placed in a hospital in cooperation with a clergyman, only to prevail upon hospital officials who had recommended institutionalization to discharge the patient for 10 days. In this time "I interviewed the patient after he was discharged, gave him tranquilizers and impressed upon him that had it not been for the clergyman, he would now be in a state hospital. Treatment has proceeded much smoother ever since."

Lloyd, 26, whom Dr. Schmideberg diagnosed as having paranoid dementia, had a history of violence in a mental hospital, and had been marked with an "H" (homicidal) tag after trying to put a burning cigarette into the eye of a nurse because her "stupidity pained him." The woman psychiatrist had some chilling moments when Lloyd entered her apartment unannounced one evening to "have matters out."

SHE threatened calling the elevator operator to get him to leave, although she conceded to her audience that "I doubt if the elevator man would have come." But she noticed that Lloyd became more subdued after this incident. Preparing to leave on a vacation, she told him: "You have three possibilities: you make up with your family; you enter an institution, mental or penal, or you to to work." When she returned, he had joined the ranks of the employed.

"I saw him again two years later. He was still in a pitiable condition, unhappy, bitter, disorganized. But on the other hand he was working steadily, had lived in the same place for two years, and had friends as peculiar as himself . . . ."

A 12-year-old boy who had spent four of these years in an institution for schizophrenic children, was enrolled in a regular school. "He had never been exposed even to ordinary discipline, and I was the first person to tell him, 'do not interrupt me' and 'sit quietly.' "

THE BOY, Richard, made "a tremendous effort to catch up with his sadly neglected education, doing seven hours of homework daily." As he improved in school, so did his confidence and anti-social behavior, the psychiatrist remarked. This led the analyst to make some disparaging comments about the intelligence of which the youth had boasted. She told him he faced the possibility of being sent to an institution if a case in which he was involved came up in Children's Court. After two weeks she relaxed her indignation . . . "and ever since we have been friends and enjoyed a very nice relationship."

Dr. Schmideberg pointed out: "I differed from the usual analytic therapist not only in being active and taking on responsibilities and handling everybody connected with the situation, but also in actively fighting the patients' tendency to denial and withdrawal."

She acknowledged that the "sink or swim" attitude of merely making a patient face up to an unbearable situation is not likely to produce results, and may even cause further retreats by the patient.

But she also asserts, "It is equally futile to be 'nice,' 'nonjudgmental,' vaguely reassuring to a patient about something which he has cause to worry and which he should right."

SHE CRITICIZED what she described as the paradoxical situation in which medical practitioners who traditionally cope with emergencies are exhorted to send their difficult cases to a psychiatrist who is often unwilling or unable to deal with critical moments.

She appended some qualifications to this reliance on crises as a trigger of therapy. "While the therapist should assert himself whenever necessary, he should not hurt the patient too brutally . . . .We should never condemn a patient completely, but always give him hope and an 'out.' "

Dr. Robert Gronar, a Chicago psychoanalyst, who critiqued his colleague's comments, noted that this type of psychiatric "brinkmanship" can work in a different direction. "Emergencies can get to be a habit; they become an agent of reprieve and rescue." Of the pragmatic approach to achieving efficacious results, he added: "It is all right if it works; otherwise the psychiatrist is a fool."

DR. GRONAR said the psychiatrist is "no superman. He is just not as afraid and better asembled." He quoted Poet Robert Frost as saying wisdom is the ability to act on insufficient evidence, to illustrate the psychiatrist's dilemma.

Under questioning from the audience, Dr. Schmideberg said the important thing in "borderline" cases is not the treatment of symptons but attitudes. She said the borderline patient keeps his types of reactions for life, and that the psychotic and psychopath may "normalize" more, although this may be due to the dramatic contrast in such cases.

But she stated that "I showed concern for all these patients before, during, and after the incidents described, and they did believe that I was interested in their welfare and tried to mitigate their suffering." A14

Universalists Hear Librarian

Mrs. William Michael, librarian at the Roselle public library, will speak to Countryside Universalist Unitarian Fellowship Sunday morning. She will tell how the library serves the community and the responsibility the public owes the library that it may better serve the needs of the people.

Mrs. Michael attended Wright Junior college in Chicago and spent a year training as a librarian at the Chicago public library. She was children's librarian at the Chicago public library for eight years and has been with the Roselle library for the past four years. (A-13

Pupils Inoculated Against Diphtheria

Children attending three northwest suburban grade schools have received inoculations following the reporting of two cases of diphtheria and a "suspected" third appearance of the disease.

The two cases of diphtheria were diagnosed in Arlington Heights, and youngsters at the St. James and Windsor schools received shots to guard against the disease.

"One very suspicious case —we're not sure," according to Dr. John B. Hall, director of the Cook county Department of Health, cropped up last week.

AS A SAFEGUARD, certain kindergarten classes and two second grade classes at the Rupley elementary school in Elk Grove Village received immunizations last Thursday, Feb. 23.

The third case occurred with a kindergarten child from Elk Ridge Villa, a subdivision lying south of Golf rd. between Busse and Linneman rds. in Elk Grove township.

"Antibiotics mess up laboratory tests," Dr. Hall said of the case. Treatment proceeded as if the child had the disease, however, he added, as a precautionary measure.

"Although the patients have not been seriously ill, this indicates that a highly virulent diphtheria organism is present in the area," the public health director noted.

PARENTS WERE urged by Hall to be sure that their children are adequately protected against diphtheria. "If your child has not had a booster diphtheria shot within the last three years," he suggested, "consult your family physician in order that your child may be immunized."

He added: "If anyone in your family looks or acts sick, has a fever or complains of a sore throat, call a physician at once."

First signs of diphtheria usually appear about two to five days after exposure. Ordinarily the disease develops in the throat where a patch of grayish membrane may form. Usually the throat is sore and there is a slight fever, Hall said.

Serious complications often follow diphtheria if it is not treated or if treatment is inadequate or late in being administered, he pointed out.

WHEN EXPOSURE to diphtheria occurs, people not previously immunized should have a booster shot at once, he said. Hall reminded parents that "it is only through proper immunization that a person can be protected from diphtheria."

Hall said the disease is carried from mouth to mouth, and that the organism is too elusive to track down. "If we find it someplace, we try to immunize as many people as we can," he explained.

Pollster Documents Happy Suburbanites

Thursday, March 2, 1961

A nationwide survey now under way, indicates that the happiest people live in Suburbia's pleasant places, says pool-taker Dr. George Gallup in the March issue of Suburbia Today, which will appear with Paddock Publications next week.

Even the happiest people have their problems, though. One of the most serious of these (to the tune of $100 million worth of damage each year), says reporter Ed Sammis, is termites. Here's a rundown of how to spot the hungry little beasts and what to do when they invade.

ANOTHER common pest is crab grass. Garden expert John Brimer reviews the situation and suggests ways of coping with the problem NOW, before sowing your good lawn seed.

With Easter only a few weeks away, there's a feature about how to make beautiful birds and flowers out of blown eggs, a bit of dye and simple materials such as pipe cleaners and crepe paper.

There is also a story for all the young people who will soon begin summer vacations outlining the kinds of jobs waiting for them and how to go about getting them—everything from harvesting crops to working on cyclotrons to cat-sitting.

THEN, veteran actor Sir Cedric Hardwicke is interviewed this month by veteran actor Sir Cedric Hardwicke, who wittily asks —and answers—questions on life, love, Hollywood, and the theatre.

When the Joseph N. Bells were remodeling their kitchen, they began taking all their meals at the dining room table. They've been eating and gathering there ever since, says author Bell, and find that the big gracious table makes a natural center for family activity.

Then, there are two pages of pictures showing how a burro named Simpson (bought by mail-order for $87.50), has brought a new world of fun and responsibility into the lives of three youngsters in suburban Pelham, N. Y.

THE FASHION feature, this month, shows the latest looks for the bowling lanes, and proves the delicate fabrics and high styling can go bowling—and then to a party or the theatre afterwards.

In Suburbia's penetrating news column, this month, there are some profound observations concerning the influence of nicotine on dogs, of the bedroom on the tax situation and of rye bread on fine art.

Finally, our Suburbia—Any Day! cartoonists (artists all), pen a few unique comments about modern art, the people who turn it out, and the people who like to have it around. (BB

Bensenville Man Ends Postal Job

The retirement of Stanley Karp, 1111 Brookwood Street, an employee of the Chicago Postal System for the past 34 years has been announced by Chicago's Postmaster Carl A. Schroeder.

A postal station transaction expert, Karp has worked in four postal stations throughout the Chicagoland area and at the time of his retirement was assigned to the Elmwood Park Station.

Karp, whose retirement began February 14, has been married for 34 years. He has three sons and seven grandchildren. He attends St. Alexis Church in Bensenville. His hobbies are golf, fishing, hunting and gardening.

At the time of his retirement Karp was presented with the Post Office Department's Honorary Recognition Certificate. The award was made for his meritorious accomplishments and devotion to duty. (BB

Search for Heart Device Busies Bensenville Man

Research is a 24-hour project in the daily life of Joseph M. Bernstein, 230 Pamela Drive, Bensenville.

By day, Bernstein is a supervisor in the Automatic Electric Laboratories at Northlake. After hours, he assists in the program at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago to help provide early detection of heart deficiencies.

He is working with Dr. Milton H. Paul, associate attending cardiologist of Children's Memorial, on an electronic device, still in the preliminary stages of development. When perfected, this device will help provide early detection of heart deficiencies and relieve the heart specialists of the arduous and time-consuming task of listening to the recorded sounds of heart beats.

The success of Bernstein's device would free the heart specialists to devote more time to analysis and treatment of children with faulty hearts. At present, it is necessary for the M. D. to listen to tape-recordings of the heart sounds. The instrument under development by Bernstein and Dr. Paul would electronically record the sound of heart beats, and automatically select the children most in need of further investigation.

A graduate physicist of the University of Illinois, Bernstein also is engaged in spare-time research on an "oximeter" which will more efficiently measure the oxygen content in the blood while a patient is in surgery or being investigated for certain heart diseases.

Bernstein joined Automatic Electric Co., a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corp., in 1957, after two years' service at Bendix Aviation Products in South Bend, Ind., as an electronic design engineer.

He is a graduate of Sterling high school, Sterling, Ill., Wright Junior College and University of Illinois. He took post graduate studies at Notre Dame University.

Bernstein and his wife, Sandra, are the parents of three children, Kenneth, Susan and Nancy Anne.

Area's First All Electric Plant

Chicago's first all-electric plant was recently placed in operation by Logan Square Typographers, Inc., at 901 W. Monroe st. The modern 23,500 square foot building features year-round air conditioning, an exceptional lighting system and all-electric operation of metal melting, typesetting machines and composing equipment.

REPRESENTATIVES from suburban printing and publishing houses were entertained at an open house last week. Among the greeters were Clifford Jensen, vice president, and George W. Lurtz, sales and type consultant. Jensen lives at 206 See-Gwun, Mt. Prospect, and Lurtz at 909 N. Patton, Arlington Heights.

Four 20-ton heat pumps provide automatic climate control. The "Cool-Heat" system also filters the air and controls humidity. The heat pumps are designed to maintain a comfortable temperature level, ranging from 70 degrees in winter to about 76 degrees in summer.

LIGHTING was especially designed for typographic efficiency. Continuous rows of power groove, fluorescent lamps provide an intensity of 200 footcandles throughout the shop area. A total of 430 lamps are used to achieve illumination that is five times brighter than the average lighting in a modern classroom.

LST moved into the new building from 2827 W. Belden ave., its location for the past 15 years. The firm was founded in 1927 in a small shop on Milwaukee avenue by John Jensen, who is still its president. Started with one typesetter and an errand boy, the company now has 80 employees. (BB

Insurance Man Given Plaque

Victor Beisler, 125 N. Waterman, was one of the General Casualty co. agents honored at a noon luncheon held at Crystal Lake's Czecho Lodge, Wednesday, February 8. Beisler, who has represented the insurance company for nine years, received a wall plaque from Elmer Schirmer, company manager.

New Refrigerators Have Many Features

The introduction of the electric refrigerator over 30 years ago signalled the start of a whole new era in electric convenience appliances for the home.

Even though the refrigerator is the "oldest" major electric appliance, it has been so improved in function and design that today's models are hardly comparable to units produced even five years ago.

FOR ONE THING, they are larger than ever before. The Electric Association of Chicago notes that the 8-, 9-, and 10-foot sizes popular five years ago, are being replaced in popularity by 11-foot and 12-foot sizes, with 13- and 14-foot sizes coming up rapidly to the forefront.

Yet while the new larger refrigerators hold a great deal more inside, their outside sizes have increased very little because of emchcaniacl improvements which have decreased the size of such things as the condenser and the thickness of refrigerator walls.

Today's refrigerators also defrost themselves. New methods of accumulating the frost-causing moisture outside of the compartments, even the freezer compartments, are responsible for this labor-saving convenience.

THEN THERE are such things as better door seals and magnetic latches, which maintain more uniform temperatures inside, keeping foods fresher for a longer period of time.

Shelves are easier to get to because they slidce, swing out, or revolve completely around . . . some even adjust up or down. In addition, shelves and bins are removable, making cleaning easier.

Outside design and appearance have been improved to make the refrigerator the mainstay of modern kitchen design.

All this and more has happened to the modern electric refrigerator, and most of it the last five years.

Ben Franklin Store Zone Managers Meet, Plan Merchandising

In catering to wider customer interests and all income goups, America's variety stores are becoming family shopping centers concentrating on quality, fashion appeal and national brand merchandise, it was reported to more than 220 Ben Franklin store zone managers Monday, Feb. 20, at the opening of a week-long conference of the independent variety store network.

Assembled from 49 states, the Ben Franklin specialists began comparing notes this week in a series of seminars with their headquarters merchandising experts to review operations and long-range strategy.

BUTLER Brothers Division of City Products corporation, originator of the Ben Franklin franchise store concept, provides a program of centralized purchasing and total merchandising. Its zone managers, operating from seven regional headquarters, are the link between the firm's national corps of merchandising and operating specialists and the independent owners of more than 2,400 franchised Ben Franklin stores all over the nation. Skilled in store operating techniques, the zone managers personally counsel each of the local store owner-managers and actively assist in improving merchandising programs and operating effectiveness.

Lee D. Jalkut, vice president and merchandise manager of Butler Brothers, said that the Ben Franklin headquarters buyers annually visit 2,500 manufacturers' plants and showrooms, more than 170 national and regional markets, and interview some 10,000 manufacturers to select the products offered through the nation's largest network of variety stores.

BEN Franklin buying decisions are based on motivational research and field reports to determine customer preferences, Jalkut reported. By testing merchandise with independent research laboratories, Butler Brothers insures that its product lines measure up to quality specifications. The Chicago-based merchandising firm also retains package design consultants to develop the most attractive packaging for modern self-service variety store merchandising.

Reviewing current company-wide operations, Edwin O. Wack, vice president and secretary of City Products corporation, pointed out that the zone managers' ability to help the independent Ben Franklin store owners utilize Butler Brothers merchandising programs to full advantage has been a major factor in the successful development of the unique franchised variety store operation. He also commented that Butler Brothers' consistent gains in sales and growth despite a general downward trend in the merchandising industry is a measure of the success of the Ben Franklin plan. Butler Brothers recently reported its 20th consecutive month of record high sales with January volume exceeding the previous January by 9.9 per cent.

J. E. BRIGGS, vice president and general manager of Ben Franklin operations, said that the Ben Franklin variety store organization must be constantly alert for new ideas which could be adapted to its merchandising system. He noted that Ben Franklin operations in the past 10 years have grown faster in average sales per store and in new store openings than any major variety store chain in the U. S. In 1950, there were 1,590 stores in the group and sales averaged less than $60,000 per store. By 1960, the number of stores had passed the 2,400 mark and average sales per store topped $90,000. (BB

LEROY E. PALM (right), 425 Pleasant Hill blvd., Palatine, receives Ben Franklin award and congratulations from A. O. Goldblatt's Store To Feature World-Wide Merchandise In March 15 Store Opening

A stunning collection of fashions and accessories the like of which was formerly unobtainable except to select, world-girdling sophisticates—will open a whole new vista of shopping delight when the doors of Goldblatt's newest store opens March 15 at the Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping center.

The markets of America, Europe and the Far East find ample representation in the women's apparel and accessories departments—where thrift-minded shoppers will delight in new high fashions, each bearing a modest price tag.

ENCHANTING cocktail gowns and smart casual wear have been assembled; the sportswear saucily plaided and checked for the high school and college miss — deftly tailored for her older counterpart, at work or at home.

Exquisite little dresses that "go-anywhere" and the two-story costume, completely reversible, will be available for selection in any age, size and shape range.

Walking suits, luxurious cashmere coats and pert, crop jacket suits are represented in Goldblatt's all-purpose coat and suit department.

COLORING: Blush pink, iced aqua and exotic prints flare up in quiet excitement and run a hushed, expectant streak throughout the entire collection.

STYLING: The simple understated dress or the daringly overdone; the multiple mix-and matchers are refreshing new trends destined for success.

For the discriminating woman whose costume requires exacting accessories, Goldblatt's buyers have provided a dazzling collection of handbags, millinery, footwear, jewelry, belts, gloves and neckwear — imported and American made.

Handbags in velvet cuts, textured straws, leathers, peau de soie and doeskins, run the gamut from oversized to slims; all fresh from the designers' boards of such houses as Rosenfeld, Coronet, Kadin Bros., Garay and Jana.

The newest shapes of millinery — lush imported straws —featuring the inspired "little hat," the pillbox and flowered shapes are also shown.

Famous label gloves, such as Wear-Right, Kayser-Roth, Sawnelle, Smart-Set and Fashion Mark, present the slip-on, the 8-button length, shorties, and extend their lines to please children and misses.

ALSO AVAILABLE are the extra-wide crushed, lined belts; the contours, narrowed velvet band belts. In leather, patent or synthetic, belts are perfect complements to a costume in need of that certain touch.

Multi-stranded costume jewelry in a myriad of sparkling combinations splash color everywhere. Startling effects in hosiery, lacy and ribbed patterns in plentiful quantity and variety.

Goldblatt's buying offices, headquartered in New York, employ the talents of men and women well versed in Dame Fashion's fickle ways. Always a step ahead of the mode with their fingers unerringly on the pulse of fashion, they have worked with dress houses in the New York market to bring fashion at budget prices to the women of Mt. Prospect. (BB

Culligan Sales Record Reaches All Time High

Sales volume of Culligan, Inc. reached a new record high in the first nine months of its current fiscal year, ending January 31, the company reported.

Sales of $7,901,735 in the ninth month period were 8.5 per cent ahead of last year's all-time high of $7,285,061.

EARNINGS for the same period were $347,659, down $13,507 from the $361,166 earned a year ago.

In a report to shareholders, Harold F. Werhane, president, said that the reduction in earnings was due to several factors. They were increased research and development expenses, and engineering-tooling costs for Culligan's first fully-automatic chemical feeder for household and commercial application. The feeder is being introduced to the company's dealers this month.

Werhane reported that research funds had also been allocated to the development of a water treatment unit to condition brackish water supplies in overseas markets. A further development, Werhane said, was a cartridge-type water conditioning unit for soft drink vending machines. (BB

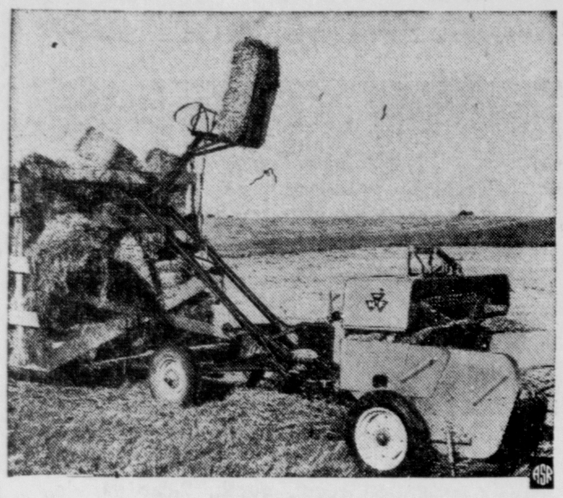
FARM PROFIT



Home-Made Bale Thrower

Farmers with an inventive flair can save some real money by designing and building special tools and equipment during the winter months. That home-made bale thrower you see in the photograph, for example, was dreamed up by John Thor of Litchfield, Minnesota five years before any farm machinery manufacturer had one on the market.

The bale thrower saves the work of a three-man loading team on the Thor farm. And notice the hay wagon. Thor designed, this low-slung two-wheel carry-all carries 100 bales with ease.

John Thor has built many other money and labor savers in his farm shop—and many of them are featured in a new 16 mm color movie called "Five Tons to the Acre." If you can get together a farm group that would like to see Thor's bale thrower in action (and how he manages to raise five tons of high-quality hay to the acre), the movie can be borrowed free of charge except for return postage by writing the Farm Film Foundation, 1425 H St., N. W., Washington 5, D. C.

Beef Cattle Outlook Is Brightened

by L. H. SIMERL

We don't have as many cattle as we thought. We don't suspect rustlers. It is just that Uncle Sam's statisticians apparently have been overestimating cattle numbers since the 1954 census. When the boys saw the 1959 census figures, they revised their previous estimates for 1960 — and back through 1956.

This is customary procedure after each census. But the revisions are much bigger this time than usual. It seems that not enough allowance had been made for the reduction in numbers of farms and ranches. Things are changing so fast now that statistics are out of date even before electronic machines can print the tape.

THE NEW estimates for January 1 of this year show only 97,139,000 head of cattle and calves on farms and ranches. This is 7 per cent less than was expected on the basis of previous estimates. It is only ½ million more than the number reported by the USDA two years ago!

It now appears that the reduction in cattle numbers from 1955 to 1958 was about 5½ million instead of only 3½ million as had been believed. With this change in the figures, the most recent cattle cycle appears to be quite normal.

We should point out, however, that the present estimate is only half a million more than the number shown for the previous peak in 1955.

NUMBERS of dairy cattle, especially, were smaller than had been expected. These estimates were reduced by around 8 per cent.

The estimates of numbers of beef cattle were cut back only about 4 per cent. Here's how the numbers of various classes of beef cattle compare with last year, and with the number on hand at the peak of the previous cycle in 1955 (in comparing present numbers of cattle with figures for 1955 and 1956, remember that our population is about 8 per cent greater than it was five years ago.)

ALL BEEF CATTLE—67.2 million head, up 2 per cent from a year before and 10 per cent more than in 1955.

STEERS—10.9 million, up 4 per cent from 1960 and 13 per cent more than at the previous peak in 1956.

BEEF HEIFERS—7.0 million, the same as last year and 8 per cent more than in 1955.

BEEF CALVES—20.6 million, 1 per cent more than a year ago and 8 per cent more than at the previous peak in 1956.

BEEF COWS—27.0 million, 2 per cent more than a year ago and only 5 per cent more than the previous peak in 1955.

The revised esitmates of cattle numbers should give us new confidence in the cattle market. Marketings of cattle now seem likely to be only a little larger this year than in 1960. Drouth, of course, could force farmers and ranchers to sell more than normal numbers. Several states have received less than normal precipitation this winter. (Fm

Hints For Homeowners

Recently it has been reported that various cures have been found for Dutch elm disease.

Unfortunately, these reports are not based on fact. Several promising materials are being tested by experiment stations throughout the United States.

The process of evaluation requires laboratory testing materials on the fungus. Materials which prevent growth of the fungus are tried on trees to see if the trees will absorb the material in sufficient quantities without damaging the tree. No material has successfully passed this rigorous test.

Lay persons in various parts of the country have claimed that trees treated with various chemicals have been cured. However, these persons have failed to show that the trees were actually infected with Dutch elm disease before treatment.

EVEN WITH sufficient evidence that the tree was actually infected and survived after treatment, this fact could be attributed as much to chance as to the treatment. Single cases of cure are not sufficient evidence on which to base recommendations. Until a sure cure is found, the best way to protect elm trees is with proper sanitation measures (prompt removal of dead or dying elms) and an intelligent preventative spray program.

The recommended spray is a 6 per cent DDT emulsion applied before the buds swell in spring. Small twigs must be thoroughly covered. Once the leaves come out the possibility of covering the small branches is reduced. Summer sprays are of little, if any, value and are not recommended.

Much publicity about Dutch elm disease and lack of proper information make the home owner easy prey for unscrupulous "tree experts" with quick cures or for tree removal crews looking for a quick buck.

Do not buy any quick cures for Dutch elm disease. Do not cut down an elm tree not shown by laboratory analysis to be infected with the disease.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

One of Those Days

Dear Peg:

Today was one of those days that shouldn't happen to a merry-go-round! First of all it was Daddy's birthday which meant that the day was long ago destined to begin at daybreak. The children had a bit of trouble waking Mama, since Sunday is the only day she doesn't have to get up to play the organ for 6:15 Mass. However, I managed somehow to pull myself together and to join in, rather weakly, the singing of "Happy Birthday" to Daddy and watch him open his presents before falling face down into the pillow again. (One of the little blessings I'm grateful for is that Megan is now old enough to change Deirdre's diapers, dress her and give her breakfast and Bridget can easily handle the boys as far as helping them dress and giving them breakfast is concerned—leaving Mama the wonderful chance to sleep in just a wee bit longer than usual on Sundays).

Yesterday was the birthday shopping day and everything went smoothly as the children and I purchased the usual handerchiefs, cigarettes, shaving lotion and tie, until Patrick refused to leave the store unless we bought his Daddy a fishing pole. Now Daddy needs another fishing pole like I need a hole in the head. He has so much fishing equipment and so many poles he could start a sporting goods store, but this is difficult to explain to a four year old little boy who is trying to give his Daddy the present he's sure would most please him. So, I took the coward's way out and told him that this was not a store that sold fishing poles and that the fishing pole store was closed until summertime when Daddy goes fishing — then carefully avoided the Sports store on the way home.

It seemed as if I'd just slipped back to sleep when I was awakened by Bob asking for a clean handkerchief. I was a little disgusted since I even in my state of semi-consciousness remembered that he was given handkerchiefs for his birthday. I think now he really just wanted me to see him in his tux and white tie before he left. You see, dear, he was in the group of a thousand men who received the fourth degree in the Knights of Columbus at the Conrad Hilton today, so he had to wear his tux to church then pick up several other men and go directly to Chicago. I reminded him of the handkerchiefs, told him how nice he looked and was about to shut my eyes for a little longer, when he said, "Don't you think the pants are a little short?"

Hanging out over the edge of the bed, I tried to focus on the cuffs of his trousers. "They look all right—I think it's just the way you're standing." I replied, realizing even while saying it that it didn't make a whole lot of sense.

"They're too short. Where are the suspenders I got for Christmas?" he asked.

"Oh Bob, I don't know—I think the kids have been playing with them," I groaned, "Christmas was such a long time ago."

He was disgusted. "Well, I guess I'll just have to wear my old ones. But I do think, Patty, that you could give the children something else to play with other than my new suspenders!"

I stuck my head under the covers. Pretty soon he left. And the children came in to get me up. Then the day really began. There was church for everybody, to be attended in shifts so that someone would be with Deirdre, then it was lunchtime and naptime for Deirdre and Joseph and all of a sudden it was close to 3:00 o'clock. Megan was to be at the Woman's club for a ballet exhibition, Bridget and the boys were to be at the marionette show of "Pinnochio" in our school auditorium and Deirdre was to be with Mrs. Conder since I had to help serve at the tea following the exhibition.

I had forgotten to iron Megan's tutu, so while I scrambled through the dryer trying to find it, I called ("yelled" is more accurate) to Bridget to get the boys' shoes on and comb her hair and theirs.

It never fails—Deirdre had to be "changed" at the last minute. Fortunately the Woman's club is only a few blocks away, so I took Megan there first, returned and picked up Bridget, boys and baby and dropped them off at school and headed for Mrs. Conder's with Deirdre.

I then had just enough time to get home, dress myself and get over to the Club to help serve. At about 4:30, I left the Club, picked up Bridget and the boys, took them home, went back to finish serving and bring Megan's home. The last stop was up to Mrs. Conder's to get Deirdre. It was dinnertime by now and everyone was hungry and tired and quite cross.

After a bowl of soup and a sandwich (the quickest thing I could fix) I popped Deirdre into her crib and the boys into bed and I collapsed in a chair from which I have yet to move. But I'm going to move now—right now—in the direction of bed. Want to bet that that car I hear pulling into the driveway is Bob and I just know he'll want to tell me all about the festivities of the day. It is. Oh, well, so who needs sleep . . .

My love,
Patty

Quite Contrary by Mary

Just a Little Spot . . .

ONE OF MY GREATEST faults is procrastination. It's mine and I admit it freely. I don't do much of anything about it, just admit it. However, on the other side of the ledger, I am persistant. I'm so persistant that certain unkind members of my family refer to me lovingly as the "Bullhead."

Nowhere has my virtue, persistence, shown to such advantage as on a project that I have been carrying on for a good six months. It all started with my perfect passion to own an imported Irish linen dress. White. I had such plans for it with different colored belts, jewelry and shoes.

Not being able to find my dream dress in a store, I bought yards of simply yummy embroidered Irish linen and went to work with my hot little sewing machine. And my shapely little dress form that is supposed to look like little old me but is really much better looking. I was careful to the point of being finicky. And finally, one fine day in July, the finished product. A beauty, if I do say so.

So, I wore it. And promptly got a coffee spot on it. That's where the fun began. What would anyone use to take out a spot. Bleach. It took out the coffee alright but where there had been just a little spot there was now a nice big yellow place. Right in front. I tried chlorine bleaches. I tried lemon juice. I tried non-chlorine bleaches. I hired a little man who is an expert in these things to try his hand at it.

The part of the dress that wasn't yellow just kept getting whiter and whiter. The yellow place stubbornly stayed yellow. Frustrated, I hid it from me. Now I have resurrected it to start the battle all over again. This time I went into color remover put out by a dye company. I had such high hopes as the label said to remove stubborn stains. This is one of the stubbornest.

So that I wouldn't become too despairing, I also bought a package of cocoa brown dye. I mean, if I can't remove it, I'll jolly well cover it up. Out in the utility room is a white and yellow linen dress that doesn't know it but, by afternoon it is going to be cocoa brown. And, good enough for it too. I have met my match in persistence. (Soc

Arlington Juniors Plan 'Good-as-New' Benefit

Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club will hold its next fund-raising project, the Good-as-New-Shop, March 3 and 4 in St. John United Church of Christ, Arlington Heights. It is the Juniors' first attempt at this type of project and they are eager to make it a financial success, commented a committee worker.

The sale, as the name implies, will be the sale of articles that are good as new, rather than strictly rummage items. The Juniors, under the direction of the ways and means chairman, Mrs. Raymond E. Crouch will be pressing, polishing and arranging the sale merchandise Thursday and Friday. Friday night, the sale will start for the local and district club members and will continue for their friends and the public Saturday, March 4, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

EACH committee in the club will take charge of certain sale items, and a bake sale will be included. Board members will direct the sale of jewelry, gift items, and kitchenware; Mrs. H. E. Ehmans, home and garden committee, has the bakery booth; the baby department will be managed by the youth committee and Mrs. W. S. Anderson, Mrs. G. S. Lindeman's art, literature and music group has the booth with women's and girl's clothing; men's and boy's clothing go to the public affairs committee and Mrs. Kenneth Gerler; Mrs. J. Bolus and the Mexican migrant committee are in charge of miscellaneous items.

Proceeds of the sale will go to support the club's philanthropies. Mrs. D. E. Kieffer, chairman of the shop, hopes to be able to give a full scholarship to a teacher of exceptional children.

"GOOD AS NEW" 1927 Ford won't be among items for sale at the "Good-as-New" shop to be presented Friday and Saturday by Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club, but there will be hundreds of smaller items offered. The sale, the Juniors' first attempt at this type of project, will be held in St. John United Church of Christ. Mrs. Wallace G. Weisenborn and Mrs. Gordon T. Beckley, president of the club, talk over plans in front of the Beckley's old auto.

Schoolmates Choose Feb. 4 Wedding Date

A local couple, graduates of Arlington high school and the University of Colorado, were married February 4 in a double ring candlelight service in Community church, Prospect Heights.

The bride is the former Sheila Kutchera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kutchera, 802 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, and the bridegroom is John Sheppard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sheppard, 210 E. Marion, Prospect Heights.

Rev. I. R. Stevens and Rev. R. F. Klepper, pastors of the bride and groom, officiated at the 7:30 o'clock service amid a setting of white chrysanthemums and palms. Each pew was decorated with candelabra, white bows and huckleberry.

APPROACHING the altar on the arm of her father, the bride was wearing a chapel-length gown of bouquet taffeta in pale ivory. The gown was simply cut with elbow-length sleeves and fitted basque bodice. The neckline was enhanced with a yoke of jewelled alencon lace and a tiny cap of the same lace held her veil. Her flowers were a cascade of camellias and stephanotis.

Miss Leslie McIntyre, college classmate, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Jean Edgcumbe of Mt. Prospect and Miss Sherrell Reed of Arlington Heights. All wore identical gowns of arcady blue velvet designed similarly to the bride's gown. Their cummerbunds were caught at the back with tiny bouquets of velvet flowers. Their shoes matched their dresses and blusher veils topped matching velvet bows in their hair. Cascades of white chrysanthemums completed their ensembles.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Thursday, March 2, 1961

St. Patrick's Day Cook-in

BY DOLORES HAUGH

Sure and begora and stuff like that there. It will soon be time for the wearin' of the green and so plan a party that is different, a cook in instead of out.

INVITATIONS

Shamrock-bedecked chef's hats made from double fold white paper, cut to fit a standard envelope, can bear the following:

The top o' the mornin'
And the rest o' the day,
Sure and be gora, 'tis soon St. Pat's day,
And just for the "divil,"
Of fun and good cheer,
We're makin' it an Irish Cook IN this year.
There'll be shinin' Shamrocks
And Irish smiles too
If you'll say you'll join us—
(We're as Irish as you).

State time, pace and occasion, if any. Any birthday that is near will be celebrated more fully on St. Pat's day.

MENU

You will want to have a simple barbecue dinner but one that involves inside cooking. Steaks, tossed salad, baked potatoes, dessert and Irish coffee, all things possible, cooked on the open fire or on your movable grill. On a breezeway, or outside, bundled up warm, cooking becomes winter fun and the taste of the food is way-out, so if the ventilation is bad, Dad, you freeze by the fire. If you have a fireplace in the family room, cook there. Either way it's different.

DECORATIONS

Need I say what color will prevail? Shamrocks everywhere, in the carnations of the centerpiece which has as its center a large barbecue cooking utensil. A fork or spoon sporting a green hat, bow at the neck and green pipe cleaner arms can be made in no time,—a tiny round face or features of black can be done with masking tape and crayon, and a little time. A white cloth will show off your shamrocks better than a green one unless you use white shamrocks on it for accent.

ENTERTAINMENT

Of course, the eating will take most of the time but if you play games, be sure to bedeck the tallies, prizes and scorecards with the green. The Irish, God love them, can tell such wonderful Blarney-filled stories, so have the best told. And songs, what is more appropriate than singing around a fire? And why not Irish songs?

So light the fires and even if they are orange, they will be welcome at an Irish Cook-In. (S

Following the ceremony, a reception for 200 guests was held in the Des Plaines VFW hall. The couple honeymooned in Rockton and also spent a few days in Vienton, Iowa, visiting the bride's son, Gene Frischmann. (S

Juniors Schedule Children's Play

"A beanstalk will grow on stage before your very eyes," was the prophecy of the Barrington Junior Infant Welfare society. "Jack and the Beanstalk" will be coming to the Barrington High School auditorium Saturday, March 18, at 2 p.m. to delight youngsters of the surrounding area. This charity organization has engaged the Pinocchio Players Guild, a professional children's theatre group from Downers Grove.

Running about an hour in length, the play was adapted by the guild with the interests of the child of 7 to 12 in mind. The production emphasizes action and costuming to stimulate the young imagination while preserving the basic story.

THE DIRECTOR, Marie Engstrand Brady, is a Goodman Theatre graduate and a veteran of Chicago summer stock and television drama, having appeared with such stars as Billie Burke and Miriam Hopkins. The rest of the cast has an equally professional background.

Tickets are $1 and may be purchased at the Pioneer Hobby shop, 15 N. Bothwell, Palatine, and Heirs and Expectations, 26 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights. They may also be purchased by sending the coupon which you will find elsewhere in this newspaper. (S

'Sewing for Veterans' Hits New Record High

Mrs. Richard Johnson, chairman of the veterans service committee of the Arlington Heights Woman's club reports that "sewing for veterans" day was such a success that the group is planning another to be held March 9 in her home at 836 N. Mitchell.

The women attending the meetings enjoy a chance for conversation, an exchange of ideas and accomplish a great deal of sewing to aid the Veterans at Hines hospital in Hinsdale. At their January meeting 13 dozen items were finished.

THIS SAME committee decorated the service club at the 45th artillery brigade, Central and Wilke rds., Arlington Heights, at Christmas and donated enough homemade cakes and cookies to feed 200 men on two different occasions. This is an annual event for this committee since the army moved to Arlington Heights.

April 19 the women will give a party for the men in the VA Research hospital, 333 E. Huron, Chicago. They will play cards and organize games for the patients and bring and serve refreshments to the patients. (S

DELTA GAMMA

2/Pic

Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows Delta Gamma alumnae have launched the first phase of a 6-suburb-wide drive to collect eye glasses for the needy.

Mrs. Richard N. Bergstrom, 507 E. Grove st., Arlington Heights, has announced that any eye glasses with outdated prescriptons, broken lenses, metal or plastic frames and sunglasses are acceptable.

Collection containers, identified by their bright green and orange coloring, have been placed in the following local establishments: Bank of Arlington Heights, Arlington Market; Arlington Heights National bank, 14 E. Campbell; Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association, 25 E. Campbell; Red Owl Foods, 212 W. Northwest hwy.; Heights Cleaners, 405 S. State rd.; and National Tea store, Westgate shopping center.

The drive will continue through March 15.

MRS. FRED Daneke, 546 S. Vail, project chairman of the Chicago Northwest Suburban Delta Gamma, stated that the alumnae association will send the glasses to New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., a non-profit, non-sectarian social organization in Short Hills, N. J., where they will be sorted and sent to Medical and charitable agencies and missions throughout the world.

New Eyes for the Needy has helped 225,000 persons at home and abroad with many shipments going to Africa, Asia, India, Nigeria, Philippines, Indonesia, Okinawa and the Caribbean islands.

MRS. KENNETH Hood of Arlington Heights is serving as co-chairman of the Delta Gamma Founders' day brunch to be held March 18 in the Sheraton-Blackstone hotel. The occasion will commemorate the 88th anniversary of the founding of Delta Gamma at Oxford, Miss.

Today, Delta Gamma's 88 college chapters are located on campuses throughout the United States and Canada and alumnae organizations are active around the world.

SPECIAL guests at the brunch will include Mrs. Charles E. Gates of Wheaton, province alumnae chairman, and Miss Joan McCabe of Park Ridge, recently-appointed province secretary for the college chapters in Illinois and Wisconsin.

The program will be given by Mrs. Glen S. Watkins of Des Plaines, who will review a current Broadway play.

Philanthropies of the organization range from the $200,000 nursery school for the visually handicapped children in Los Angeles to the diversified projects of the Chicago area groups.

Local Delta Gammas have assisted in the work of the Hadley school for the blind in Evanston. They have also given a braille edition of the World Book and record players to local schools. Delta Gammas may make reservations for the brunch through Mrs. Hood, CL 3-5966.

PI BETA PHI

When Arlington Heights alumnae club of Pi Beta Phi meets March 8 in the home of Mrs. Clarke M. Jackson, 8 E. Sunset rd., Mt. Prospect, members will choose the outstanding sophomore active in the Illinois province and also elect new officers. The award to the sophomore will be presented at the sorority's annual Founders' day celebration in April.

Co-hostesses for the 8 p.m. meeting will be Mrs. Louis C. Dodge, Mrs. George Heiden, Mrs. Hadley Thomas Lemmons and Mrs. J. Meredith.

New Pi Phi's in the area are asked to contact Mrs. Robert S. Hoffman, CL earbrook 9-3132.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

A O Pi's northwest suburban alumnae will meet Wednesday, March 8, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. R. Hubert, 1407 W. Elm, Arlington Heights. Co-hostess will be Mrs. Ralph McGee.

All A O Pi alumnae in the area are invited and those wishing further information or transportation may call Mrs. Roger House, CLearbrook 5-2868.

GAMMA PHI BETA

At their February meeting, Gamma Phi Beta alumnae discussed final plans for their benefit dance, "Carousel," to be held April 14. Proceeds will aid in the Gamma Phis' support of the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children in Rolling Meadows, the Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded in Park Ridge and the Countryside school in Palatine.

"Carousel" will be held in the Des Plaines Elks club with music by Perry Foto's orchestra. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Robert Withans, FL 8-3087, Palatine; Mrs. Richard Impey, CLearbrook 3-7912, Arlington Heights; or Mrs. Alex McCornack, CL 5-3164, Mt. Prospect.

Next meeting of the group will be held March 22 in the Park Ridge home of Mrs. John Harpham. All Gamma Phi Beta alumnae are invited.

PANHELLENIC

Panhellenic members in the northwest suburban area will hold their next dessert meeting at 1 p.m. Thursday, March 9, in the Park Ridge home of Mrs. F. Raymond Bowen. Following dessert and a short business meeting, during which the slate of officers for the coming year will be announced by the nominating committee, a program on "Decorating with Rineglas" will be presented.

Mrs. Bowen has opened her home for the Panhellenic dessert meeting because she has utilized Rineglas plastic transfers extensively in her decorating scheme, and will have many examples on display. She will be assisted in her demonstration of the art and application of Rineglas by Mrs. Harvey Swart, also of Park Ridge, mother of Panhellenic president, Mrs. Jack Sneeden.

THE PROGRAM is being repeated this month "by popular demand" of Panhellenic members and their friends. In November of 1959, Cherry Sneeden, president of the group, was hostess for a similar demonstration in her home at 302 E. Berkshire ln., Mt. Prospect. At that time Panhellenic members and their guests heard the creator of Rineglas, Mrs. Dorothy Reinke, speak on how these decorating designs came to be developed.

Co-hostesses for the dessert preceeding the program will be Mrs. Richard Cooper, 221 S. George, Mt. Prospect, and Mrs. Ralph Reynolds of Des Plaines. Panhellenic members and any sorority women in the Paddock area who would like to attend the March 9 meeting, are asked to make reservations with Mrs. Cooper, CL 5-1465 by March 7.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Tri Deltas in the Northwest area, their husbands and friends, are planning "A Trip To The Stars" Sunday, March 19, when they journey with other Delta Delta Deltas in the Chicago area to Drury Lane Theatre in Evergreen Park to see Constance Bennett and Hugh Marlowe in "Marriage - Go - Round."

This Sunday night performance of the popular comedy will be a benefit for the Cleft Lip and Palate Institute, philanthropy project for the nine Delta Delta Delta alumnae chapters in the Chicago area. Curtain time will be at 7:20 p.m., and tickets, priced at $4, may be obtained from Mrs. Gerald C. Eckhart, 900 Na-Wa-Ta ave., Mt. Prospect, CL 5-9510, ticket chairman for the northwest suburban alumnae chapter.

THIS IS THE eighth year that Chicago area Delta Delta Delta alumnae have staged a benefit for the Cleft Lip and Palate Institute of Northwestern university. Proceeds from the affair will go toward research and to buy equipment used in diagnosis and treatment of victims of hair lip, cleft lip, cleft palate and similar disorders.

Although the institute uses the facilities of Northwestern university's downtown campus, it is not subsidized by the university; rather it is a private agency supported by private funds. Each patient pays what he can, but no one is ever turned away because of inability to pay.

CHICAGO AREA Alumnae council of Delta Delta Delta chose the institute as its philanthropic project in 1953, and Tri Deltas in the area have been devoting their efforts and money to further its worthwhile activities ever since.

Those attending the "Marriage-Go-Round" performance may also make reservations with Mrs. Eckhart for dinner at the Martinique restaurant, which is a part of the Drury Lane theatre. A certain percentage of all dinner and cocktail checks rung up on the Tri Delta register that night will go to the Ceft Lip and Palate benefit fund.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

This month, Northwest Suburban Alumnae club of Alpha Chi Omega will meet in the home of Mrs. Thomas Ralph, 108 N. Yale, Arlington Hts., CL 5-1213. Mrs. Ralph Hawkes will be co-hostess for the evening. The meeting will be held Monday, March 6, at 8:30 p.m.

Saturday, March 4, Mrs. Paul Heal and Miss Barbara Witthoft will attend a province convention at the University of Illinois and will discuss the convention with members of the alumnae club at the meeting Monday.

A SLATE of officers will be presented at the meeting and an election will be held for the next term.

Following the meeting, the club members will play bridge and be served refreshments by the hostess and the co-hostess. (S

Mount Prospect Church Scene Of College Couple's Rites

A courtship which began at Culver Stockton college in Canton, Mo. recently culminated in marriage rites for a young Wheeling couple, Miss Peggy Cargill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Cargill, 167 S. Milwaukee, and Calvin Mara, 55 N. Wolf rd., son of the Frank J. Maras of Riverside.

January 21 was the date of the couple's double ring service held in Community Presbyterian church, Mt. Prospect. Rev. G. R. Ekstrom officiated at the 3:30 p.m. nuptials amid a setting of mums, gladioli and snapdragons.

As guests awaited the bride's appearance, two selections, "Still As The Night," and "I Love Thee Dear," were offered by Shay Torrent, organist, and Mrs. Myra Anderson, soloist. The pair exchanged vows while in the background "The Lord's Prayer" was heard.

WHITE BOWS marked the pews for Miss Cargill's walk to the altar. On the arm of her father, gowned in white satin with front and back panels of chantilly lace, the bride followed in the steps of four attendants: Misses Judy Hicks, Jefferson City, Mo., Mary Jane Achard, Park Ridge; and Mrs. Nancy Wille, also of Wheeling.

Detailed with scooped neckline, the bridal gown had tapered sleeves and widened into a court sweep, gathered at the back with a large flat satin bow. A silk illusion veil cascaded from a small crown of matching lace, pearls and iridescent sequins, fashioned in tear drop design.

White roses, the groom's fraternity flower, orchids, stephanotis and ivy twines, formed the bouquet of the bride, who also carried a white Bible. Pink roses, Miss Cargill's sorority flower, trimmed the white muff carried by the maid of honor. The bridesmaids' muffs were adorned with yellow plumeria.

ALL WERE GOWNED in arcade blue velveteen dresses which had bell skirts, scooped necklines and short sleeves. Satin cummerbunds in the same color formed loops at the back. Headpieces were white fur bands. In a similar ensemble was Patti Miller of Long Grove, 5, who carried yellow baby roses. Another 5-year-old in the wedding party was Greg Hartmann of Wheeling, ring bearer.

A white orchid complemented the periwinkle blue silk suit and accessories worn by Mrs. Cargill. The groom's mother, Mrs. Mara, chose lime green accessories and a green orchid to accent her cocoa brown silk sheath. Both mothers helped to receive guests at a buffet reception at 6 p.m. in the Mt. Prospect VFW hall immediately following the ceremony.

Francis Mara of Riverside served his brother as best man while ushers were Dave Rosebraugh, Elmhurst; John Cargill, Wheeling; and Frank Battaglia, also of Riverside.

AFTER A 10-day honeymoon at Miami Beach, the newlyweds made their home at 55 N. Wolf rd., Wheeling. The new Mrs. Mara, a graduate of Arlington high school, attended Culver Stockton college for two years and is affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta. She is employed at Des Plaines Motor Sales, Inc.

Mr. Mara is a graduate of Riverside-Brookfield high school and Culver Stockton college. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and is with the Pure Oil company. (Jenart

The Way We See It

New Attitude Urged For Builder, School

Does a builder have an obligation to a community or school district other than complying with subdivision regulations and building codes? The answer to this question, a recurring one for rapidly growing northwest suburbs, is currently being sought in the courts, at meetings of area municipal bodies, and around school board conference tables.

The Illinois Supreme court is expected shortly to rule on an appeal of a Circuit court finding that a Mt. Prospect village ordinance requiring a subdivision developer to dedicate land for public use is unconstitutional.

Last week a builder seeking rezoning for a proposed residential development before Schaumburg's plan commission told a school board representative that it is no more right to pressure a builder for schools than it is to ask a grocer or service station owner for similar aid.

The builder either overlooks or chooses to ignore the fact that while he may have no legal obligation to assist the school district, his subdivision will quite likely create problems foreign to the grocey or service station business.

Crowded schools, strained municipal services, and overrun recreational facilities are often the consequence of mushrooming housing developments in the northwest suburbs.

But how much of an obligation? While many builders acknowledge their responsibility to promote a stable community, some find themselves surrounded by outstretched hands seeking money and land in excess of what the builder can reasonably afford to give for public benefit.

There is, of course, no ultimate to a "good" educational system or "adequate" recreational facilities, and it's not uncommon for area officials to exaggerate the anticipated problems of a proposed subdivision in order to milk a builder for what they can get.

Consequently, the combination of an indifferent builder and an avaricious public body breeds mutual distrust resulting in threats, court fights, and zoning hassles.

The ideal solution would perhaps be a legislative remedy, requiring the payment of land or money in proportion to the number of houses occupied, such cost to be passed on to the homebuyer. We are advised, however, that the attorney general has indicated any such move would be unconstitutional.

Relief would also be granted should the state's revenue code be revised to permit school districts to receive tax funds from improved property without a two to three year wait.

Meanwhile, it appears that negotiation will continue to play a leading role in relationships between developers and guardians of the community's interest.

Accepting this fact, we offer the following suggestions to lessen antagonisms between these two groups.

First, in too many instances a school district or community gets a "donation" from a builder and forthwith ceases to be interested in the builder's problems or progress. Just as the builder has a responsibility to the community, so should the community feel obligated to the builder who does more than is required by law to make the area a desirable place in which to live.

We would, for a change, like to see mothers picketing model homes with placards that read: "This builder is cooperating with school officials to build a first rate educational system for the community." Or perhaps such signs would read: "This is a well planned subdivision. The developer has exceeded legal requirements in setting aside land for parks and schools."

Homeowner groups could issue certificates of merit to builders. Official bodies could adopt resolutions noting community interest evidenced by developers. Such acts could legitimately be used for promotion purposes by builders.

Both builders and groups seeking assistance should bring an accurate picture of their problems and financial status to the conference table.

Builders should halt the nefarious practice of misleading advertising and sales pitches that offer the home buyer "the advantages of an estalished community," when the builder has done little but to overload the facilities of the community.

In short, both parties should observe the rule that those seeking equity must enter into negotiations with "clean hands."

Youth Commission Should Emphasize Rehabilitation

Charges of brutality at the state's Industrial School for Boys at Sheridan are currently capturing headlines. While such allegations — if found to be true — should be acted upon immediately, we feel a more serious, though less sensational, charge concerns the lack of rehabilitation facilities at the Illinois Youth Commission facility.

The accusation of "make work" practices and official disinterest in restoring youths as productive members of society strikes at the very heart of the IYC philosophy — that every effort should be made to rehabilitate its charges rather than merely confine them.

That the commission should operate under this principle was spelled out by the law that established the IYC. That this law has been largely ignored was noted by Paddock Publications a year ago following a first hand tour of the state training facilities for youthful delinquents at Geneva and St. Charles with a legislative subcommittee.

At that time we commented:

"It's a sad commentary that our pragmatic society can readily appreciate a power plant with its shiny engines and clean boiler room, such as the one at Geneva, or a pure-bred Holstein herd, such as the one at St. Charles, but finds it difficult to think in such intangible terms as 'rehabilitation'."

We hesitate to prejudge the situation at Sheridan. If the IYC is to carry out its function as designated by law, however, we are inclined to agree with Gov. Kerner who last week said, "Firing guards — or even prosecuting them — isn't going to clear up this situation. Deeper changes are needed."

These "deeper changes" must be a concentrated effort to insure that youngsters are better prepared to meet society's demands when they leave a state training school than when they entered.

'...Taught to the Tune of a Hick'ry Stick'

Reformatory Reform Urged

New Approach Needed To Youth Institutions

by DICK HOFFMANN

It is easy to see how brutal and inhuman treatment of delinquents occurs in such institutions as Sheridan. It appears to me that it is principally because the mechanics are there for it.

For we do not treat juvenile offenders as anything more or less than criminals. The whole process varies little from that to which the adult incarcerated public is subjected in our regular penal institutions.

It is a policy of locked doors, regimentation, punishment and retaliatory action. This is the way reformatories are; they are patterned after our penitentiaries.

ADD TO THIS the fact that the calibre of personnel leaves much to be desired. Most of the supervisory positions pay little in the way of monetary rewards. The majority of persons attracted to these positions, therefore, receive compensation in another way. They like their work.

For every dedicated, idealistic public servant and Father Flanagan there is an army with the "guard" mentality who like their work because it allows them the opportunity to punish others.

Even our mental institutions harbor the sadist; here, too, low pay and only perfunctory screening of personnel attracts the beetle-browed bullies who find their pleasures in inflicting punishment.

But this is possible only because society still possesses a Neanderthal mentality about the causes and cures of juvenile delinquency and crime.

FOR IF WE FAIL in treatment—instead of punishment—of our young offenders, this sin is visited upon us in terms which multiply in cost, crime and general collapse of societal standards.

Our reformatories are no more than undergraduate schools for crime. Instead of the warden, we need the psychiatrist, the social worker and the mechanics of the follow-through.

For even if progress is made toward rehabilitation—despite the many obstacles we throw up to prevent it—it doesn't do much good if the youngster goes back to the environment that encouraged his anti-social behavior. If we spent as much time, money and personnel in following through on the subject as we do in punishing offenders, I am sure the dividends would become apparent. (Here, I am aware that arguments could be made for urban renewal, et al, but space limits the observation to brief mention.)

SOME OF OUR states (Illinois excluded) have dramatically illustrated the ultimate savings that can be secured by a crash program in the mental institutions in which effort is directed toward cure, not warehousing.

If Illinois is still not too far removed from the snake-pit philosophy in its approach to mental illness, I think it has been liberated to some extent in its treatment of the delinquent.

The Illinois Youth Commission's camps which have been established in state parks, where restive, angry youth can flay away at frustration chopping wood and raking leaves, is a start in the right direction.

But such "maximum security" institutions as Sheridan only compound the problem, and eventually show up in increased taxes and hardened criminals.

I AM aware that "youngsters" imprisoned in the delinquent institutions range from car thieves to murderers. And I am not in favor of having them coddled and tucked in each night.

Having their care left to people too often sick themselves, means no end to the problem. We should muster our resources to treat the offender, to find out the causes of his behavior and attempt to effect cures. To do so, however, means that we must first reassess our whole approach to combatting delinquent behavior.

Zone of Neutrality?

New Book Represents Change In Era for American Negroes

by MARTIN E. MARTY

David Lytton, a white South African, has written the most angry, infuriating, frustrating — and one of the most moving — novels I have seen in a person.

The whole work is written in tones of frustration and fury, for Lytton pictures himself as a colored South African, venting his rage to live and displaying his crime-inspired courage to die in a white man's world.

The book, "The Goddam White Man" (Simon and Shuster, $3.50) seldom cools off from its profane first paragraph in which the hero begins, "Jesus, can I hate the white-man. From the pit of my stomach, right up to my throat, sometimes the hate fills me. . .And the white women. Worse, much worse than the men. . ."

HIS FIRST-person 'hero' is son of a white Dutch Reformed church minister; his unmarried mother was a Basuto kitchen maid. Johannes, as he is named, is a proud and bright figure who turned to crime as the way to find a place under the sun.

As chauffeur to a white girl he learned his way around the white's world, at the center of which he saw a lack of a sense of guilt. This sense further inspires him to reckless, enraged activities.

It is at no point a pleasant book, not really adaptable for Sunday School instruction at all; but America's good Christian folk will have to begin to familiarize themselves with this type of literature to be drawn into the realities of a new kind of world; David Lytton proves himself a master of the genre.

His book represents a new era in which negro comedians can satirize bogged - down race relations, in which 'Black Muslims' hold reverse-English Ku Klux Klan type meetings, in which Congolese parties can hold world fates in their hands.

What has often been missing from the understanding of race relations, whether in South Africa, southern United States, or Chicago's South Side, is the long buildup of resentment that occurred under the seemingly docile negro acceptance of inferior status.

Says Lytton, speaking through Johannes: "The surprising thing to lots of people is that the colored has feeling. He can feel shame, he can feel despair; he can feel resentment. . . This is always a shock to a white man - when he learns how the colored feels and when he sees that, by God, it is the same as other men feel. . ."

THIS KIND of book does not simplify race relations at all. "Things will get worse before they get better," as the new President likes to remind us in many fields. Domestically, things may get better all along; but on the foreign scene, especially with Soviet - inspired exploitation of racial resentments, they will get worse first.

Not long ago the At Random television show presented two Protestant Congo missionaries across the table from a Congolese nationalist - minded student who had little use for missionaries, Belgians, Americans, whites in general.

The colored man inspired few sympathies; his view of history was certainly warped. But every viewer must have been amazed at the political naivete of men like the missionaries who had lived so long in the Congo and had understood so little of racial resentment and political realities. The instance was all too typical.

WE CANNOT eradicate all the past that went into these resentments, but there are certain things to be done to improve the future.

So long as Little Rock remains America's best-known city to Africans, there is little room for bettering the situation. If all the professional anti-Communist groups in America spent more energy on improving our racial situation instead of reconvincing the 99.9999 per cent of our population that is already anti-Communist, they would certainly achieve more for our nation and its political situation in the world.

We may not become, overnight, "blessed white men" but we may move into a zone of neutrality not quite implied by Lytton's angry title.

Springfield Sidelights

Eye Constitutional Amendments in 1962

by REP. PAUL SIMON

When you go to the polls in November of next year, the chances are good that you will vote on at least one constitutional amendment — possibly the full limit of three changes.

No more than three changes to the Constitution can be voted on at any election.

At this early stage in the legislative session, it looks as if one or more of four may make it:

1. A revenue amendment, which would give the state greater flexibility in getting its money. Much of the unfairness of our present tax structure is due to the out-dated revenue article in the present constitution. The result has been a heavy burden on the property tax and the sales tax.

2. A judicial amendment, which would permit greater flexibility and efficiency in the operation of our courts. The big fight on this one will be how you select the judges; that fight may well kill any chances it has of getting on the ballot. About one-third of the members of the legislature are lawyers—and there are almost as many ideas on selecting the judges as there are lawyers in the General Assembly.

3. AN AMENDENT to permit sheriffs and county treasurers to succeed themselves. This has been defeated twice; it may be presented again, but with just one of the two offices included, in the hope that it would be acceptable, one step at a time.

4. An amendment to permit 18-year-olds to vote. Rep. Ed Schaefer of Nokomis is the chief sponsor of the proposal this time. Each year this measure gathers a few more votes and one of these years it will be on the ballot. The odds are against it happening this session, but it might just break through this time.

The session in Springfield is barely under way, so that picture could change considerably in the coming months, but that's the way it looks right now.

Constitutional amendments need voter approval for any change.

To get on the ballot in November of next year, an amendment needs the favorable vote of two-thirds of the House and Senate. That isn't easy to achieve; most proposals for changing the constitution will be killed because of this requirement.

THERE WILL also be a resolution for a constitutional convention, to completely redraft our state's basic document. If past experience is a key to the future, that proposal will be overwhelmingly defeated.

The reason you vote so frequently on changes in our state constitution is that Illinois—like most states—has a constitution with a great many needless details in it. Most of these details made sense when they were originally put there in 1870, but in 1961 some of these details are ridiculous.

A minor example is that the constitution establishes that a legislator may receive his salary and mileage "and no other allowance or emolument, directly or indirectly, for any purpose whatever, except the sum of fifty dollars per session to each member, which shall be in full for postage, stationery, newspaper and all other incidental expenses and perquisites." These other "incidental expenses and perquisites" include stenographic help at your place of residence and hotel expenses.

IN 1870 THIS kind of a restriction made sense. Today, the postage alone far exceeds the fifty dollars which the constitution allows for all expenses.

That particular provision does not hamper the efficient operation of government, but it illustrates how provisions in an 1870 constitution can become outdated—and why you'll probably be voting for some constitutional changes in November of 1962.

Letters to the Fence Post

Here's One Reader Who Has Plenty of Praise for Paper!

Every week you manage to get not one but several especially good and/or especially provocative articles in the Herald and every week I find it more difficult to practice restraint in sending you priceless words of wisdom without which your readers simply couldn't exist.

This week I can't help myself; the lengthy letter from an obviously deeply concerned Mt. Prospect "Loving Mother" opposed to a longer school year demands a comment. At the moment my own opinions on the subject are fluid, but why, oh why, does every program now operating have to be "the American way of life" and any objections thereto be suspect — probably at the instigation of the Kremlin?

As a matter of information I wonder in what terms the teacher of "A Loving Mother's" children describes "a little boisterous and eager." This may belong in Sydney Harris' list of Personal Prejudices, i.e., "my children are b. and e.", but "yours are little ruffians."

ON A MORE serious note, may I offer congratulations on the editorial on the study of American freedoms. It often seems to me, as it apparently does to you, that the knowledge of Marx, Engles and Lenin's theories are more widely known and understood than are the Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights.

The Soviet trinity's principles undoubtedly present a serious threat to the American way of life (not including the length of the school year) but ignoring or misinterpreting the basic principles on which our nation was founded and on which it has prospered may well be an even more dangerous threat.

For example, it is already very risky to publicly discuss ways and means by which peace may be achieved. Russia says she wants peace, ergo, we must, as loyal Americans steer clear of the subject. Talk of peace may be subversive, therefore we mustn't talk of it at all.

NEXT ON the list is my sincere thanks for the excellent coverage you have given the Greenleigh "Facts, Fallacies and Future" report on the ADC program in Cook county.

If the report did nothing other than call attention to the lack of basis of many widely held beliefs, it would have been worthwhile. Nobody has ever suggested the program was perfect or has denied that inequities in its administration do exist and will undoubtedly continue to exist no matter what corrections are instituted. People are what they are, not what they and others would like them to be.

Nevertheless, ADC has important significance in helping people in need to retain humanness, to be more than unnoticed items on a scrap heap, and this I suggest is a goal that is part of the American way.

Both volumes of the report deserve thoughtful reading as do the carefully worded and thoroughly documented recommendations for both short and long term improvement of the program and the atmosphere in which it must be administered.

MY FINAL comment must be considered a light note. In spite of the respect I have for your reporting and editorializing, the first column I read is "Mary, Quite Contrary." Who, for heavens sake, is she? A more delightful and penetrating sense of humor would be hard to find, and her use of the English language "as she is spoke" is a real treat. Don't ever lose her.

After having wrung all the above from my pen, I feel much better. I do believe my reactions are once more under control (for a while).

Caucus Coverage Rapped by Reader

This letter is in protest to the accuracy of the coverage of the so called Democratic caucus as noted in the editions of the Elmhurst Press and the DuPage Register of February 9. The inference was that the Democrats held a Caucus in the Addison fire hall and after some dissension endorsed another ticket. Was there a Caucus?

These are the facts, not the phantasmics. The chairman after making some extemporaneous remarks, pounded his gavel, and made the motion from the chair to adjourn. This was promptly seconded. An attempt was made to continue the meeting. The secretary, with the infallible wisdom of a Blackstone, opened his thesaurus, and read excerpts why there was not going to be a caucus. The chairman and secretary decided the adjournment vote was a weighted vote limited to committeemen.

THERE WERE a few impromptu speeches from the floor expressing varied opinions. The weighted vote for the adjournment was called by the secretary and recorded by the gentlemen who seconded the motion made by the chairman. What ensued was the cannon balling of the adjournment vote through.

There was one, and only one motion made at this so called caucus. Adjournment--
--this was accomplished. The many attending registered Democratic voters were subjected to the harlequinade and were deprived the right to participate in a legal publicized Democratic caucus. It was a meeting of adjournment and should be reported as such.

Paddock Publications Tell Election Policy

News coverage practices and policies for the April municipal and township elections were announced this week by Paddock Publications.

The same standards of news writing and news judgment which Paddock Publications exercises in its regular news will also apply to news of political activity and campaign releases. Our coverage of the election campaigns will be fair, accurate, and objective. The editors will not permit the news columns to be used as propaganda tools for any particular candidate, party, or interest group.

All political releases will be judged on their own merit, news value and timeliness.

TO BE considered for publication, political releases must be restricted to discussion of pertinent issues confronting the community; announcements of meetings, rallies, open houses, and other legitimate activities; announcement of slates, candidates, party platforms; specific qualifications of candidates. No releases which libel, smear, indulge in innuendo and inference, attack personalities or include "name calling" will be considered for publication. The newspaper will not publish unverified charges, unsubstantiated accusations, etc. Final decision as to acceptability of news releases will rest with the respective news editors and their superiors. Particular questions with respect to local news coverage should be taken up with the local editors.

The volume of election news will be controlled to maintain a proper balance between campaign news and other community activities and events. News editors will cover major forums and "meet your candidate" gatherings. Information obtained at such meetings will take precedence over hand-outs.

Strict control will be exercised over use of "The Fence Post" columns as vehicles for political opinion. Letters must be restricted to a brief discussion of pertinent issues, no personalities. Final judgment on publication of letters will be exercised by the Fence Post editor.

REQUESTS for photo assignments will be weighed solely on their news value and will be up to the judgment and discretion of local news editors.

Candidates and campaign managers are requested NOT to contact editors at home to discuss election coverage. If editors are not at the office please leave your name and number with the switchboard operator.

Absolute final deadline for political hand-outs to be considered for current week's publication is Monday NOON. No exceptions to deadline. Material submitted before Monday will receive preferred treatment.

Political releases should be typewritten, double-spaced. They should include at the top of the page the name, address, and telephone number of the publicity chairman or campaign manager.

RELEASES may be delivered in person to the offices of Paddock Publications at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, or mailed c/o local news editor, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights. Mailed releases must arrive at our office BEFORE Monday noon.

All political releases should be marked to the attention of the local editor assigned responsibility for coverage of your particular election.

Any questions regarding the newspapers' general news and editorial policy with respect to the election campaign should be directed to Charles E. Hayes, Executive Editor.

Public Aid to Parochial Schools Aired by Reader

There are two subjects which are certain to cause a flurry of agitation when discussed, namely politics and religion. When they are combined, it is certain to cause ruffled tempers with the usual red herring of misinformation or partial information offered as concrete evidence. I am referring, of course, to the issue of allocating tax funds to assist private schools.

To begin with, the primary function of our government is to govern, i.e. to create and enforce laws for the welfare of all. In fact, at first the governing and defense of the people by their elected representatives was their only function.

TRUE, IT was the majority that created the laws, but at no time was the good of the minority ignored, nor is that the purpose of our government today. If only the welfare of the majority warranted our consideration we would not now be struglling to assist the cause of equality for Negroes.

No, this is a country of freedom and equal opportunity for all and not merely the majority as one writer suggests. Why then do some suggest that freedom of choice of education be denied? Why is it considered fair to demand that all send their children to a secific school and that failure to comply with this regulation results in a doubling of the cost of education. Is this freedom of education? As long as each private school complies with the educational standards set by the state, why should those attending such a school be penalized?

Mr. Jones of Bensenville bases his arguments against state aid to private schools on three arguments, which, upon serious analysis, prove to be mere red-herrings.

1) MR. JONES states that "The use of public taxes to support private schools is in direct violation of the Constitution of the U.S." and bases his argument on the necessary separation of church and state. This interpretation is completely false. The reference to the very necessary separation of church and state is in the field of political government.

At no time has the church the right to dictate to the state. True, its members vote according to the dictates of their own conscience and not as ordered by any church, hence the complete separation of church politically. Our motto is "In God we trust." Our forefathers put their faith in God and entrusted the guidance of our nation to His care. They offered religious freedom by recognizing all religions as paths towards God. They did not even suggest an ideological separation of church and stae, but merely a political separation based on faith in His protection.

Now Mr. Jones, how does the use of public tax to support private schools infringe politcally on the separation of church and state? It seems to me that the danger, if one really did exist, is in that state would be controlling church and not vice versa.

2) MR. JONES states that "Use of public taxes to support private schools would result in chaos in public schools." How? Don't you know that all schools, both public and private, are subject to regulations by the state concerning the quality of instruction offered right now? The standards are set by the board of education and all must conform even now. How would public support of private schools change this since private schools are also subject to these regulations at the present time?

3) MR. JONES states that "Use of public taxes to support private schools would give the government control of our schools." I'm confused. Which side are you on? The public schools are subject to government regulation now. So are the private schools. So where is your argument? The government represents the wishes of the majority, so if the majority wishes limited control of the educational system then why worry?

To quote Mr. Jones again, "Taxes would be much higher if we did not have private schools" And he wonders if those supporting public taxes to private schools have considered this. Yes, we've considered it, but then the back breaking bus fares plus tuition plus the other extras would be eliminated so it should help to balance the scale. On the other hand, Mr. Jones, those with children in the public schools would be contributing to the support of the education of their own children and not leaving it to others to do for them, and I'm sure you'll agree that this is more just. Surely you want to accept your fair share for the education of your own children, don't you Mr. Jones, instead of palming it off on your neighbors?

Why sit back and say smugly "I do not believe supporters of private education would close the doors of private institutions. They want their children to receive the special religious training." Should they be penalized for it by being forced to pay not only for the education of their children, but also help educate yours? Where is your responsibility in the matter, Mr. Jones?

I DEFINITELY feel that religion should not be taught in the public schools. But why deny religious freedom by making those who wish a private education which offers religious instruction for their children pay double. Why insist on a public school or else?

There are two methods by which public taxes could be used to help private schools without endangering the independence of either group.

1) Let each private school system submit an enrollment list and cost financing school and bus and be paid accordingly. Or

2) Let each parent submit proof of the number of children enrolled in private schools, then deduct the amount of tax allocated for educational purposes.

Fair enough?

'Loving Mothers' May Be at Fault

This is in response to the "loving mother" of Mount Prospect who opposes the lengthening of the school year. Do you know who is responsible for the ever increasing juvenile delinquency? We parents who hate to see our children work a little harder. Work makes good citizens as it did in the past.

I am not opposed to the idea of pursuing hobbies and sports, but we are overdoing it.

I love my children and I am not willing to throw my responsibility of rearing my children on anyone else's shoulder; however I can't find all the time to sit with my children as I would like.

IF MY children are at school I feel sure that they are learning under qualified guidance.

A parent can deliver himself to the child satisfactorily in a few minutes after school. All a child needs is the affirming feeling that he is wanted and loved all year round, not only during summer vacation.

I think that it is quite correct to say that most parents who neglect their children during the scholastic year, because these parents have too many social engagements and leave their children with sitters, feel guilty and want to make it up to them during the summer vacation. This is wrong and unfair to the child. A child should be loved everyday, for everyday of his life is a different day and each day needs a little enrichment, especially in childhood for that is the foundation of adulthood.

EVERY tiny bit of you that you can give your child each day cannot be made up in two months' period.

I think I will be happy to see a 12-month scholastic year. First the child will not forget what he learned the year before, and secondly he will be in a place where mischief is minimized and responsibility will rest with him constantly.

Protest Village Newsletter Funds

This letter is to protest the publication of the "Village Reporter" by the Hoffman Estates village board.

This monthly publication was originally intended to inform the residents of the village of Hoffman Estates of the various ordinances that were being passed by the board. It was also intended to serve as a means of notifying the residents of village meetings that were to be held.

The "Village Reporter" has now become nothing but a political tool for the present board with the residents paying for its distribution. Certainly, when the president or one of the trustees writes an article, or editorial, if you will, on any article that is controversial and states his opinion . . . this is nothing but sheer politics.

I, for one, as a taxpayer am definitely opposed to the board using my tax money in this manner. I am strongly of the opinion that it is neither morally nor legally right. A study of the Illinois Revised Statues, Chapter 24, fails to show any legal basis for a publication such as the "Village Reporter," therefore I question the board's authority and intent in publishing this monthly publication.

UNLESS THE village board of Hoffman Estates can show provisions under state statutes that provide authority for such a publication, and can rightfully prove that this publication is not being used for political purposes, I hereby request its immediate action to cease any publication of future issues of the "Village Reporter."

I am confident that the newspapers serving our community will be more than happy to print any articles that the members of our village board may wish to write. Then, we will have the option of buying the newspaper and reading the article, if we so desire.

In reply to Hugh Seddor, fire chief of Roselle, regarding a letter published February 16, the fire department of Roselle is to be commended for their immediate response to a patient in need of doctor's care. The fire department responded and within minutes, with the aid of Roselle police and Mr. Richert, a doctor was summoned.

National Politics Unwelcome

National Politics 1-24 italic

City and township elections are the concern of everyone.

We always have had public spirited people in our area come forward for the betterment of our community. Their record speaks for itself. Rolling Meadows' officials, in 6 years, have done wonders; school boards have handled overwhelming problems, ably; the township has done its job with integrity.

NATIONAL political parties are a privilege that we enjoy in this country. Everyone should participate in their local organizations so that they may help form state and national policies in their chosen party.

However national policy in political organizations cannot solve local problems. City, township and tax districts cannot be split along national or state line but must be settled right here, personally, neighbor to neighbor. A Republican or Democrat should vote for the person who they feel answers the need of the locality without the pull of nationally organized parties.

Let's not try to push individual local candidates into a national mold.

"Your grandchildren will grow up under Communism!"

says NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

Will the Soviet threat come true? Will your grandchildren live under Communism? Forget God? Salute the Soviet flag? "Never!" you say. But are you sure? How can you oppose Communism? One sure way is to help Radio Free Europe.

The voice is that of Nikita Khrushchev.
The audience is American.
"Your grandchildren will grow up under Communism!" he shouts.
Do you believe that?
Will your children live to see the Free World die?
Will your grandchildren live in barracks with their hair shaved off? Forget God? Salute the Soviet flag?
"Never!" you say. But are you sure?
What can you do to oppose Communism? There is one sure way. It is to help Radio Free Europe.

What does it do?
Every day, to 79 million captive people behind the Iron Curtain, it broadcasts the plain truth . . . religious services . . . folk songs they love . . . the real news of the outside world.
It helps keep these 79 million people from turning to Communism. The Poles, Czechoslovakians, Bulgarians, Rumanians and Hungarians.
It keeps alive their belief in the Free World . . . their hope for the future . . . their friendship for America.
Broadcasting from 28 transmitters . . . manned by escapees from Communism . . . working 18 hours a day . . . it reaches over 90% of these people, despite Communist jamming.
Thousands of smuggled letters echo the same plea:
"God Bless You! Please keep Radio Free Europe on the air!"

These 79 million people are vital to the cause of freedom . . . the future of your children.
They are the buffers between Russia and the Free World.
They help tie up 30 Russian divisions, stationed to prevent uprisings.
They pose a major obstacle to the Russians starting any war.
And they depend on Radio Free Europe. It is their strongest link with the Free World.

But Radio Free Europe needs money to continue this important job . . . to grow . . . to become ever more effective.
It is privately supported and depends on individual Americans for its very existence.
How about it? Will you help fight Communism? Secure the future of your children?
. . . Give a dollar?
. . . Give five dollars?
. . . or more?
Surely, your heart tells you to give something so that our children—and all children—shall live in freedom throughout the world.

Cantinflas Is Subjected To Bad Material in Film

By JIM PHILLIPS

During the past two months I've been receiving nothing but booklets, newsletters, one-page ads, stickum-stamps, and photos concerning "Pepe," the George Sidney color "extravaganza" starring Cantinflas.

Now, the minute I receive this promotion material, I immediately begin wondering — is this one going to be that bad? Well, my question was answered.

"Pepe" has only one great attraction, and that's the comic genius of Cantinflas, the Mexican who has been called by Chaplin, "the greatest living comedian." Columbia Pictures will be happy to know that not only has Cantinflas kept them from the gross humiliation of becoming another mass production studio, but he has also saved more than a half dozen scenes from becoming entirely useless (due to the uninteresting acting by some of the 34 big names in the movie.)

THE WHOLE mess begins by showing Cantinflas in the role of a horse lover. Movie director Dan Dailey buys the horse and takes off for Hollywood (no, mother, not the race track, the town!). Cantinflas follows Dan because—well, like I said before—he's a horse lover. Dailey, by the way, is supposed to be broke—if this is true, he's about the best dressed, empty-walleted director I've ever seen.

Anyway, dere's like dis beatnik actress, like named Shirley Jones. Kinda broke, too, is dis kid, yet already she's nowhere in the green bill department. Shirley meets Dan and horse, and after two hours of plot-weakened mumbly peg, she ends up as star of a movie Dan finally gets to direct.

Before you can say "when are the short subjects?" everyone is a success.

And where is Cantinflas all this time? He's as buried as a raisin in a bowl of bran flakes. How'd he get this way? Sheer exhaustion from leaping in and out of scenes with Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Bing Crosby, Ernie Kovacs, Kim Novak, Debbie Reynolds, Edward G. Robinson, (there are more, but I don't want to run the column into the want ad section!)

"PEPE" does have two bright spots—the dance sequence involving D. Reynolds and Cantinflas is quite gay and original, and the customs inspector routine featuring Ernie Kovacs is a fine piece of burlesque. However, the movie still remains a pretentiously splashed-up musical which really isn't a musical. It's tragic that an artist of Cantinflas' stature should be subjected to this type of carnivulsion. In Mexican films, he lives up to the title Chaplin gave him. In America, we have boiled, fried, and basted him with tasteless material. Those who saw "Around the World in 80 Days," will be vastly disappointed with "Pepe." Capsule Comment: Entertaining, if you like 34 pieces of ham with your enchalada!"

THE SAVAGE INNOCENTS: Out of the cold, ice-laden wilderness, blubber in hand, comes Anthony Quinn (Inuk), an Eskimo who is lonely and misunderstood by whie men. He kills to live (in color, yet!) and finally meets his downfall when one victim turns out to be a human being.

This is the basic plot of "Savage Innocents," a sort of deep-freeze 35 mm edition of "This is Your Life." It is raw, it is at times highly dramatic, it is brilliantly photographed — generally, it will prove that Anthony Quinn is one of the most accomplished actors around the country. Unfortunately, the movie got nowhere at a Chicago box office. And, of course, the critics seemed to have the answers for the failure — all of them different. Suffice to say that the whole idea, according to the picture's promoters, was to familiarize Americans with the life and times of the Eskimo.

I can safely say I'm familiar with blood and how it oozes, trickles, and drips in zero weather. As for the Eskimo—I lost him somewhere. I saw a man called Inuk (a great portrayal by Quinn), but I doubt that this character is a true format for all Eskimos.

Off hand, I'd say that if you want your children to learn about Eskimo life, there's a teacher in his school, there's a library on the corner, there's a museum in Chicago, and there's the Alaskan highway. If you, yourself, are interested in the talents of Mr. Quinn, and can stand a rapid flow of red corpuscles with your polar bear muscles, "Savage Innocents" may be just the thing! Capsule Comment: "A cake of ice, a loaf of blubber, and Quinn, acting in the wilderness!" Artist Sees Life As Bunch of Purple Cats

By LUCILE ERNST

Last summer I took a course in government at Elgin Community College. This is the last thing in the world I would have done of my own free will as I yawned through my civics class in high school and learned more than I cared to know. It was necessary to get a certificate to teach.

I was lucky in getting one of the best teachers I have ever encountered. His class was stimulating and entertaining to put it mildly.

In the course of his lectures he pointed out a great change that has occurred in the law over the past hundred years. There was a time when law was not interpreted. If a law was broken, there was a definite penalty exacted. This is no longer true. The law has become subjective, a matter of judgment and interpretation.

MY EARS stood on end as they so often do. As parents, we know this same change has occurred in rearing children. As a painter of sorts I have noticed this problem exists in the arts.

Since the dawn of time, man has been involved with symbols. All artists have used symbols to express the deep feeling people have felt for their gods. The understatement of a symbol is a powerful thing, much more powerful than a plain statement of fact.

If you really listen to the words of the Star Spangled Banner you will catch the importance of the flag flying through a night's bombardment. Losing a battle doesn't mean you have lost a war but to Francis Key, it did. The power of a symbol is in the viewer's recognition of what the symbol stands for, whether it be a flag, a snake or laurel leaves.

AS LONG as the symbol has some meaning to a great many people and can be recognized, we can pass our judgment on whether it is used artistically or not. This is often the case with abstract art. This is why a well painted abstract may be more effective than a realistic painting. A too realistic painting may have the same effect as my high school civics class. It tells us more than we care to know.

Often when people say they don't like abstract art, they mean they don't like some of the abstract art they have seen. I'll join them in that. On the other hand arty people, it seems to me, often read more meaning into a painting than the painter knew was expected. Quite often they find real depth where none exists.

I REMEMBER well an exhibit by a strange young artist who plastered the walls of a fine museum with hundreds of purple cats. Some of the cats were blue or pink but mainly they were purple. I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw all those cats. They were not very well drawn and were done in a blotchy fashion which I understand since I have the same problem with water color. I suppose if you like cats they were all right but it seemed to me the sum total of all human experience can not be expressed as a purple cat.

This was my opinion. People with far better judgment than I thought his cats were highly creative. The painter himself thought they were wonderful. This was understandable but scarcely conclusive evidence. He pointed out cats that were lying, walking, jumping and sitting. What more could anyone want. To him those purple cats were the essence of life. That may be, but to me they were just a bunch of cats.

IN OUR modern world we are called upon to interpret art, and on this basis form an opinion. We can do this if the symbols have meaning to us. When a symbol is used that is so personal that no one else can share it, I do believe honesty should force us to admit that the Emperor wears no clothes. (Bill

'WAY BACK WHEN'

Compiled by Mrs. G. Rex Volz — Phone CLearbrook 5-9078

60 Years Ago—Mar. 2, 1901

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

Ferdinand Hansing and J. H. Meyer were to Chicago Monday and bought a nice new show case, some clocks, sewing machine supplies, etc., toward fitting out Hansing's new jewelry store.

Henry Meyer, carpenter, and Fred Schulenburg, mason, were the fortunate contractors to secure the job of adding another story to Arlington Hall. They will commence work on this improvement as soon as the weather will permit.

Co. Supt. Bright assisted by Mr. Farr gave a stereopticon lecture in Arlington Hall Friday evening. They were greeted by a large and appreciative audience. We heartily endorse the idea of consolidating all the districts of one or more townships and then all would have the benefits of graded schools. They showed up many school premises, some of which were creditable and others which were worse than the barns of some of the neighboring farmers. Much progress has been made in the public school system but many more improvements such as ventilation and tasty surroundings, are very necessary to health of body and minds of school children.

BENSENVILLE:

Almost every family here has children sick with measles.

ITASCA:

The bell on the Presbyterian church could not stand the last cold snap and is badly cracked, but it is to be replaced soon.

PALATINE:

Chas. Wente has 1,000 tons of clear crystal stored in his big ice house. The second and third crops of ice on his pond are now fourteen inches thick.

Editorial Musings: Old Sol will soon open the snow blockade; then we can drive in the road again. February has been an ideal month, good sleighing and zero weather nearly every night. Sleighing parties can now appropriately sing "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep"—snow drifts. The roads are full of "howdy-dos" and "thank-you-ma'ams"—no need for rocking chairs these days. The north and south roads are badly cut up and drifted; there are many pitch-holes, some of them three and four feet deep.

50 Years Ago—March 3,1911

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

Principal Gamble, his able assistants and the enthusiastic students of Arlington Heights public schools, also friends of higher education are rejoicing over the "Reward of Merit" awarded to our High School. Mr. H. A. Hollister, High School Visitor, writes from Urbana, Ill.: "On my recommendation as a result of my recent visit the Council of Administration has approved your high school as fully accredited for a term of two years, or until June 30, 1913. This means that in our judgment you have an efficient high school. The enclosed card should be permanently filed in your office and also made a matter of record by your board."

At the public hearing at the Arlington Hall March 1, the universal opinion was that the Board of Local Improvements should go ahead with the sewer system as fast as possible. The only objector was Ed. Dunton of Aurora, who stated through his agent, Peter Beyer, that he did not propose to improve nor sub-divide his property during his life-time, but keep it only as a farm, thus he would retard the growth of the beautiful village which his father founded. The improvements and progress made at Arlington Heights the past ten years have quadrupled the value of Dunton's farm and it should be taxed accordingly. Land thus located in the middle of a future, live, young city is too valuable for ordinary farm purposes and if the owner doesn't want to expend more in taxes than the rent will amount to, he better sell to others who will gladly improve the property and make this section the beauty spot of our city. Non-residents should pay their just share of taxation or sell out and not be allowed to obstruct progress. He can't present any good reason why his property should not help pay for the public sewer which will further greatly increase the value of his lands.

G. H. Allison is kept busy gathering mushrooms from his plant. One day recently he harvested 300 lbs.

F. W. Muller & Son will soon deliver their famous pop, ginger ale and lemon sour in handsome wagons, freshly decorated by C. O. Petterson. It is the finest job ever done in Arlington Heights. You could use the boxes for mirrors to shave or dress by, they are so glossy.

Obituary: The funeral of Mrs. Wm. Hugo was held Thursday afternoon from the residence, pastor Rev. Theo. F. Bierbaum officiating. She was born in Berlin, Germany, in 1858, came to America in 1883, settling in Chicago; married in 1884 to August Mueller. To them were born six children, Charles, August, Bertha, Helen, Lizzie and Gertrude. August and Bertha died in infancy and Charles at the age of six years. Mr. Mueller died in 1895, and a few years later Mrs. Mueller came to Arlington Heights, and Feb. 4, 1900 she was married to Wm. Hugo. They had one child who died when five months old. She died at her home Feb. 20, 1911. She leaves to mourn her departure, her husband, three daughters, and ten step-children.

ROSELLE:

Officials of Ku & Chapell Dairy Co. architects and officials of the St. Paul RR were here Friday and Saturday completing arrangements for the monster milk bottling plant.

PALATINE:

Conrad Doerge lays claim to the first hatch of the season. Feb. 25th was the date. Come on you chicken fanciers, get jealous.

The Special Committee of the Commercial Association has received the promise that the telephone will be reinstalled in the depot. The St. Charles Business Men's Assn. have spent $3,744 for decorative street lights. That is a little beyond Palatine; but we should be willing to spend $25 to have the R.R. park seeded down.

Commissioner Busse was in Palatine Sunday and while looking over the town passed the pumpting station and expressed considerable surprise that the old dumping ground around the reservoir was not changed into a park. He stated that although Mt. Prospect did not have a water works system, they did not have such eye sores as the old ice house that adjoins the pumpting station. Well, Mr. Busse, we take the hint.

Mumps! Mumps! Everywhere! . . . March came in fine, better get your seeds ready.

The First National Bank of Palatine has been accepted as a member of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Monday, the mail plane that goes over Palatine daily established a new air-mail record between Chicago and Minneapolis by making the trip in 2 hours and 23 minutes. This is the first time that no stop was made between these two cities.

ITASCA:

Moving Picture Show every Wednesday night at the new Itasca Village Hall . . . Chas. Speckman filled his ice houses this week.

A new department store is being erected on Center St.

Wm. F. Duntemann has taken to leaving the three lower buttons of his vest open. The Berghoff sure serves good sauerkraut and shanks.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

School children scouring the meadows for pussy willows, find the greed of past gatherers has killed out the supply. Take warning!

Two carloads of stock and implements arrive this week from Prairie Place, Wis., for A. H. Fessler, who occupies the old "Spring Lawn" place recently sold by Dr. Nichols.

Mrs. Marsh, who was appointed by the Woman's Club to direct the making of garments for the Armenians, has kindly opened her home each week for the workers to meet, and she has most generously and genially entertained them, serving tea and cakes and in every way making them welcome.

Miss Dawson, the district nurse, found the mother of three little children in the house nearest town on R. R. avenue, helplessly ill of tuberculosis. Her husband is caring for her and the little ones to the best of his ability. Kind neighbors will do well to remember them at this time!

30 Years Ago—Mar. 6, 1931

From Observer's Notes: The Chicago papers tell us there is going to be scores of people coming to the farms within the region around Chicago in the next few years. More and more people in business for themselves or employed in Chicago, are coming to realize the advantage of a country home, where they can come and go as they please with plenty of space about them.

The buds are swelling, tulips are pushing their noses farther and farther out of the soil. The air is full of the portent of spring. Our town is full of stirrings and plans for spring work. The potatoes sprout in the bins. Hens cackle and bring down the price of eggs. Let us count our mercies and be charitable in our judgments of the other fellow.

Miss Alice Kolling, sec., Miss Margaret Guenther, treas., Miss Emma Schroeder, librarian; Teacher Theodore Preuss, accompanist, and Mr. Landeck, director.

Joachim Hinz, resident of Arlington Heights for about sixty years, in the plastering and brick laying trades, passed away Feb. 28. Many A. H. homes contain the work of his hands; also plastering in St. Peter's church. For the past 28 years he has made his home with his son, Fred J. Hinz. A member of the A. H. police force. For the last fifteen years or so Mr. Hinz has been retired from active work. He died at 81 years, 8 months, and 27 days. He was born in Germany June 1, 1849, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pagel Hinz. At the age of four years he came with his family to an Elk Grove. He married Miss Mary Hinz of an unrelated family. His wife passed away Oct. 1, 1906 after nineteen years of invalidism. (A14

Will Union Organize Farm Workers?

2 Sides to Story Of Calif. Advance

A big question mark in farming is: will the AFL-CIO succeed in unionizing farm workers?

hTe Agricultural Workers Organizing committee, headed by Norman Smith, backed by George Meany and Walter Reuther, and supported by AFL-CIO funds is making headway in California.

Spadework has been done. Cadres of workers have been organized. Strikes have been called, resulting to a small extent in union victories.

California farm owners' groups are organized, too. The Farm bureau, Associated Farmers in California, and Council of California Growers have a network of action groups organized for the purpose of recruiting workers to go through picket lines and work the jobs. If insufficient labor is recruited locally, application will be made through the statewide organizations for help elsewhere.

AS CALIFORNIA goes so may go the rest of the nation.

To understand why California is a logical target for the big union drive in 1961, The Farm Quarterly magazine sent an editor-photographer team to visit camps on both sides of the issue. This is their documentary report.

Farm labor in California can be divided roughly into three categories: The first group of some 160,000 workers are hired on a year-round basis. Spokesmen for the growers claim the union has practically no members among this group. The union counters that some of its best organizers come from year-round employees.

The second group of approximately132,000 seasonal workers is vital to the kind of crops raised in California. This group consists of local people who work part-time, as individuals or families, plus a large collection of migratory laborers.

THIRD, ARE the Mexican nationals who come to the United States as a result of an agreement between the Mexican and U.S. governments, passed in 1952. Among other things, this agreement stipulates certain living and working conditions that must be provided for the Mexican worker; and as a protection for the American workers, provides that the Mexican worker will not compete with American workers either by working for less, or by filling jobs when the American workers are available and willing to work.

If it could, the union would do away with the Mexican national program. "We feel there are plenty of qualified workers here in the United States who can and would do this work if they were offered a decent wage for it," says Norman Smith.

John C. Newman, president of the Council of California Growers, counters, "People don't seem to realize that a lot of the work is skilled work, we are dependent for a large part of our labor force on 'winos' from skid row. If we couldn't use the Mexican worker a lot of us wouldn't be able to harvest our crops."

CALIFORNIA leads the nation in trend toward larger, more specialized farms. Her crops annually gross around $3-billion; she is one of the nation's leading cotton states; produces over 90 per cent of the U.S. total of a number of crops as apricots, grapes, plums, prunes, almonds and walnuts; and produces over a third of the nation's lettuce, asparagus, cantaloupes, carrots, celery, strawberries and tomatoes.

In at least 29 crops, California leads the nation and these high-value crops are tremendous users of hand labor. For example, a 200-acre cherry orchard must have 800 to 1,000 pickers for a critical three weeks to take the crop when it is ready. Such widely fluctuating labor requirements are filled by recruiting the second group — the seasonal workers.

An impersonal relationship exists between owner or manager and these workers because from week to week during the growing season a farm's payroll varies widely; and from day to day during the peak periods the labor crews change radically since the farm depends on labor contractors who may recruit an entirely different crew each day. This lack of any personal relationship between labor and management lessens the concern of the farmer for the welfare of the individual worker, and also lessens the loyalty of the worker for the farmer who hires him.

THE AWOC set up its headquarters in Stockton, California, and in 1960, 60 to 100 strikes were carried out.

The farmer is often completely dependent on the successful harvest of a single crop. Usually the crop is highly perishable. If the union strikes at this time they are demanding that the farmer bargain with a gun pointed straight at his head. If he refuses, and the strike continues, he may lose his entire income for the year. This creates an impossible situation.

To this, Norman Smith replies, "Anyone who thinks I'm going to strike a peach orchard at Christmas time is crazy. We have offered to bargain with farmers and farm associations well in advance of harvest. They have refused on the grounds that I don't represent any workers. I don't know a surer way of proving that I do than by pulling them off the job."

The growers, however, are counting on determined resistance in defeating this labor drive as they have defeated others in the past. They also look hopefully to increased mechanization to lessen the labor burden they face.

At this point, no one seems to be giving much thought to collective bargaining. As in most labor-management hassles, the party conspicious for his absence is the consumer.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

The University of Illinois, college of agriulture, has announced that its annual Swine Day will be held on the campus, March 28.

An area Swine Day will be held at the Lee county 4-H center, Amboy, April 5. Registration will be from 9:30 to 10 a. m. an dthe program will begin promptly at 10 a. m.

Reports of research, completed in the past year by the University of Illinois swine division, include studies with high-moisture corn, calcium content of the corn-soybean meal, fortified ration and the value of molasses in such a ration. Other topics include an up-to-date report on antibiotics in rations for growing pigs, the use of full fat soybean meal, gestation rations, the use of raised floors and value of hygromycin in the rations of bred gilts.

In addition to the research reports L. H. Simerl, University of Illinois agricultural economist will discuss the "Outlook for Hogs" at the close of the morning program.

A UNIVERSITY of Illinois livestock marketing specialist believes the shift from terminal to local hog marketing may bring some high marketing costs for Illinois hog producers.

Preparations are swinging into high gear at the university as the college of agriculture readies itself for another Farm and Home Festival. The festival which annually attracts nearly 15,000 farm and city people, is set for April 6, 7 and 8.

University of Illinois livestock specialists report that many cattle feeders are asking whether grinding or rolling high-moisture corn improves its feeding value.

Recent Illinois tests show that rolling or grinding distinctly improved wet corn stored in a conventional silo. Gains improved slightly, feed efficiency improved about 14 per cent and cost of gains was lowered by about $2 per hundred pounds.

Farmers are concerned about feeding high-moisture corn because of the tremendous amount of this corn harvested last fall.

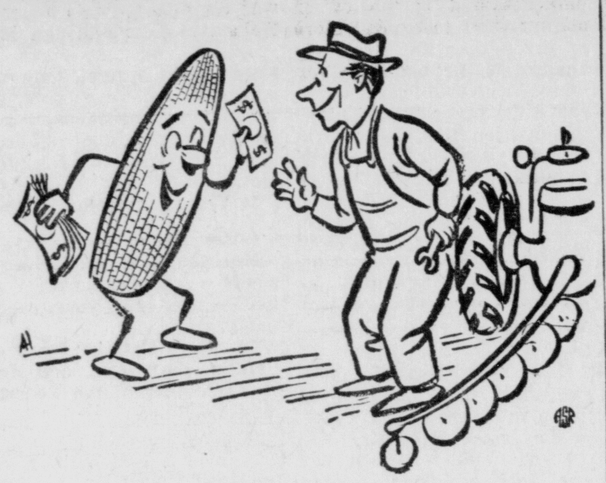
FARM PROFIT



Make $5 An Hour Growing Corn

You can earn $5 or more an hour in the cornfield if you follow the sound management practices used by today's top corn growers.

These farmers have junked old-fashioned horse-age methods in favor of big tractors and implements that make it possible to grow more corn in less time. And they use fertilizer, chemicals and other tools of modern farming to get big yields.

A Massey-Ferguson research report shows that a farmer who can grow 100 bushels of corn per acre with only nine hours of labor is earning $6.33 per hour. Corn was figured at $1.06 per bushel, and costs were $49 per acre. Fifty bushel yields at the same figures paid only 44¢ per hour.

Here are some of the practices used by farmers who make top wages in the cornfield:

Buy the Best Seed. Corn yield studies show there is often a yield difference of 20 to 30 bushels or more per acre between top and lower yielding hybrids. It's enough to cut costs 25¢ to 30¢ per bushel.

Shoot for Thick Stands. For maximum yields, it's necessary to have good stands. Populations of 15,000 to 17,000 per acre are about right for average corn soils.

Cut Down on Tillage. Too much tillage increases machinery costs, fuel and labor. Each unnecessary disking, harrowing, or cultivation costs $1.25 per acre.

Keep Fields Large. Big fields improve machinery efficiency and cut tillage costs. Time required to work an acre of corn is less for a 100 acre field if it is divided into two 50 acre or four 25 acre fields.

Harvest All the Corn. Many corn growers leave as much as a fifth of their crop in the field after picking. Top producers begin picking corn as soon as it can be safely stored.

Applications of Nitrogen In Winter are Successful

Winter applications of nitrogen often give yields equal to those from spring or summer applications, according to L. T. Kurtz, University of Illinois agronomist.

In five of seven experiments in northern Illinois, nitrogen response was similar regardless of time of application and kind of nitrogen used. However, one of the main drawbacks to early application is that available forms of nitrogen readily disappear from some soils.

Kurtz said that every pound of nitrogen fertilizer will not necessarily appear in the crop or stay in the soil until the crop is ready for it. At high nitrogen levels there are oft-at that time. (Fm

The scientist tested winter, spring and summer applications of fertilizers with two different forms of nitrogen, ammonium sulfate and nitrate.

Kurtz found that winter applications of nitrogen, regardless of the form used, work well on moderately heavy soils in northern Illinois. However, winter applications should not be made on sandy or poorly drained soils.

Many farmers like to apply fertilizer during the winter because it helps distribute the work load throughout the year. Also, some fertilizer dealers offer reduced prices

Home Bureau Sponsors Art Show

The first Home Extension art show, sponsored by the Cook County Home Bureau, was held in the Lyonsville Congregational church February 20 with 87 entries from Cook and DuPage counties. The Home Bureau plans to make this program an annual affair.

Ten entries were chosen to represent Cook county at the Spring Festival at the University of Illinois April 6, 7 and 8. The festival will also have displays on the latest information pertaining to all phases of living. It is open to the public with no charge.

There are tours of the campus for the 4-H boys and girls interested in taking home economics and agriculture at the university as well as other subjects. (FM

Rose Pukszta Re-Elected Wheeling Unit Chairman

Mrs. Rose Mary Pukszta was re-elected chairman of the Wheeling unit of the Cook County Home Bureau for 1961. Mrs. Rose Blanc was named vice chairman; Mrs. Frances Mack, secretary; and Mrs. Ruby Gans will serve another term as treasurer.

One of the charter members of the unit, Mrs. Emma Grewe, officiated at the installation of the officers at the meeting held February 23.

A BLUE RIBBON award for prompt payment of dues, participating in 4-H club work, being 100 per cent in assigned duties and sending in monthly reports was again received by the unit.

Mrs. Pukszta accepted the award at the 20th annual meeting of the Cook County Home Bureau units which met January 24 in the Old Spinning Wheel in Hinsdale.

THE UNIT has been very active in crafts. On February 13 Mrs. Mary Reed gave a lesson in her home on rug braiding. At the February 23 meeting held in the Federal Savings and Loan building in Arlington Heights, Mrs. Claradehl Upham, home advisor, gave a lesson on meals.

On February 27 the group returned to crafts when Mrs. Gladys Henry gave the third sewing lesson dealing with pattern study in the nome of Mrs. Ruth Adkisson. Hostesses were Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. H. Horath and Miss L. Redeker.

HAT MAKING day has been planned for March 6 at Mrs. Elsie Stockfisch's when the ladies get together to learn how to make Easter bonnets. Mrs. Henry will again be instructor.

Cl 5-4550 is the number to call for those interested in learning more about the bureau. (FM

Publish New Report Forms For Tenants, Landlords

A new book of report forms to aid crop-share tenants and their landlords has just been published by the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

The book provides the crop-share tenant with five report forms to be used during the year to keep his landlord informed of what is happening on the farm.

F. J. Reiss, associate professor of agricultural economics, prepared the book. He points out that regular reports, good business practices and prompt financial settlements help promote good relations between landlord and tenant.

The informed landlord takes more interest and has a better basis for making improvements and sound decisions. Tenants who can make accurate and timely reports earn the confidence of the landlord, he said.

THE FIRST report form is really a planning form to be completed by landlord and tenant working together. It shows the acreage planned for each crop, seed needs and the proposed fertility program for the year. The form also provides a place to suggest needed improvements, such as buildings, fences or tiling.

The next three forms, prepared by April 15, August 15 and December 31, are primarily financial reports. They provide spaces to show items for which the tenant owes the landlord and the landlord owes the tenant. There is also space to report conditions of growing crops, yields on crops harvested and needed repairs.

In the fifth and final report, due at the end of the year, the tenant reports crop yields, production and inventories of the landlord's crops on hand.

The report-form book has a three-year supply of the five forms used each year. Original copies are perforated for easy removal to send to the landlord. Carbon paper is supplied along with duplicate forms so that the tenant can keep a copy of each report he sends.

Copies of the new book can be secured for $1 through your farm advisor's office, 201 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights.

Home Bureau Women Learn Meal Planning

"Plan Your Meals Ahead" was the lesson of the month presented to the Elk Grove Home Bureau unit which met in the home of Mrs. Ted DePalma, Roselle, February 22. Mrs. Claradehl Upham gave the lesson.

Boysville, a home for boy in Clinton, Mich., is collecting any type of trading stamps in order to purchase two badly needed school buses. Any member or friends of the unit having any stamps are requested to send or give them to Mrs. Clarence Heinkel, Algonquin rd., Arlington Heights.

The unit purchased 25 song books which contain the favorite songs of the units in the state. Songs will be sung at the meetings as added recreation.

Mrs. Fred Busse of Mt. Prospect will be the next resident hostess March 22. She will also be a dessert hostess along with Mrs. Marvin Busse and Mrs. Wallace Busse. (FM

Fertilizer Use By Homeowners Rises

The desire to have an attractive lawn like their neighbors is stimulating more and more home owners to use fertilizers.

James Fizzell, assistant farm adviser reports that about 45 per cent of all home owners use fertilizer on their lawns. On the average they used about 51 pounds last year. The average home lawn measures about 4,000 square feet, and the average fertilizer application runs a little over 12 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

The 43,136,000 home owners applying fertilizer used almost 1.1 million tons last year, Fizzell said. The fertilizer industry has become aware of this growing market for its products off the farm. It has been estimated that 15 per cent of all fertilizer sold in 1960 was applied for uses outside the traditional farm use.

Research is needed to find out more about the relationships between fertilizing and diseases and the best way to maintain healthy turf areas, such as in lawns, parks, golf courses, school grounds, cemeteries and airports. Such studies are now being conducted by many land grant colleges.

Can Still Apply for Cost Sharing in DuPage County

The DuPage county agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASC) office announces that it will continue to accept requests for ACP cost sharing.

Although the specific sign-up was from January 2 to 31, funds are still available for additional applications.

Eligible practices include limestone, rock phosphate, sod waterways, terraces, diversions, farm ponds, tile outlets, contouring, pasture development, green manure seeding, tree planting and planting and drainage ditches.

For more information, persons are invited to stop at the ASC office, 490 Main st., West Chicago.

FARMERS interested in price support for their corn are reminded that corn loan applications will be accepted until May 15. Purchase agreements will be sold through May 31. Moisture requirements for ear corn during spring months for a seven-foot crib are: February, 21 per cent; March, 19.5 per cent; April, 18 per cent; May, 16 per cent.

Wool growers and lamb feeders are reminded that March 31 marks the close of the 1960 wool program. April 30 is the last day to file an application for incentive payments on wool and unshorn lambs sold between April 1, 1960 and March 31, 1961.

Jack E. Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern L. Griffith of 308 West Center st., Itasca, received an Honorman Certificate and engraved plaque during the Recruit Graduation Review February 10 at the Recruit Training Command, U.S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. The presentation was made by the Reviewing Official, George R. Cain, president, Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago.

Griffith was selected Honorman of his recruit company by his instructors, Company Commander and "shipmates." He was selected on the basis of high initiative, outstanding military bearing, leadership ability, immaculate appearance, pride in the Navy, religious interests, civic contributions, adaptability to military training and because he best expressed a high example to "comrades in arms."

Following a 14-day recruit leave, the young bluejacket will become a student at Machinist Mate School, Class "A", Great Lakes.

Equal Jobs Action Is Must for State

"Lip service is out this year," declares Dr. L. H. Holman, Illinois president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The state NAACP head was referring to the statewide campaign being launched for passage of a fair employment practices law in " . . . the last great industrial state without a fair employment act outlawing discriminatory job practices."

Discrimination in hiring has left the Negro the only group untouched by the current business slump, the NAACP chief contended.

"Joblessness and depressed areas are nothing new to the Negro in Illinois," he pointed out. "Negro living standards have been depressed for too long in this state—with or without a recession."

FINDINGS of a statewide survey, Holman said, show that in Chicago 98 per cent of the job orders placed by companies bar qualified nonwhites from office jobs.

Religious as well as racial bias was discovered in this category, he added. Twenty per cent of the Windy City companies rejected applicants of the Catholic and Jewish faiths as well as various nationality groups.

"Our survey shows similar conditions exist in all parts of the state — Bloomington, Aurora, East St. Louis, Granite City."

HOLMAN SAID unemployment is running two to three times higher among Negro citizens than among white citizens, and that recessions intensify discriminatory job practices. "Public assistance rolls are climbing because of joblessness among Negroes," he stated.

To counteract these trends, the Illinois NAACP has launched a fair employment practices button campaign, with 11,000 persons who will wear buttons in support of the drive.

A statewide FEPC task force committee plans to: 1) continue to meet with employers to investigate company job practices; 2) identify discriminatory companies; 3) meet with local chambers of commerce and labor federation leaders to seek their cooperation for FEPC; 4) enlist active participation and support of government officials; 5) seek the help of citizens, church and civic groups, and human relations councils.

GARNISHMENTS and wage assignments are also increasing because Negroes are not now able to meet installment payments, due to these practices, Holman observed.

"More than 150 NAACP leaders from every part of the state have resolved to mobilize the one million Negroes in Illinois into a program of concerted action to outlaw job discrimination," he noted.

"Negroes are tired of 'blue-chip' double-talk and promises by politicians and by leaders in labor and industry," he asserted. (A-14
